Summary: Missing Persons Squad have to solve the case of a 28-year-old female marketing executive who appears to have simply walked away from every thing in her life, having left everything of hers behind. She was last seen by her doorman on the night that she vanished, her apartment appears to be intact with even her purse and cell phone left behind in her apartment. Her parents and co-workers reveal that she is a hard worker, and that she is a loner and had just been dumped by a married co-worker with whom she had an affair. A security tape from her apartment building shows her walking away into the night. Jack fears that she is lost forever until a ransom note appears on her mother’s email list demanding a million dollars for her safe return.

A young woman is talking with a man on the street; as she leaves, she walks into her apartment building, where she’s seen by the doorman – and vanishes. In a voice off, we hear Jack Malone telling his team that that was the last time she was ever seen. Her name is Maggie Cartwright and she’s a marketing executive.

The FBI Missing Persons team – Jack Malone, Samantha Spade, Danny Taylor and Vivian Johnson – meet a police detective at Maggie’s apartment, and start gathering information about her. It appears she left the place suddenly, leaving everything behind, and there’s no evidence of where she might be going. There are some sings she’d be interested in India and Nepal. Her last call was to her mother, a bit after 11pm. After that, there was only a 32-second call to a man called Tom Wilkins.

At headquarters, as they are rehashing what little they have on Maggie, a new team member arrives: Martin Fitzgerald. Jack explains to Martin how they work: from the inside out. "Once we find out who she is, we find out where she is", he states. The first 48 hours, he adds, are crucial in missing persons cases.

Since the doorman who last saw Maggie has a record, and has been in jail for dealing drugs, Danny goes talk to him. Malone and Fitzgerald head to Maggie’s office and talk to her boss, who praises her and her work. He also stresses she kept "her personal life personal". Samantha interviews Maggie’s mother at her house. Her daughter was there the night she disappeared, and they had a bit of a disagreement over color samples. Knowing Maggie called her mother after getting home that night, Samantha inquires why she did: the call was to make a color suggestion. The Missing Persons team must find out what Maggie did between the time she got out of a train, coming from her mother’s, at 9:15, and the time she got home at 10:47.
As Martin is getting into Maggie’s office computer, Jack finds a picture of her with a man. Danny calls Jack to tell him the doorman revealed there was a man who used to come see Maggie, and who was there the night she disappeared. According to his description, that’s not the guy in the picture.

Vivian manages to locate Tom Wilkins – he’s in London. He’s also the guy with Maggie in the picture. Meanwhile, Maggie’s emails lead Jack and Martin to Brian Daugherty, a co-worker – who is the guy described by the doorman. He claims they had broken up the affair long before that night. His alibi: he was in Philadelphia.

An FBI technician tells Jack Maggie’s hard drive had been formatted two weeks before, wiping out all the information. The company technician confirms it, and tells Martin it was Maggie herself who asked to have the hard disk reformatted. What was she trying to hide?

Malone and Sam go see Maggie’s father – who is absolutely sure his daughter is fine and will soon come back. According to him, she tells him everything. But Samantha doesn’t like that he’s broke and taking his daughter to expensive restaurants. She thinks the father treats Maggie as if she was his mistress, and there might be something wrong happening between them. This prompts Jack to say Maggie’s a role player: “Everyone we talk to, we see a different Maggie.”

Looking at footage from the security camera in Maggie’s alley, Danny finds something. It seems she left the building with a backpack at 2:32 am. She sneaked out of her own apartment, without her wallet and her keys. “It doesn’t make sense”, complains Samantha. “Nothing in this case does”, retorts Vivian.

As they worry time is passing, Jack starts thinking Maggie might be considering suicide, since she’s such a lonely person. Things then suffer a drastic change: her mother receives a ransom note. Each agent goes after their favorite suspect. Vivian’s account of Maggie’s financials indicates a drug habit, sending Danny after the doorman again. Martin pursues the ex-lover Brian. Samantha visits Maggie’s father once more. Vivian places her bets on Tom Wilkins. The money trail seems to point in Wilkins’ direction, but when he returns to New York it becomes clear he’s innocent. The others seem to be clear too.

Wilkins then brings about a new clue: Maggie told him she was doing cocaine with “someone from work”. Searching for guys who work at Maggie’s company who also have booked flights leaving the country, Vivian finds out the computer technician, Bartholomew Higgins, has bought a ticket to London – with a Nepal connection. Martin and Danny look for him at the office, but they fail to find him. Martin ends up going to Bart’s place all by himself.

When the FBI and the police enter the place, they find Martin knocked out on the floor; Maggie’s tied up in the bath, and Bart’s gone. The kidnaper is arrested soon after, trying to run.

Maggie tells Jack and Samantha that Bart turned on her when he found she was planning to go to Nepal alone. All she wanted to do, she claims, was to get away from everything for a while. Jack reveals to her Bart was already wanted for murder. Maggie’s impulse to leave almost got her killed.
A father is taking his son to a Yankees game as an 11th birthday present. They get separated at the train station, and the son disappears. The next morning, the Missing Persons Squad is called into the case. Bob, the father, claims his son Gabe is not having any problems, and would have no reason to run away.

After his stunt in the last case, Martin is assigned office duty, and told to check all the sightings and phone calls. As the checking goes, they find a scalper who bought and sold Gabe’s ticket. The kid must have used the money to go somewhere.

At school, his teacher tells the squad Gabe reacted strangely to the Happy Birthday song and cake his colleagues tried to offer him. Still appalled Gabe’s run away, his mother admits he might be upset about his new baby sister and their moving – they’ve moved just six months before.

A skateboard found in Gabe’s room leads Jack and Danny to some place on the West Side with loading docks where kids go skateboarding. A teenager there tells them Gabe had been there the day he disappeared, and had left with everybody else around 9 pm.

A call to the Bureau leads the squad to Port Authority – but they only find Gabe’s jacket, with blood on the sleeve. The boy wearing it swears he found it in the garbage. Jack goes back to the parents’ to get samples for a DNA test. Danny looks for the youngster who told them about Gabe’s arrival at the loading docks. This kid, Wally, eventually admits Gabe left with some guys who were going to “mess up with some Koreans”.

Samantha investigates a cybercafé near Port Authority where Gabe was also seen. Martin discovers the Korean deli owner the kid was talking about and Danny goes talk to him. The deli owner tells Danny Gabe had been there with a bunch of others; he tried to lift some snacks, the shop owner grabbed him and he struggled. When they fell, the Korean hurt his head and passed out. Gabe must have thought he had killed the man.

At Port Authority, Vivian learns Gabe tried to buy a ticket to Texas. The email he sent from the cybercafé asking for help was addressed to “Dad” – what brings the suspicion right back to the parents. "If he was in trouble, why didn't he come to us", wonders the mother. "He did", Jack states. "He sent an email to his father." Bob denies it vehemently, and his wife suddenly understands. Gabe found his biological father – he's adopted, a small detail the parents had failed to tell the FBI.

As it turns out, Gabe's biological father has died three years before. He was talking to someone else – someone who lives in Texas, and is probably a pedophile. Tracking child tickets bought that night, they find Gabe – in Santa Fe. Intercepting a message exchange between the boy and "Dad", they learn they are meeting at a park in Santa Fe. Jack flies there with Danny and Martin – his good work on the case got him "out of the doghouse" and back in the field. They set up a trap at Gabe and "Dad"'s meeting place. When the pedophile tries to run, Martin tackles him into the lake. Gabe is safely returned to his parents. Case closed.

Production Code: 175662
Summary: Jack and the team search for a pregnant woman, Kathy Dobson, who disappears from a hospital before being told that she has serious complications. As the detectives race against time to find Kathy, their investigation gradually reveals that Kathy’s seemingly happy life actually hasn’t been going very well. She is eight-and-a-half months pregnant and, under the tight control of her husband Paul, has withdrawn from her family and friends. Paul’s brother Ritchie, who has been following Kathy and providing Paul with addresses she visits, lists a woman who may be affiliated with an “underground railroad” that helps battered women. When the team members find the woman, they learn that she has been assaulted by Paul—but she still refuses to lead them to Kathy.

Summary: The team find themselves up against the ropes as multiple mysteries arise in the case of a boxer. Dante Jones disappears moments before a bout with a $500,000 purse that could have made him a title contender. Jack suspects it's a stunt, but Vivian, a Jones fan, can't believe that the charity-loving, straight-arrow fighter would go down that low road. The search goes in a new direction when his younger brother, whom he is always bailing out of trouble, vanishes. Then it's learned he has made 2 million dollars in the past five years, but he only has $6000 in his bank account.

When a female ex-cop-turned-bounty-hunter is shot and goes missing, the team must investigate her whereabouts.
Eric Miller seems like the average twelve-year-old, but the clues found at the scene suggest that he may have been abducted. After the team learns about a picture circulating of Eric in an embarrassing position, they begin to wonder if there was any foul play intended at all, and the words of the school guidance counselor only seem to point in that direction.
It's been four years since eighteen-year-old Jessica Rabb went missing. Thanks to Vivian's constant determination to find the young woman, a new lead reveals sordid details about the missing woman's sexual history. From sex fetishes to cults, Jessica is left with only one question: is there any way she can possibly turn her life around?
When a young soldier recently returned from Iraq disappears, Jack and Danny look into his disappearance only to learn that the soldier may have more secrets than they want to uncover.

Summary: After postal worker Rosie Diaz goes missing during what seemed to be a regular workday, the team initially connects her disappearance to her cargo, which include $12,000 worth of the game Demon Storm, which all the kids were after. But when the team gets in touch with child protective services, they learn that Rosie recently had her foster children taken away after an anonymous abuse call. A search of her home uncovers a DVD containing child pornography, and the team starts to look at the case from another angle. Danny comments on Martin and Sam's obvious closeness, and wonders why they're keeping it quiet. Vivian learns that she has hypertrophic cardiomyopathy and will require surgery.

Seven years ago, a thirteen-year-old girl named Amber Bryce went missing, and suspicion fell on her boyfriend, then-seventeen-year-old Curtis Horne. When Daisy Thorpe, who had become obsessed with getting justice for Amber’s death, also ends up missing, the team is called in to investigate. While Martin and Danny work from the office, Sam and Jack work in the field, starting their investigation with the local cleric, Amber’s father, and trying to find out why Curtis Horne has stayed in town all these years. While Vivian is home having troubles with Reggie, Martin makes a decision about his relationship with Sam.

Summary:
Paige was last seen sneaking out of her office at the same time as an NYPD detective was asking her boss to direct him to Paige for a routine inquiry. To the team’s surprise, the NYPD detective turns out to have been an imposter, causing them to question why Paige chose to run from this mystery man, what he wanted – and if he caught up with her. Further investigation uncovers that the seemingly upstanding and socially conscious Paige was involved in a lucrative identity theft ring with close ties to a terrorist on a watch list who was recently seen in New York with her. Meanwhile, the remaining team members are gravely concerned about Vivian, who is undergoing open-heart surgery on that very day.
Season Four
There were three guys shooting at Martin and Danny, one of which was Emil Dornvald, formerly part of General Gamba’s security detail. Martin put the car in gear and tried to drive away, but crashed, and he and Danny were knocked out. Then, Adisa got out of the car and Dornvald shot him numerous times. Then Danny woke up and got out and started shooting back. He shot the driver, and the other guy had gotten hit by their car, so he was down too. Then Dornvald got in the van and drove off. Then Danny went back to the car and saw that Martin was shot.

Jack arrives on the scene, where the paramedics are working on Martin, who is laying on the ground, unconscious. Danny is right beside him. The EMS guys are trying to work, and Jack asks how long Martin’s been unconscious. Danny’s freaking out and is just kind of talking really fast and interfering with the paramedics, so Jack tells him to let the do their job and pulls him aside. Danny keeps on about how Martin’s lost a lot of blood but Jack notices he’s bleeding too, so tells him he needs to go to the hospital and get checked out. Danny doesn’t want to though, but says they’re going to “kill this guy”. Jack tells him the best thing to do is go with Martin to the hospital, get checked out, so he can come back and work the case. So he does. Jack’s been pretty calm this whole time, but it’s clear he’s worried cause when he asks the paramedics where they will take him, and tells them to take Martin to a different hospital than the one they had intended because the second hospital has a better trauma center.

Then Sam shows up and asks what is going on. Jack tells her about Martin, but asks her to be focused, and she says okay. Jack “talks” to the shooter who got hit by the car and asks him where Dornvald is, and the guy says “Valhalla.” We later find out that that’s the name of Dornvald’s boat in Thailand.

At the hospital, the docs stabilize Martin enough to take him into surgery, but he’s there for most of the episode. We don’t hear much more about his condition until the end of the eppy.
But, as for Danny, the doc wants to keep him overnight because of the injury (from the crash) to his head. They don’t actually say it, but I think he skips out, cause the next time we see him, he’s reporting for duty to Jack, but I don’t think the doc ever released him. Anyway, he and Jack go looking for a hooker that Dornvald’s been seeing. When they get to her apartment, they find her roommate dead. The girl comes in and talks to them about Dornvald. (He used an alias with her, but I don’t remember what it was) Anyway, they check flights going out, and that name had booked a flight to Thailand, but had missed it.

Meanwhile, two things had happened. One, Victor Fitzgerald had showed up, and was blaming Jack for Martin’s condition. He was pretty emotional, so Jack pretty much took it in stride. Also, the guy who (I think) took over after Gamba, Nuru, wouldn’t cooperate with Jack. Jack thinks he had a part in the ambush, but the State Department doesn’t want him to harass him because Mutamba is a US ally. Anyway, we find out that Nuru really was behind it, and had tried to kill Dornvald when he tried to receive his payment for the hit. Dornvald had gotten shot and took a doctor hostage at a clinic to get the bullet out, but Danny and Jack show up, and Dornvald tries to shoot at them through the door. Danny loses it with Dornvald so close, and shoots through the door, even though the doctor’s still in there. Dornvald gets away, and Jack sends Danny back to the office because that was so stupid.

Meanwhile, the Mutamba Government has offered to give the FBI Dornvald, if they will give them Paige to stand trial in Mutamba. Jack objects, but Paige agrees because she wants them to get Dornvald, since he killed Adisa. But then, Dornvald kidnaps Nuru’s son and he and Jack have a shootout, and Dornvald is killed. Victor tells Jack he was sorry for blaming him, and Jack understands. We find out from Victor that Martin’s vitals are improving, and that the US will get Paige back, since Nuru was in on the plot.

The eppy ends with Sam in Martin’s hospital room. She says she’s sorry she didn’t come sooner, but she didn’t want to see him like that (hurt). She says she knows she hasn’t always been there for him, but that she would be until he was better.

Summary: The team searches for a missing teenager who was obsessed with the safety of his school after losing a parent and watching the towers on 9/11 fall. Martin and Vivian both return from medical leave. Jack seems to be feeling protective of his staff and loses his temper when Danny puts himself in the way of unnecessary harm.

When a teen goes missing the team comes across a plan he had to make and plant a bomb to prove to his school that security is lacking. During the investigation Jack learns that encounters with an old friend at school may have caused the teen to change his plans for the bomb.

Martin returns from his 6 week medical leave after being attacked during the transporting of a prisoner. Vivian has also returned in this episode after her heart surgery last season.

Jack becomes hard on Danny and refuses to let Vivian back out on the field. It appears to be from a sense of protection for his staff. He is unwilling to allow anyone to take any unnecessary risks no matter how small the potential for danger.

Summary: Jack finds himself in the hotseat when a young white woman and a young black man, go missing on the same night and Jack is ordered to put more of the team's resources into finding the young woman.

At first, Vivian and Samantha were on the case of the black boy, but Jack was ordered to put Samantha on the white girl's case with Elena, leaving only Vivian. Jack wanted to make both cases equal and receive an equal amount of attention and people working on it, but orders from the top ordered that he put more members of his staff on the girl's case, despite his noticeable disapproval on the idea.

A News Reporter and his crew came in wanting the story of the young girl, and while Jack demanded that they also do the boy's story, it didn't happen. Even when the reporter agreed, something conveniently came up after the girl's story was broadcast and it was cancelled.

As things go along, emotions are high and everyone is frustrated, some with each other. They find out that the girl's boyfriend tried to sell her virginity to a man, but it didn't go over well and the girl bailed. Meanwhile, Vivian discovers that the boy was meeting his long lost father every night for the past couple of weeks or so, and had recently also tried to sell a burned CD on school campus, but when the seller decided to bail on the idea, and wanted his money back (which was a couple grand) he wouldn't give him his money.

Towards the end of the episode, Vivian finds that the boy's father had passed away at the apartment he was staying at, and when the boy came to visit him, he found him dead in his bed (his father had been ill).

At the very end of the episode, Jack is told by Samantha that one child is alive, and one is dead. Jack calls Elena, and she verifies that the body they found was a positive match. The two mothers are sitting at the end of the hall, and it's a long walk for Jack as he approaches them to tell one the good news, and one the news that will forever change her life.
After attorney Jennifer Nichols disappears, the team investigates the last few days in her life and soon find that she had grown disillusioned with her most recent relationship with Allen Davis. Discussions with a married ex-lover reveal that Nichols had recently gone through an old case file relating to a ten-year-old bank robbery, which has a connection to her recent relationship. Jack and Ann avoid discussing a recent development in their relationship – her pregnancy.
Season Five
In a dark room somewhere, a boy tries to convince another, smaller one to run away with him. Someone is coming. Frightened, the older boy breaks a window, cutting his hand in the process, and urges the little one to come with him, but the boy is too scared. As the angry voice gets louder and the door is pounded, the older kid escapes through the window. Running aimlessly through the night, he is found by a police officer. At first, all he talks about is a little boy that has been abducted.

The FBI is brought into the case. Samantha talks to the boy, 12 year-old Bryan Parker, who tells them about the smaller boy, Todd, brought home by his father a few days before. They find the apartment empty. Bryan tells Samantha his dad “likes boys”. He also doesn’t have either friends or family. Jack searches Randall Parker’s apartment, looking for clues of where might Parker be, with little results. A phone call made by Randall leads to Bryan’s school, where they learn “problems at home” were starting to affect Bryan’s behavior, but Randall was able to keep the good father act.

Samantha has Bryan look through snapshots of missing kids, and he finds “Todd”: his name is Daniel Ellison, and he was taken 10 days before from a carnival in Pennsylvania. Bryan’s school file info turns out to be bogus: Parker assumed a new identity seven years before.

As the search goes on, they find Parker’s van, and discover a witness who saw Daniel alive. A blood test leads to the discovery that Bryan is not Parker’s son, either; he must have been taken years before, just like Daniel. Bryan has little or no memory of it.

Looking at a picture, Daniel’s father remembers seeing Randall Parker the day his son went missing, on a park trail. Following the clue, Danny and Eric find the body of a small boy. As it turns out, it’s an earlier victim of Randall’s; Bryan admits to knowing Randall had killed him.

Tracing Randall’s phone calls, they find Sarah Pratt in Pennsylvania. She turns out to be Randall’s cousin – his real name is Robert Pratt. Talking to her, the FBI team learns of a trailer down the road where Randall stayed once, and they track him there. Things don’t turn out as expected though: upon realizing he’s been found, Randall kills himself. The FBI and the local police search the grounds nearby, and finally find the place where he hid Daniel.

Quite by chance, Jack finds something scratched on the wood planks used to build Daniel’s hideout: it’s the same house Bryan keeps drawing, and it’s signed Max. Five-year-old Max was thought dead by drowning seven years before. Nobody knew he had been taken. Relieved to see there was a chance of hope for the boy, Samantha takes Bryan, now Max, to finally meet his mother.

Eating Away

Season 5
Episode Number: 107
Season Episode: 13

Originally aired: Sunday January 14, 2007 on CBS
Writer: David H. Goodman, Alicia Kirk
Director: Martha Mitchell
Show Stars: Roselyn Sanchez (Elena Delgado (Seasons 4-)), Poppy Montgomery (Samantha Spade), Eric Close (Martin Fitzgerald), Marianne Jean-Baptiste (Vivian Johnson), Enrique Murciano (Danny Taylor), Anthony LaPaglia (Jack Malone)
Recurring Role: Adriana DeMeo (Lucy)

Summary: Barry Rosen goes missing shortly after being poisoned with bleach in a chili eating contest. While investigating Barry’s disappearance, the team soon learns that he had been approached to throw the eating contest, and also that he had been spending a lot of time with a local prostitute in an effort to learn how to act around women. Danny is caught in the middle when Carlos asks him for a letter of reference in an upcoming custody review, and Elena informs him that Carlos is actually suing her for sole custody of Sofie. Danny warns Carlos that he is not going to be caught in the middle.

Barry Rosen, 26, seems to live a quiet life with his brother, Stu, in the house they both grew up in. Part of a computer generation in which relationships evolve over online posting instead of traditional human interactions, Barry’s kept the world at a distance. That’s until recently, when Barry turned a natural gift for eating into success as a competitive eater. This has finally given him the confidence to start coming out of his shell. And it’s at one of these competitions, after winning Tony’s Famous Chili Contest, that Barry vanishes...

When our agents enter the case, they are skeptical that Barry’s involvement in competitive eating could have gotten him into trouble. But a Reporter who wrote about Barry gives us a lead: Barry backed out of a scheme to throw the chili-eating match. As our agents investigate the case, it takes a startling turn when they learn about Barry’s relationship with a prostitute, Ivy, and then her pimp turns up dead. Did Barry’s love for Ivy drive him to murder? The answer is no, and what’s more, we learn that Barry wasn’t in love with Ivy at all. Struggling for self-acceptance, he hired Ivy to teach him how to be with women because he’d fallen in love with the reporter, Val. Realizing she can’t fully love him until he learns to love and understand himself, Barry’s feelings for Val may have set him on a mission to confront a dark... secret he shared with his brother, Stu. And confronting the secret may have ultimately caused his downfall.

Summary: The team searches for missing water plant supervisor Jason Turner, and learn that he had become the target of a lot of anger after recent layoffs at the plant. Carlos comes to the office looking for Elena.

The New York City Wastewater Treatment System exists in the dark dank catacombs deep beneath the city streets. These tunnels are worked by tough blue-collar men, however, recent budget cuts and the looming specter of privatization are forcing these men out of work. Facility manager, Jason Hill, has the unenviable task of executing these forced lay-offs. It’s made him a lot of enemies among the rank and file. When he informs a WORKER (54) of his dismissal things get nasty. The pathetic severance package is an insult to a man who has given thirty-three years of his life to the job. Jason agrees, but these orders come from above. The worker flies into a rage and security drags him out leaving Jason alone and dejected. Then, he vanishes.

Initially, our agents believe his disappearance is related to the lay-offs. They question several former employees, each with an axe to grind, but our investigation soon takes a turn when we discover Jason Hill is not who he says he is. His real name is Jason Turner, and until two years ago he’d been living in Arizona. Is this a man who simply wanted a fresh start? Or is Jason hiding and if so why? As our team works the case from New York, two agents travel to Arizona to find out Jason’s true identity. After peeling back the layers of Jason’s life, a portrait emerges of a working-class young man once living a normal life in Arizona. But two years ago something changed. As the investigation deepens, we uncover Jason’s role in a desperate crime that turned violent. Since then, Jason has worked hard to blend into his new life. But when we uncover a mysterious trip home, it becomes clear that Jason’s old life has come back to haunt him. Did Jason’s past finally catch up with him? Or is there someone he simply could not leave behind? One thing is certain: That mysterious trip home set in motion a dangerous chain of events that will force Jason to reconcile his violent past once and for all.
Elena is frantic when her daughter Sofie goes missing, and the team has a full schedule as they must also search for a missing female tourist named Jenny.

Crash and Burn

Season 5
Episode Number: 115
Season Episode: 21

Mark O’Neil watches the sunrise outside his kitchen window, apprehensive about the day of work ahead. His girlfriend, Meg, tells him not to worry – it’s just a day like many others. He promises to be home for dinner and leaves. A few hours later we find Mark wearing a security guard uniform, patrolling a loading dock. Mark investigates an abandoned truck and as he opens the door, BOOM!!! The truck explodes and Mark bursts into flame. He flounders, on fire, and falls to the ground. Assistants converge with fire extinguishers and we reveal Mark is a stunt man on a movie set. As he walks away from the stunt to crew applause, Mark vanishes...

Our Agents arrive on the scene and get word that shortly before his disappearance Mark had an argument with another stunt man, Jimmy, who was bumped from the fire gig when Mark called in a favor to get himself hired for the job. Digging further, we discover that Mark got Jimmy fired from a previous job for drinking and he’s had trouble working since. Did Jimmy retaliate? Or, did an enemy from Mark’s past come back to settle a score? Meg says Mark used to be a philandering hothead but changed his ways after a motocross accident seriously injured his best friend, Hugh a year ago. The investigation seems to hit a dire dead end when we find Mark’s car, abandoned and set ablaze. But when our agents locate a recently changed will and testament in which Mark leaves everything in his estate to Hugh, we look closer – did Hugh kill his friend to get the money? Or was Mark struggling to cope with a desperate request from Hugh? As we wade into the secrets of this friendship, we uncover the tragic irony that Mark’s survivor’s guilt may have ultimately led to his disappearance.

Summary: The four-year-old adopted son of a celebrity couple is kidnapped, and the team must determine if the reason has to deal with the parents’ status or the boy’s own Sudanese origin.

When Elijah, a 2-year-old boy who was adopted from Sudan disappears from his home, Malone’s team questions whether the abduction is connected to the parents’ celebrity or the boy’s native country. The agents quickly learn that there is no shortage of suspects: the couple’s wealth and celebrity status have made them the target of endless swindlers and stalkers. This reality becomes even more chilling when agents find evidence that someone has been hiding in the crawlspace of the family’s home, monitoring their every move. Was Elijah taken for ransom, or was he abducted by a stalker with more deranged motives? The investigation turns when the team discovers that Elijah’s disappearance may be rooted in his home country’s violent past. Malone’s team must thus delve into the tight-knit and mysterious community of refugees known as the Lost Boys of the Sudan. Will Elijah disappear into a community of refugees? Or worse, will he become another innocent victim of the cycle of violence that has swept up so many of his brethren?

Summary: The team considers if a father who cleans crime scenes for a living led to his disappearance with his daughter.

When crime scene cleanup expert Leo Cutler and his unhappy 18-year-old daughter, Hannah, disappear from their home, the agents wonder whether any of Leo’s clients are involved. Further investigation reveals that Leo needed money and had been working clandestinely cleaning up bloody messes for a drug cartel. Once an informant from the cartel testifies that Leo was desperate to find a hit man to help him with a “personal” problem, the investigation switches away from Leo’s business and back to his family. When Hannah is found dead in a forest, the agents discover that, earlier in the semester, she was raped by Sean, another student at her college. Sean admits to the rape, but insists he didn’t kill Hannah. Instead, he admits to shooting, but not killing, Leo after he burst into Sean’s room and threatened to expose him for the rape. The agents find Leo where Sean dumped him, and the distraught father finally fills in the blanks about Hannah’s fate: he went out to pick up food for himself and Hannah, and when he returned, he found his daughter dying from an overdose of prescription pills. As he tried to wrestle the pill bottle away from her, she stumbled and fell over the balcony to her death. Devastated and distraught, Leo took his daughter’s body to their favorite hiking spot and gently laid her to rest where she’d be "safe."

Summary: The team searches for a missing mother who they believe may be searching for her son, who is also missing.

Respected investigative television reporter Christine Woods disappears after visiting a hospital to research a fraud expose. First stop for the agents is the most likely suspect, a doctor who had a public altercation with her just before she vanished. The doctor doesn’t know her whereabouts, but he does reveal that Woods may have gone missing for a much more personal reason: her son, Davis, whom she believed had died in a car accident in Guatemala, may actually be alive. With the help of Davis’ Guatemalan girlfriend, who fled to the US and has been staying with Woods, the agents identify the person who told Woods that her son is alive as a refugee, a recently released political prisoner. Is this refugee taking advantage of Woods’ desperate longing for her son, conning her into putting up money for a bogus rescue mission? Did Woods discover the con and get herself killed?

The investigation eventually leads to Francisco Ortega, an émigré from Guatemala, who may have tortured both Davis and the refugee informant while they were living there. But when the agents discover video footage of Woods abducting Ortega, we wonder if he could have hurt her when she confronted him. The team captures Ortega, but is only allowed a small window of time to interrogate him. With time running out, Jack is faced with the difficult decision of whether or not to use torture to get the truth about Woods’ whereabouts. The team struggles to solve the case and save Jack from doing something he will forever regret. Ultimately, they discover that Woods was murdered, but the killer is someone they didn’t suspect.

Guest Stars: China Jesusita Shavers (Rhonda Brewer)
Summary: When a woman disappears after her boyfriend is killed by the police, the team suspects gang involvement. Later, Sam learns she’s pregnant.

When Rhonda Brewer vanishes after her boyfriend is killed in a police shooting outside a nightclub, the team wonders whether the woman’s brother, Wallace, leader of a violent gang, could be connected to her disappearance. The agents discover that, shortly before her disappearance, a detective investigating Wallace visited Rhonda and tried to convince her to flip on her brother. Although Rhonda put a lot of effort into distancing herself from Wallace, she still has valuable information about him and his gang that could put him away for life. The detective testifies that one of Wallace’s gang members is actually undercover cop Evan Miller. Further investigation reveals that Wallace suspected that Miller was a cop and set up the situation outside the nightclub so that he could out Miller. Unfortunately, Rhonda and her boyfriend showed up in Wallace’s car instead of Wallace himself, and the boyfriend caught the bullets meant for her brother. Miller told Rhonda about his undercover status and warned her that her brother might be out to get her, but Rhonda was bent on avenging her boyfriend’s death. Luckily, Danny and Elena get to Rhonda before she confronts Wallace, and they convince her that, rather than resorting to violence, she can do him much more harm by working with the FBI to take him down. Wearing a wire, Rhonda confronts Wallace and gets him to admit his guilt, thereby bringing a storm of FBI agents into his gang’s stronghold.

Summary: An office shooting forces a woman to disappear, possibly to hide a deep secret.

It’s an ordinary morning at Rushlight Distribution’s cubicle-filled corporate office, until a man walks in with a pistol and a shotgun, randomly shooting terrified office workers before turning the gun on himself. One woman, Kelly Schmidt, hides under a desk, and as soon as she can, she flees the building and vanishes. At first, it appears that Kelly was the shooter’s target, but the agents soon learn that he was actually stalking one of Kelly’s colleagues, which only deepens the mystery of why she left the scene after the shooting.

The agents discover that Kelly has been living under a false identity; her real name is Sue Carlton. They question her father, Byron, who fills in some details about his daughter. Two years ago, Sue kidnapped her six-year-old daughter, Jasmine, right after having lost custody to her ex-husband, Mike. Mike, a coworker and friend of Byron’s for years, has been looking for them ever since. Sue/Kelly must have fled the office to avoid being seen on camera in any news coverage of the shooting. A search of Sue’s apartment yields no evidence of a child in her life, so where is Jasmine now? Did Sue’s emotional instability lead her to harm Jasmine? Did Mike, from whom Sue has been running, finally catch up to her? When the agents uncover allegations of abuse, it appears that Sue took Jasmine to prevent Mike from molesting her. But ultimately, the agents discover the tragic truth: as a child, Sue was molested by her father, and she had taken Jasmine to keep her away from Byron, not from Mike.

Summary: Malone’s team joins forces with Gil Grissom, a CSI from Las Vegas, and his team as they track a serial killer with ties to New York.

Picking up where CSI left off in the episode entitled “Who and What,” ruthless serial killer Terry Lee Wicker is fleeing across Arizona with his abducted son, Kobe. Jack Malone and Gil Grissom arrive at a pharmacy that was broken into moments after Wicker and Kobe got off a bus in that town. They find evidence that the fugitive and the boy have altered their appearances with hair dye and other items stolen from the pharmacy. With little to go on, the FBI team works with Grissom to analyze Wicker’s killing spree, hoping to discern from a scattershot pattern of violence where the killer may have taken the boy. They discover that Wicker was in a relationship with Kobe’s mother years ago in New York—a tryst that resulted in Kobe—and now father and son appear to be returning to that city. Why has Wicker suddenly taken an interest in his son? And is the boy going along willingly because he has always longed for his absentee dad?

While the agents strive to understand the relationship between Wicker and his son, they learn that after each of his kills, Wicker called his sister, but his sister recently forced him out of her life. Has Wicker taken Kobe as a last chance at a family connection? The agents arrive at an apartment where Wicker lived years ago and discover that he and Kobe have been squatting there. First indications suggest that Wicker has been trying to recreate a more innocent time, when Kobe was a newborn, but they soon discover the body of the apartment’s current resident, bludgeoned to death. They also learn that a horrified Kobe fled from his father. With the help of Wicker’s sister, Jack finally locates Wicker, who kills himself rather than deal his own dire situation. Jack and the agents quickly figure out where Kobe has been hiding and bring him safely to Wicker’s sister.

Summary: When a college student disappears after making racial remarks in a class, the team wonders if those may be directly connected to his disappearance.

While debating with an African American student in the middle of a college seminar, sophomore Tom Sweeney lets loose with a racist comment that turns the seminar into a full-out brawl. Footage of his outburst is posted on YouTube, and Tom becomes a campus pariah, the target of hate emails and death threats. Alone in his dorm room, overwhelmed by what he has brought upon himself, Tom vanishes.

As the FBI team digs into Tom’s life, a portrait emerges of a decent, lower-middle-class kid trying to navigate through his first year of college. His classroom outburst seems all the more puzzling when we learn that Tom has been flirting with a young black woman. Our agents further discover that on the night he went missing, Tom had a heated encounter with the girl’s wealthy father, Arthur Riggs. The investigation takes an unexpected turn when the agents learn that Tom has been snooping on his own mother, whom he suspects is having an affair with Arthur. In his search for the truth, however, Tom delved too deeply into his parents’ complicated relationship and has uncovered a devastating secret that has upended Tom’s sense of his own identity: Arthur Riggs is actually his father. When the agents question Riggs, they learn that Tom has been kidnapped and that Riggs has received a ransom note. Ultimately, the agents discover that the unhappy Tom staged the kidnapping, thinking that getting cash from Riggs will ease his pain. At the last minute, Martin finds Tom and returns him to all three of his parents. Although the missing person has been found and the case is closed, Riggs and the Sweeneys still have a long way to go to find peace.

Ultimate fighter Brett Hendricks battles against a ferocious opponent in front of a rabid crowd. With a vicious move, Brett knocks the other fighter out. Brett pumps a victorious fist in the air, and as he watches the enthusiastic crowd cheer his name, he vanishes.

When the agents find an empty syringe in the arena locker room, it looks like this was a preplanned abduction. Brett’s sister and housemate, Sarah, testifies that, although he’s a good guy, Brett has a bad temper and that recently he has been behaving strangely. He appeared to need money, because Sarah caught him trying to steal jewelry from her, but when she asked him why he did it, Brett wouldn’t explain. Brett’s trainer, Don Foster, tells the agents that Brett probably needed money to support his big plan for early retirement. Further investigation reveals that Brett had become friendly with Foster’s girlfriend, Keira, and the agents discover that he recently stole her car. Keira tells the agents that she has been trying to help Brett work through his anger issues, which stem from his having been severely bullied as a child. A search of Keira’s car reveals a cache of weapons hidden in the trunk: Brett stole the car to get the guns. The agents find the former bully, now a peaceable religious man, who recently had a confrontation with Brett about the fact that Brett had stolen guns from his trainer, Foster. The agents finally uncover the truth: Brett has been trying to help Keira get away from Foster and his gunrunning business, and when Foster found out, he killed Brett and threatened to kill Keira if she told the truth. Guest star Adam Kaufman.

While this case is unfolding, Samantha tracks down the father of her unborn child, a bartender with whom she had a fling but hasn’t been in contact with since. She visits him at home, asking him to sign a paper waiving any parental rights, but he demurs, telling her he wants to talk it over later.

Summary: The team determines if an ex-con’s past criminal activity caused her to disappear after visiting a prison inmate. Det. Mars and Agent Johnson also continue their investigation.

A woman, Lindsay Bynum, is escorted out of her maximum security prison cell, and promptly vanishes once she is de-parts out the main gate. The agents learn that this formerly successful financial advisor got caught in a downward spiral that led to an embezzlement conviction. Released the month before, she had been visiting a friend in prison on the day of disappearance. When Jack and the team arrive on the scene of an auto accident, they find Lindsay’s car smashed up at the roadside. A second set of tire tracks and footprints lead them to speculate: was this recently released prisoner the victim of an opportunistic passerby or did something from Lindsay’s prison life follow her outside?

Her two children, abandoned by their father when he committed suicide soon after Lindsay’s imprisonment, were taken in by Lindsay’s brother-in-law and wife, Jake and Natalie. The case takes a turn when they learn that Lindsay had discovered that her youngest son, Ryan, was stealing. She may have involved herself in a dangerous scam to buy him out of his debt. Ryan eventually confesses that Lindsay tried to save Ryan from the bad situation, and Ryan accidentally hit her while driving a truck. She’s dead, and he reveals the location of her body.

Meanwhile, Vivian and Mars continue their search for the victims of a sex slavery ring. An ambitious raid on a brothel gets them closer than they think to the trafficking ringleader.

Summary: A child prodigy turned store Santa vanishes and the team wonders if he had criminal connections.

In a shopping mall at the peak of the holiday season, a cheerful elf takes a picture of Glen Beckett, a good looking mall Santa posing with a kid sitting on his lap. The boy points out a note addressed to Santa in the "mailbox". Glen reads it, covering his anxiety. That night, Glen is in his apartment. He's still wearing his Santa Suit but he is nervous, sweating, and loading a gun. A knock at the door startles him. After he goes to answer it, he disappears.

The agents arrive on the scene and find the note—a death threat. The note, coupled with large amounts of cash in Glen's account leads them to suspect Glen may have been using his mall Santa job as a cover for something nefarious. The investigation takes a sharp turn when they find that Glen is not an average college student making some extra money over Christmas break. He is actually a math genius and former child prodigy who spent the last ten years thriving in the University system, until he inexplicably dropped out two months ago. As the team questions Dr. Neil, Glen's trusted mentor, a portrait emerges of a brilliant but emotionally immature young man ill-equipped to deal with the world outside of academia. Glen wanted to leave the tutelage of Dr. Neil when he lost faith in what he was doing, and Dr. Neil tried hard to change his mind.

Meanwhile, Glen has come up with a program that he believes will correct some of the damage his work with Dr. Neil has done. The new program will help people, and Glen holds a gun on the CEO of a corporation to try and convince the man to look at it. Eventually, Glen turns himself in, but the CEO is so impressed with the program that he drops all charges.
On a poorly lit block off the West-side Highway, hookers strut while Johns cruise past. In a parked van, Scott Lucas watches and listens with high-tech surveillance gear. When a hooker recognizes a John as a local politician, the man threatens her. Scott quickly pulls up and snaps pictures. "Is this your new outreach program, Councilman?" he asks, then hits the gas. As the councilman's car begins to follow, he vanishes.

The agents find Scott's van stripped and abandoned. A hidden recorder in the dashboard has audio of Scott arguing with an assailant. Though the councilman has an alibi, the agents dig into other cases, worried that Scott's reputation for getting the job done at all costs may have been his undoing. Scott's ex-wife, Kim, says that the recent passing of Scott's father had prompted him to reflect on his career, feeling that maybe it was time to get out. But Scott had also planted lipstick cameras in many of his female neighbors' apartments; perhaps he had a more lascivious agenda.

The motives behind Scott's spying remain a mystery until the agents learn of his unusual friendship with Adam, a sixteen year old foster kid. Once Adam's father, Mitch, comes into the picture, things become clear. Scott tried to bring Mitch back into Adam's life, but neither Adam nor Mitch wanted anything to do with one another. Mitch knocked out Scott and ripped off his van to sell for money to score drugs, and he reveals Scott's location. He's alive, and once he's in the hospital he petitions the court to become a foster father to Adam.

Rick Cheever), Erin Chambers (Laura Richards), Michael Grant Terry (Daniel Ellerbe), Thad Luckinbill (Tim Collier), James Marsters (Detective Morris)
Summary: The team work on a case where a veterans-hospital worker vanishes and have two leads.

Laura Richards is a young sculptor who creates prosthetics for war veterans and others in need of limbs. After perfecting a new arm, she brings it to the main recovery floor of a New York Veteran’s Hospital. When she delivers the prosthetic to an emotionally distraught Iraq war vet, he explodes with anger and must be restrained. She backs away, shaken, and promptly disappears.

When the agents arrive, they discover a VA populated by soldiers grappling with the physical and emotional traumas of war. Laura was clearly in over her head, working community service that stemmed from a theft charge. The deal was brokered by her Vietnam vet father, Quinn, who hoped to teach her a lesson in honor and sacrifice.

The investigation takes a disturbing turn when the agents learn of Laura’s connection to a radical anti-war group in the final stages of carrying out an anti-military terrorist attack. But Laura was having a secret relationship with a war amputee, Brandon, and had second thoughts about carrying out the attack. As the agents race to unravel the mystery it becomes clear that the answers to Laura’s disappearance are associated with her father. Before her disappearance, Laura was involved in a shooting, and though it was self-defense, she believed she would end up in jail. Her father, Quinn, smuggled her over the border to Canada, in the hopes of making things right between them.

Jones (Sergeant)
Summary: Jack goes missing after taking a case into his own hands which soon becomes intertwined with a human trafficking prostitution case that Vivian is working on.

Jack creeps around a dark building, gun drawn (with a spiffy new shorn hairdo). As he reloads, a shot rings out by his head. He fires back at no one. He's alone, which doesn't seem totally safe. He hears a noise, turns and is shot. He falls and two dark figures come out of the shadows and stand over him.

Back in the office, Sam is super-pregnant. Vivian explains a raid they're about to conduct on the office of a doctor who provides abortions for sex slaves, Dr. Cappell.

Vivian asks Sam where Jack is and she says she hasn't heard from him.

They proceed with the raid and arrest the doctor.

Vivian asks him about Franklin Romar and the doctor tells him he already told "the other guy" about him. He describes someone who sounds a lot like Jack.

A flashback shows Jack talking to the doctor, asking him about Joe Guisti. When polite questioning doesn't work, Jack grabs the doc by the throat and threatens him. The doc says they threatened to kill him.

He tells Vivian he gave all the files to Agent Malone.

Back in the office Martin and Viv compare notes, wondering what Jack's up to. Viv is not pleased, thinking Jack went ahead because he thought they'd get in his way.

A flashback shows Jack lobbying Viv to go after Guisti while she wants to go for Romar, the ringleader. He tells her Guisti is her best bet "considering how far you are from bringing in Romar."

Viv asks him what's up. A flashback within a flashback shows Jack visiting Jen Long, a 13-year-old who Guisti raped and whom Jack wants to avenge.

Viv asks Jack if he has her back on this and he says he does. His pants do not burst into flames.
Sam tries to calm Viv down, saying that if Jack was planning on going rogue he would have cleared his schedule. "I'm telling you, something's not right," Sam says.

Jack lies sputtering in a pool of his own blood, so she's pretty right on.

Later, Viv and Danny go to inspect a burned out car that the police have identified as Jack's. The interview a local drug dealer who describes seeing a guy, Romar, drive up in the car and toss in a flare. Getting on his phone, he then hopped in a waiting red van. That was an hour ago.

Viv uses her CBS standard-issue iPhone to show the dealer a picture of Romar and confirms it's him.

Back in the office, they lay out leads. Danny asks about Robert Newton, the attorney who he has determined is the guy Romar called.

Elena and Martin interview him about the call, using big words like "accomplice in a capital offense" to make him talk about Romar, who he saw once, but won't admit to talking to that day.

Cut to Jack, whimpering in pain, trying to staunch the bleeding with a nearby rag. He plays dead when the two men return. They discuss what they're going to do with Jack's body.

In the office, they track Jack's car GPS to find where he stopped.

The team suits up and heads to the address, guns drawn. They find a bloody handprint on the windowpane of the building Jack was in earlier.

Inside, Danny finds lots of blood and drag marks.

Cut to Jack, wrapped in a blanket in a trunk. He does some good old fashioned near-death hallucinating, meeting with Jen Long in a deserted diner. He smells oranges which remind him of something. She tells him about seeing her abusers everywhere, even the dead one. She asks if it's time for him to go, he sees water flooding in under the door.

Back in the trunk, he's out cold.

In the office, Viv gets a call for Jack about Yvette Joseph, one of Dr. Cappell's clients, a Haitian woman who's being held in an immigration center.

Viv speaks French to Yvette, which sounds totally cool, and Yvette tells her about talking to Jack.

Jack showed Yvette a picture of Romar, promising her she can stay in the country. She describes seeing him at places where she met men for sex. She identifies Sharon Brooks and describes going to a party away from the city. She describes where it was.

Yvette asks Vivian if she'll make sure that Jack will help her stay, and she says yes.

Martin and Danny look into the apartment where the party was. Sam contributes to the case from a seated position, saying that Sharon Brooks has been shot in the arm and being brought in.

Sam bullies Sharon into talking about Jack. "She's hormonal, I wouldn't mess with her," Martin says.

Sharon confesses she saw Jack last night and he made her set up a meeting with Romar, which is when she got shot in the arm. A flashback shows that meeting led into the scene that started the episode, with her fleeing right before Jack was shot. The bloody handprint on the window is hers.

When she hesitates, Sam squeezes her bullet wound, which is sooo not maternal.

The bad dudes drag pig-in-blanket Jack into a junkyar pond and leave him floating in the water, tossing his gun in after him. He's face up, but seems closer and closer to not faking being dead.

In the office, Sam looks for vehicles registered to Romar. Danny announces that the lawyer Newton is the owner of the company that owned the building where Jack was shot.

Sam stares into space wistfully, remembering a conversation with Jack in which he reassured her she'd be a good mother. (Post-strike pregnant Sam has more of an accent than she usually does.)

Martin interviews Newton. After a few threats, he confesses he sometimes tapes calls with clients, including one with Romar from the morning in which they made plans to meet up later.

The team wires Newton and follows him to the meet with SWAT. Newton gets Romar to tell him what kind of trouble he's in. "It starts with a dead cop and goes downhill from there." When Newton refers to an FBI guy a moment later Romar figures it out, finds the wire and stabs him in the chest.

THEN, the team decides to rush out. Vivian asks for a moment alone with Romar, telling him he has two minutes to tell her where Jack is. When he won't talk, she fires her gun next to his ear which should leave him with ringing for a month. When she offers to do the other one, he talks.

Cut to Jack, bloated, floating in a filthy pond.

Jack and Vivian have an imaginary conversation in which she asks him if they should keep hurrying to save him. He throws a self-pity party, saying he’s never done anything right in his life.

The team finds him in the junkyard, someone calls for the EMTs and...that’s all folks.

Guest Stars: Adam Kaufman (Brian Donovan), Sam Murphy (Tim Jenkins), Jazz Raycole (Kelli Peters), Michael Raysses (Dr. Newell), Daveigh Chase (Diana Raitt), Bill Smitrovich (Olczyk), Nadia Shazana (Nurse)
Summary: While struggling to deal with the aftermath of Jack’s accident, the team searches to find a teen heart transplant recipient, believing her disappearance might be connected to her donor. Samantha talks to Brian.

The second half of a two-parter starts with Jack, who was shot last week, being wheeled into surgery.

It’s not looking good, but Anthony LaPaglia’s contract on the show isn’t up, so you know he’ll pull through.

Cut to high school cheerleading practice, where a girl named Diana gets called out for botching a tower. She walks off and disappears.

Back at the hospital, Martin goes out on a call and a nurse asks for Jack’s medical records for next of kin and DNR info. Just to make you worry.

Martin talks to Diana’s parents. He learns she had a heart transplant a few years ago. Her parents describe a formerly shy girl who is now out all the time and headstrong, because she knows she only has 10 or 20 years left, as her dad puts it.

Cut to: Sam waits at the hospital. Elena calls for an update and tell Sam that Brian Donovan (her baby daddy) called.

Danny talks to Diana’s friend, Kelli, at school. She’s initially not helpful until he threatens her with jovie. Kelli describes a “thing the other day” with Craig, in which she started a rumor about Craig because he wouldn’t lend Diana his take home Spanish test.

Back in the hospital, Jack flashes back to the case that got him there in the first place, crying over the girl in the cage.

At the office, Martin reports that Craig didn’t show up at school. Elena finds a nasty blog post about Diana by her ex-boyfriend Joe. He says that now that she’s a cheerleader, she doesn’t have time for him.

He describes how he snuck out of his house when she asked to meet him, but she never showed. Flash to a party where Diana was freaking out with Kelli after having done E, even less recommended for heart transplant patients than regular people, and they brushed Joe off.

Danny reinterviews Kelli, with her lawyer present. After more threats, Kelli tells the truth.
Flash to: Diana, better the next day, telling Kelli she thought things would be "less sucky" after the operation. They walk back to her car, which is smashed up. Kelli asks if Diana hit someone and she says no. Kelli says that's the last she saw of her.

Back at the hospital, Brian Donovan shows up saying he hasn't signed the form to release his parental rights. Not what Sam wanted to hear. As a monitor hooked to Jack starts beeping, Sam yells at Brian for showing up if he wasn't going to sign the form.

In the office, Craig has been tracked down. Danny asks him what happened. Craig says he's the editor of his school paper and Diana wanted an unlisted address.

Cut to, Craig telling Diana there's a ticked off dude in the office waiting for her. The dude, Roy Jenkins, comes around the corner, asking her what she was thinking sticking her nose in his family's business, telling her she's messing with his family and if she ever comes around his house again, she'll regret it. Craig tells Danny that Diana was so upset she clipped a post driving out of the parking lot.

Martin finds a newspaper article about a kid, Paul Jenkins, who was killed by a drunk driver on the same day Diana got her new heart. Her donor.

Elena talks to Diana's parents and tells them about Roy Jenkins, and that his son is possibly her heart donor.

Her dad says the identity of the donor came up at her last check-up, where she learned it was from a healthy 17-year-old boy, which she was upset about.

At the hospital, Jack is twitching and mumbling in his bed as Sam worries over him.

Vivian visits the Jenkins. Cut to Diana interviewing Mrs. Jenkins, under the pretense of writing about him for Mothers Against Drunk Driving. She tells Diana how the accident affected their other son, who was driving at the time.

After Vivian says Diana's car was just discovered down the street, Mrs. Jenkins adds that Diana came back and 'fessed up about her connection to Paul. But his brother overheard and learned that his parents had donated Paul's organs.

He grabbed one of Roy's guns and took her. Roy is still out looking for them.

In the hospital, Jack is awake, but groggy. FBI boss Olczyk stops by to check on him. Jack tries to tell him all the corners cut in the kid trafficking case were his, and not Vivians. Olczyk tells him the file hasn't been opened yet, and not to worry about it.

In the office, Elena and Martin catch each other up on the search for Tim Jenkins. They get a call that his car just busted through a toll near where Paul died.

Tim tells Diana about the accident, how Paul took his seatbelt off to get a mix he'd made out of the back seat. As he screams at Diana about how hard this has been on him, Danny and Vivian drive up. Diana promises to do right by Paul's heart. As Tim holds the gun on her, Diana tells him that even though she didn't know Paul, she knows this isn't what he would have wanted. After a few tense moments of yelling. He puts down the gun.

They take Diana back to her parents. Happy, hugging reunion. The usual.

Sam goes to meet with Brian to have the world's most awkward conversation. She tells Brian he doesn't have any obligation to her or to him. It's a boy.

She tells him he doesn't want the kid to grow up and get attached to him only to have him leave. Brian says he's figuring that out, but he'd like to try.

Brian asks her if she needs to get back to the hospital. She says no. "So," he says, "where are you from?" Lovely post knock-up pick-up line. Fade out during flirting.

Cut to Vivian with Jack at the hospital. She feeds him ice chips while he apologizes for going rogue. She cuts him off, saying that can wait. She starts reading to him from People magazine. Fade out.

Summary: The team searches for a coma patient who had woken up after three years only to disappear.

At a recovery center, a man starts to wakes up. Jay McCann opens his eyes. He’s told he had a car accident a while ago. He starts talking immediately. He knows who he is and details of his life. He asks how long he’s been out. Three years. His wife visits him.

Jump to six weeks later. Jay’s up and walking around at the recovery center. He talks to his doctor, says he doesn’t quite remember everything, but most things. The doctor says the worst part’s over. He walks off and disappears. Shows you, doc.

The team arrives at five hours missing.

In the hospital, Elena and Sam visit Jack. They bring him flowers and a card and leave before his sponge bath. He gets a voice mail from Jen Long, the rape victim he was trying to avenge when he got shot.

In the office, Martin talks with Kim McCann, trying to rule out kidnapping. Kim says the night of his accident he was acting strangely and she doesn’t know why he was where he was when he crashed. She tells Martin she found a $100,000 cashier’s check in Jay’s briefcase after he crashed. Jay has no memory of it.

They check into his business past.

Jack calls Sam, asking her to check on Jen Long, who said someone was following her. Sam can’t leave the active case, but says she’ll send NYPD.

Martin and Danny interview Jay’s brother, Kevin. He says Jay was going to take a job at his company but then Jay changed his mind, saying too much has changed. Jay told him he was remembering things he didn’t want to remember and that he was afraid of where it was going.

Sam tells Jack no one was home at Jen’s house, but he’s worried the NYPD didn’t do enough. He starts to lay on a guilt trip, but relents, saying he’s probably just over-thinking it. He hangs up with Sam then removes his monitors, preparing to fight evil.

They find surveillance that shows Jay getting into an SUV with a man who had a gun on him. They think Jay knew the guy.

Elena says Kim McCann’s phone records show she talked to a guy name Bruce a lot and he looks vaguely like the guy with the gun.
Jack finds Jen’s mom and asks about her. Her mom says Jen’s a mess because the FBI won’t let her move on. Jen was freaked out because she didn’t want to testify against Romar, the ringleader who led to her kidnapping.

Jack plays her mom the message of Jen saying she was being followed and her mom tells Jack that Jen is at her sister’s.

At the office, Elena talks to Bruce. He says they were having an affair. He asks for a lawyer.

Vivian and Martin talk to Kim, who says Jay knew about her affair. She told him. He took it pretty well, realizing he’d cheated on her and that they didn’t have anything that great to begin with. She says she stopped seeing Bruce.

They ask to see the cards Jay received in the hospital. They find a lot from a Doug Gilbert, who also looks like the guy with the gun. Good thing, since Bruce has an alibi.

Meanwhile, Jack, looking like the undead, walks into Jen’s aunt’s place looking for her. He finds blood and an emptied purse, but no one. Then he hears a noise. Gun drawn, he investigates, because that worked out so well last time.

He opens a closet and a hysterical woman comes out. She says a man was looking for Jen a half hour ago. He beat her up until she told them Jen sometimes hangs out in a park with her friends.

Elena interviews Doug Gilbert. He says he used the gun to get Jay’s attention, but that once he explained what he wanted, it wasn’t necessary. He took Jay to see his son, who’s been in a coma for two years. He hoped that Jay talking to his son would encourage him. Doug tells Jay there’s a reason he’s back and he has to share that.

Jay says he doesn’t know why he’s back, but maybe he’s supposed to answer questions. He apologizes to Doug.

Doug tells Elena and Martin that Jay sat with his son for a while and then asked for a ride to SoHo.

Jack goes to the park and pulls a gun on a punk to find out if he’s seen Jen. He tells the punk that if Jen dies, he’ll kill him. The punk says he told the man following her to come back at 4 p.m. and that was 30 or 45 minutes ago.

Sam calls, Jack catches her up. She’s on her way.

Danny goes to the apartment Jay visited earlier in SoHo. The guy there tells him that Jay said he remembered it. Robin Cassidy lived there.

In a call to Martin, they learn that Robin was reported missing three years ago, on the night Jay had his accident.

Her disappearance wasn’t ever really investigated because she ended up a cokehead stripper. Her credit card statement shows charges to a motel six miles from where Jay had his accident.

Back at the park, Jack’s not doing so well. Soon, he’s puking in public. Not a good sign. He continues staggering around, looking for Jen, trying to keep Joe Guisti from hurting her.

In the office, Martin and Vivian talk to Jay’s brother again. Turns out he booked the room Jay was heading to. He tells them Jay was involved with Robin, but in a way they both were.

Flashback time. Jay confronted his brother because he knew about Robin and the motel because his brother told him about it while he was in his coma. He says that Robin threatened to tell Kim if she didn’t get her $100,000. When Jay didn’t show up, she got angry and tried to leave. He pushed her away from the door and she tripped and hit her head. So he got rid of her body.

Jay tells Kevin he’s sorry he put him in that spot and that Jay wanted to go to the police. He refused.

Kevin sums up by saying he doesn’t know what Jay told the police, but that’s what happened. Oops. Jay hasn’t told the police yet. They head off to where the brothers met.

Jack continues to stumble around, looking like a Zombie in a leather jacket. He sits down and recognizes a diner. It’s deserted. He goes in. It’s the same diner he dreamed about while he was nearly dying. Surprise! You’re watching Medium.

Jack sees a dead body and hears noises out back. Joe is tossing Jen into a van. Jack fires, but gets hit by the van. Joe comes at him and Jack shoots.

In the hospital, Martin gets the update on Jay, who is back connected to tubes in a hospital. They think he might have been mugged.

At the scene of Jack’s shooting, Sam tells Jen that her tormentor is dead. Jack heads back to the hospital.

Summary: After the latest lottery winner goes missing, the team works to figure out why.

Sam comes home and her baby daddy is there, trying to put a crib together. He asks her how long she plans on working and touches her stomach to say goodbye to the kid.

Friends gather around a fire on a camping trip. A pregnant lady busts out the champagne. One woman decides to leave early. She gets in her Lexus and leaves. Then disappears.

The team starts 25 hours missing.
Lacey Moran, a 24-year-old, just won the Lotto and went missing. Viv and Martin check out her new apartment.

Jack goes back to work, looking a little worse for wear.
He gets a call from Alex and says he'll take full responsibility.
Viv goes to talk to Jeff Turner, the missing woman's boyfriend. The woman who busted out the champagne is Paula, his sister. The women knew each other from Philadelphia and moved out together, he met Lacey later.

He doesn't know why Lacey left early, but says something was going on with her. Flashback to Jeff finding some man arguing with Lacey at the campgrounds. She acts like she doesn't know him, but it sounded like she did.

Jack tries to talk to Sam about the case, but can't quite remember the names. Sam has found Lacey was spending like crazy and lending thousands to friends. He's wobbly.

Elena talks to Paula and her husband, showing them a sketch of the guy Lacey was arguing with. She asks if they know why Lacey withdrew $3,000.

Flashback to Lacey and Paula. Lacey's surrounded by new stuff. She says she met a guy on the street collecting donations for kids in South America with cleft lips. She gave him money.
She feels guilty about spending money on stuff. She says she feels responsibility to help people with the money. Paula suggests a charitable fund.

Sam finds that Lacey got pizza the night before. Danny says NYPD just picked up the suspect, Raul, who was soliciting donations for kids with cleft palates.

Danny confronts him with the fact that he was fired by the organization for scamming donations.

He says he thought she’d figured out that he’d coned her. Flashback to him at the campground, asking for money, laying on the guilt trip. She says her situation has changed. She tells him the money’s not hers and she has to give it back.

Viv, watching, thinks the lottery ticket didn’t belong to Lacey.

Sam, Elena and a tech look at the surveillance video from the store where the winning ticket was sold. They see an older man buying the ticket. He’s holding a bag from a pharmacy in his hand. They track him that way.

Danny goes to his apartment and when no one answers a neighbor tells Danny that he just died of cancer and that Lacey was a friend who helped take care of him.

The neighbor had lent him money for utilities and wanted her money back. She says that Lacey cleaned out his stuff but that the man’s son came looking for it. The neighbor gave him Lacey’s name and number.

Back at the office, Sam gives Jack maternity leave paperwork. Jack asks who’s going to take care of the kid when she’s on call. Sam says she thinks Brian, the dad, could help. Jack asks for his last name. She says she’s decided to give him a chance.

Danny get a sketch of the dead man’s son. He also tells Viv he’ll back her up with the brass because Jack was out of line to pursue the child rapist that ended up getting him shot.

Jack asks an agent in the office to do a background check for him on Brian Donovan.

Elena tracks down the guy who delivered pizza to Lacey’s apartment. The flashback shows she handed him a wad of cash then turned to talk to Jeff in the apartment, telling him they just have to stick to the plan when he said they should call the cops.

Viv goes to Jeff’s apartment with Danny. He’s not home, but across the street, slumped in his car. He doesn’t respond. He’s been shot.

At the office, Martin has ID’d the dead man’s son, Alex Shaw. A witness saw him confront Lacey.

Elena shows Paula and her husband a picture of Alex and they say they don’t know him. Paula is upset over just learning her brother is dead. Elena doesn’t believe them when they say they don’t know about how Lacey got the money.

Flashback to Lacey showing Paula the winning ticket. Lacey didn’t want to keep it, but Paula convinced her, saying that Lacey’s the one who took care of him and that he said she could take whatever of his she wanted.

Jack talks to Alex Shaw. Flashback to Alex confronting Lacey. He knew ticket was his dad’s because the numbers were his and his mother’s birthdays. Alex says Lacey called him from the campground and said she wanted to give him the money, but never showed. He waited at her apartment. But, contrary to what the witness said, it wasn’t Lacey he saw in front of her building. A flashback shows it’s Paula.

Martin and Elena think Paula and her husband might be behind it, even killing Paula’s brother, Jeff, though the coroner is classifying it as a suicide. Or, it was the guilt that did Jeff in, they figure. They think maybe the pizza guy saw Paula and not Lacey and that Paula was posing as her. A hat with Lacey’s blood on it was found in Paula’s apartment. They think Lacey never left the campground.

Elena talks to Paula. She confesses when Elena says she’ll keep Elena’s husband out of it, even killing Paula’s brother, Jeff, though the coroner is classifying it as a suicide. Or, it was the guilt that did Jeff in, they figure. They think maybe the pizza guy saw Paula and not Lacey and that Paula was posing as her. A hat with Lacey’s blood on it was found in Paula’s apartment. They think Lacey never left the campground.

Elena talks to Paula. She confesses when Elena says she’ll keep Elena’s husband out of it, since he didn’t know what was happening. Flashback to Lacey telling Paula at the campsite that she was giving the money back. Lacey said she couldn’t live with what she’d done. When Lacey turned to leave, Paula conked her on the head with a deadly water bottle. Her brother Jeff wanted to go to the police, but she talked him out of it. They buried the body and Paula went back to the city to pose as Lacey.

The teams in the woods find her body.

The agent Jack sent to research Sam’s baby daddy comes with her report. Brian Donovan is clean in all databases, except for a file in Delaware on sex with a minor, but no charges were brought.
Fade out ominously.

Summary: A truck driver goes missing after saving a boy’s life, and the team determines if that has anything to do with his disappearance. Meanwhile, Jack’s mental health is examined by a psychiatrist.

A school bus pulls up to school, dropping off girls in uniforms. One of them sees a car waiting and walks over to it. It’s Jack waiting to check on Jen Long, the girl he went AWOL to rescue. She asks him if maybe he shouldn’t be worrying about his own daughters and tells him he needs to move on.

Cut to a man waiting at a bus stop. A father starts calling out for his son, the kid runs in front of a bus, the man on the bench races to save him - then wakes up. There’s a newspaper with a story about the “hero” who saved the boy laying on the seat next to him. He’s a repo man and goes to get a car. The car owner gets mad at him and threatens to get his friends to beat him up.

The repo man vanishes.

There are bullet holes in the tow truck windshield the next day as the team looks it over at 10 hours missing. Connor Banes is missing.

At the office, Sam says the blood on the truck is a match for Connor. The guy who threatened to beat him up has an alibi.

Jack brings Sam his information on her baby daddy Brian Donovan.

Jack talks to Connor’s girlfriend, who says that he was different after he saved the kid. He was sweet and into helping people until a couple days ago, when he got moody. She got hang-up calls the night before.

Elena and Martin go talk to his boss, and find an invoice that’s not in the system that has Connor’s number on it.

Jack goes into his office and finds a woman in his chair. She’s cleared time on his calendar to meet with him. She’s the psychiatrist he has to talk to after taking lethal action.
Martin talks to the "Bobby" on the invoice, it's a hot chick. She tells him that Connor interrupted her with a tow truck driver named Frank and ran him off. She said Connor told her Frank was unlicensed and to call if she saw him again, why he left his number.

Martin finds Frank's on parole for rape and Elena finds Frank was fired from Connor's job and used to sexually harass women.

They pick up Frank. He offers to tell them something if they'll forget he's towing without a license. Flashback to Frank waiting to talk to Connor and seeing an angry man screaming at him.

Frank gives them a description to make a sketch.

Danny finds a job Connor left off his resume and says he'll bring in the boss.

Brian shows up to take Sam to lunch but, armed with the info Jack got, she sits him down in an interview room, not pleased. Sam asks him why he was accused of raping a 16-year-old. He says he was working a catering job and the drunk girl started hitting on him, but he rebuffed her. He forgot about it until he was hauled in and interrogated the next day. The charges were dropped when it turned out she was lying. Brian's not thrilled she dug through his past. He leaves, angry.

Jack talks to Joe, a man Connor worked for, who says that Connor was a heroin addict and he was his NA sponsor. He says Connor called him yesterday after feeling the urge.

Flashback to Connor telling him being a hero felt good and he started chasing that high. Connor says saving a busload of nuns wouldn't make up for what he did. He asks Joe how he's supposed to make amends to a dead person.

Joe tells Jack he doesn't know anything about whoever died.

Martin shows Viv what he's found from Connor's hometown, a TV news report from Iowa about a mother and child dying in a fire in which Connor was the sole survivor. Martin says the lead investigator told him they thought Connor started the fire.

Danny briefs Viv on the victims, who died of smoke inhalation. Connor survived because he was out back in his workshop. Sam finds their sketch matches the victim's dad, Nate.

They find the victim's dad in town, and a gun in his hotel room.

Flashback to Nate confronting Connor at the tow shop, trying to get him to confess. He does. Saying it was his fault and they're dead because of him. He heard Nicole screaming, and he thought it was because she was still mad at him so he ignored her.

Flashback within a flashback to Connor in his workshop, hearing screams, running out to see the house on fire.

Nate calls him a coward and tells him he's going to have to live with that.

Back at the office, he says seeing Connor didn't help. He says he didn't use the gun.

Danny says a traffic camera caught Connor's truck in a bad neighborhood, the same neighborhood where the calls he got the night before came from. They go to check it out.

Jack goes to see the shrink. She tells him she can't help him because after reviewing his files she can tell he doesn't care about breaking rules. Soon, he's opening up and sitting down, admitting sometimes he gets too personal.

The shrink asks him about Jen Long, why he broke so many rules for her. Soon, she homes in on the idea that it was because he can't fix his relationship with his own daughters.

Elena and Martin show Connor's picture in the bad part of town, thinking he was trying to score.

A woman on the street doesn't remember him, but remembers the truck and Connor pulling over to help a boy being chased by men with guns, drug dealers.

She says the kid he helped is as bad as the guys chasing him and Connor's in trouble if he's in the middle of it.

Back at the office, Sam takes the paper she got couriered over and goes in to yell at Jack. It's a waiver of parental rights. Brian now wants nothing to do with her or the baby. She tells Jack it was none of his business. He says he just did what he thought was right. She asks him how long he's going to use that as an excuse to screw people over. She storms out.

Elena interviews the kid Connor picked up. He says he stashed the drugs he stole in Connor's truck and he lured him back by calling and saying his mom was in trouble. Connor tried to get the drugs back when he saw them and another dealer came and shot at him, hitting him. The kid followed after him to finish him off. He went up to shoot Connor as he sat there, begging to be killed.

He couldn't do it. He left him in the warehouse.

The team goes to find him. He's out cold in the warehouse, but alive.

Elena goes to talk to him in the hospital. Connor tells her about the fire. She tells him he didn't set the fire and "being human isn't a crime." She says it's time for him to forgive himself.

He starts to cry and his girlfriend comes in.

Cut to Jack stopping by the shrink's office. He starts to talk about a recurring dream with water flooding under a door. She asks shrink questions. He makes an "I'm a tough man not used to discussing my emotions but I'm ready to unload my baggage for the sake of my family" face.

Fade out.
Sam looks at her baby things. At the office, someone tells Jack they're ready to get started on the OPR hearing.

At a coffee shop, a man gets a latte. Another's cell phone rings. A young woman walks in. A man wearing a hat pulled down over his face comes in. The five disappear.

At the coffee shop, Martin and Jack look at the security tape, which shows the man with a hat pulling a gun and forcing them out the back door. They only have an ID for the barista.

At the coffee shop, Martin and Jack look at the security tape, which shows the man with a hat pulling a gun and forcing them out the back door. They only have an ID for the barista.

At two hours missing, Elena is trying to get a name from a credit card that was used. She asks Martin if he's talked to Jack and how he's doing. She's supposed to talk to OPR in a while. They look at the footage again. They think they can ID one guy from his phone and the fact he made a call. The girl came in, apparently looking for someone. By the way the gunman held the gun, they think he's a cop or military.

Danny gets nothing from the barista's boyfriend and Sam gets nowhere with the wife of one hostage, Dan Mahoney.

Olczyk comes to talk to Vivian, to make sure there weren't any other shortcuts in the case that he doesn't know about. She says no.

Martin has ID'd another hostage. Julian Simonson. Martin talks to his wife. The coffee shop was nowhere near his office. She says Julian had been losing interest in her.

Flashback to him coming home at 2 a.m. the night before. He claims to have been working late. He smells like perfume. He says he's not cheating, but says he's not hiding anything.

They find three calls to Julian's office from a motel in Ithaca. Danny and Elena go check it out, with Danny telling her he's tired of covering for Jack. The manager tells Danny and Elena that Julian never stayed there, he just visited. He saw him with another hostage, Mary Warren. The manager says he thinks Mary was a lesbian, so it’s not an affair they’re hiding.

Jack meets with Clare, his psychiatrist. He tells her he didn’t defend himself in his hearing, because he doesn’t feel like he should have to.

Martin has a partial print from a shell casing. Danny reports that Julian just started calling Mary a week ago. Danny meets with Mary’s mom, she knows Julian. They went to college together. She says Julian visited last week and it was weird.

Flashback to her hearing Julian saying “he” has to be stopped and they should go to the police. He mentions a dead man named Stephen. She blows off her mom when asked. Mary left the day after fighting with her mom.

Sam and Elena find that Julian and Mary didn’t go to college together, but their phones were roaming at the same time in Buffalo. One of the matches for a partial print was from a guy Bob, in Buffalo, retired Army Special Forces.

They visit his wife. She says he moved out. She knows Julian and Mary. She says Julian was her step-son Stephen’s friend. He killed himself a week ago.

Flashback to the wake. They’re not welcome. Bob tells Julian that he killed his son. Julian says they had to talk about camp, that Stephen killed himself because they never talked about camp.

Bob blamed Julian for Stephen’s problems.

Martin wraps up with OPR, but they have one more question. They ask him to assess Jack’s “fitness” in running the missing persons unit. He gives them a "the field is different from the office" speech. The rest of the team answer. Elena says he’s great. Sam can’t believe they’re asking, but she says he’s the best man for the job. "But I don’t think that’s what you want to hear is it?" she says. Vivian also declines to play their game. Danny hesitates.

Jack is back with Julian’s wife, Anya. She says she knows nothing about the camp. He tries to convince her to talk. She does. She says he wasn’t very experienced when they first got married.

His wife says the man was a swimming instructor at the camp.

Jack heads to his office and Olczyk intercepts him. He says they have a decision. He tells him Jack is going back on the street, stepping down as head of the unit. Olczyk says he fought for him. Jack doesn’t really react, just walks off in a daze.

He checks in with Sam. Vivian tells him Bob wasn’t the swimming instructor, Bruce Matthew was. They pull up a picture of him. It’s Dan Mahoney. They think they were just going to meet with Dan, but Bob decided that wasn’t good enough.

At 11 hours missing, Danny tells Elena Dan changed his name eight years ago. Sam tells them there’s a van going up an access road at the camp.

Meanwhile, Sam is breathing funny. She goes to the hospital. She thinks she’s in labor. The nurse asks if there’s anyone they should call. Sam says no, with a sad face.

The FBI goes to the camp with SWAT. They bust down a door and find Mary bleeding with Julian trying to help her. The barista is also there. Julian says Bob and Dan are in the woods.

Flashback to Bob threatening Dan, calling him a worthless excuse for a human being. Dan begs for his life and Julian tackles Bob as he fires. Mary is hit.

Jack and Vivian track Bob into the woods. They find Bob with a gun on Dan. They try to get him to put the gun down, but Vivian shoots him in the arm and knocks him down.

Cut to her leading Dan into a police car.

Back the office, Jack pauses mournfully outside his office. He sees someone waiting at Sam’s desk, the guy she asked to watch her desk. Crafty Jack hits redial and gets the address.

He shows up at the hospital with a baseball hat. Sam’s holding her son. She offers to let Jack hold him. He’s all squishy and puffy baby-faced. Sam says she hasn’t named him yet. Jack tells her she didn’t have to do it alone. She says she did. He sighs, flustered. "What I mean is, you don’t have to do it alone anymore."

Fade out meaningfully.
Season Seven
Jack lumbers into work. The new boss Medina starts today.

A man follows someone. The followee turns around and sees him. He threatens him, telling him to do what he asked, and soon one is chasing the other. The guy being followed gets away. The follower disappears.

At the office, the team waits for Medina, discussing his credentials. They make Jack feel welcome. Medina arrives.

Ryan Mitchell was reported missing by his ex-wife. They're on the case because Mitchell's daughter went missing three years ago.

Medina quizzes the team on how to proceed. NYPD already has a sketch. He gives assignments - to everyone but Jack.

The ex-wife doesn't recognize the sketch. Flash to Ryan refusing to give up the search, blaming himself. She tells him he has to let Lindsay go.

The ex-wife doesn't want to leave the office. She waits in the break room.

Elena brings stuff from Ryan's house, including a church brochure. They listen to the tape of Ryan's first interview with police.

Flash to him on a street with Lindsay. A man bumps into Ryan and when he turns to look at him and then back, his daughter is gone. The team thinks that because no one remembered seeing the girl after she was taken, she didn't make any noise and might have known her abductor.

Martin's bank records show he wrote a check to a psychic.

18 Hours Missing

Martin and Danny visit the psychic. He recognizes him as a client but doesn't want to say more. The old "if you're hiding something we'll find it" works and the psychic flashes to meeting with Mitchell. Then, flashback within a flashback, the psychic sees Mitchell burying his daughter. Mitchell threatens him and the psychic says the check was to keep him quiet.
19 Hours Missing
Sam and Jack discuss if Mitchell is really a guy who would kill his own daughter. Elena goes to the church from the brochure, where he’s in a missing children support group. A woman there says he couldn’t have killed his daughter.

Elena and Martin talk to Eli Swanson, a man who’s son Billy was abducted by a sex offender named Ronald. Someone wrote down his plate as he grabbed the boy but he died in a hotel fire. Billy’s body wasn’t found. The man tells them how Ryan helped them. Flash to Ryan sympathizing. The man says Ryan gave him everything he’d gotten from the cops. The man doesn’t recognize the sketch. The man mentions the same psychic but says Ryan called him a fake.

Jack meets with Clare Bryson. He’s adjusting. He’s not feeling introspective. He tells her that people don’t change. She points out that no one is making him talk to her. She tells him to call when he figures out why he’s there.

Danny confronts the psychic for lying. Flash to, Ryan coming in with a check, telling the psychic to stay away from Eli and Laura because he’s giving them false hope.

Clark Medina checks in with Vivian. She finds a pick-up ticketed twice in the week Ryan’s daughter was taken belong to a man named Cohen.

Jack briefs Medina: Ryan’s E-Z Pass shows a trip to an area where Howard, a fellow perv of Ronald, Billy Swanson’s alleged abductor, lives. The photo looks like the sketch.

Sam and Martin pick him up, with only a slight amount of bruising. Martin tells Howard that Ryan figured out what he and Ronald did.

Flash to Ryan confronting Howard, who claims he knows nothing and that Ronald wouldn’t leave a witness. Howard mentions Ronald talked about his uncle’s farm outside of Albany.

Jack tells Clark about their possible lead in Albany. Just then Sam calls, asking him to cover for Medina. Jack and Clark hit the road.

Clark condescends to Jack about how he doesn’t color the walls with kids because he’s the parent. "My agents are not five-year-olds and they don’t play with crayons," says Jack.

Clark warns him that if Jack pulls one stupid thing, he’s out. Jack turns on the radio.

The kid on the farm saw a man digging a whole bunch of holes this morning. Flash to Ryan, doing just that, searching. He tells the kid a friend of his lost something and he’s trying to help him find it. But he hasn’t yet. Ryan says it’s not here. He made a mistake.

Vivian calls with a complicated update about Alex Cohen, the sister of the man in the truck outside the Mitchell’s house. She now lives in New Jersey, but the local PD says that she has an eight-year-old daughter. Jack thinks Lindsay might be alive.

24 Hours Missing
Martin tells Vivian Ryan was spotted using a pay phone. He called his ex-wife. She’s still in the break room. She checks her messages. He’s apologizing for not moving on. It sounds like he’s saying good-bye.

Elena goes to Alex Cohen’s house in New Jersey.

Danny says a clerk at the mall saw Ryan buying pooka shells, like Billy Swanson used to wear. Flash to Eli not believing Ryan when he says Billy’s gone. Ryan confesses that he made it up. He was just trying to give them closure.

Eli says he left him in the truck yard three hours ago.

Clark wants to stop looking for Ryan, an adult who’s clearly not under duress. Ryan’s E-Z Pass shows him heading back to the ice cream shop where he lost Lindsay. Clark gives Jack until the end of the day to wrap it up.

Vivian finds Ryan there. He says he didn’t mean to cause trouble. He was trying to help, but came up empty. "Well, we didn’t," Vivian tells him.

Back the office, Ryan walks up to see his ex-wife talking to their daughter. "If we hadn’t been looking for you," Jack tells him, "we never would have found her."

Guest Stars: Michael Aronov (Brice Hunter), Kelly AuCoin (Nick Selat), Jeff Branson (Mark), Kale Browne (Malcolm Pope), Wendy Glenn (Sara Kent), Caris Vujcev (Kim Mills)
Summary: A rising exec is abducted from a Taxi after attending a rooftop party. The team also continues to learn to adjust with their new boss.

Nick introduces his vp of marketing, Sarah Kent, to some important people, including a judge’s wife, at a swanky party. She gets a message, excuses herself and...doesn’t disappear. She walks back into the picture later, crying, on the phone with someone, saying she’ll see them soon. She drinks tequila at the bar. She leaves the party, hailing a cab. The driver starts to go the wrong way and stops. Masked men reach into the car and grab her.

7 hours missing. An eye witness saw Sarah being dragged from the cab. It was reported stolen. The door locks were sharpened so she couldn’t get out. Clark finds a towel soaked in ether, an easy way to knock someone out.

At the office, Viv is running sex offenders. Danny is coming up empty on family. Sarah’s last call was from a woman named Jackie from the company.

Jack and Sam visit Nick. In the elevator, Jack tells her about a job offer he got from a corporate guy. Nick’s party was celebrating the buy-out of his company. He gives Sarah a lot of credit.

Flash to him showing up 45 minutes late to meet her. He gives her a $100,000 bonus and a huge raise. She’s not very excited about it. She says she thought she’d be different now. Jack thinks her coming into money might be a reason to kidnap her.

Cut to Sarah, gagged in a steamer trunk. Someone drills holes in it.

12 Hours Missing.

Martin and Elena talk to Jackie. She tells them about a corporate apartment the company keeps. Sarah’s in charge of the key.

Flash to Sarah picking up pieces of a broken something at the party. Jackie tells Sarah she wants the key to hook up with the married CFO Kevin Abrahms. But Sarah won’t give it to her and says maybe she should just tell Kevin and his wife. Jackie told Kevin who went straight to Nick.

Back to Sarah, guys taking her out of the trunk. Taking a picture of her with the day’s newspaper.
13 Hours Missing.
Clark isn’t buying the theory that Sarah was grabbed to protect someone’s marriage. Sam and Jack try to convince him the line of thinking is worth pursuing. But Jack has to leave for his job interview.

Martin and Sam talk to Nick again. He says his wife didn’t care about his girlfriend. He says he didn’t do anything to her. He says he did need the key a few days ago.

Flash to Sarah throwing someone out of the apartment. Nick shows up with a lady friend. The older man is upset with Sarah and pulls a knife on Nick when he confronts him. Sarah says he’s from the rehab center.

Nick says Sarah volunteers at the center.
At the office, Sam watches her baby on a web nanny cam. Danny suggests they look into people from the rehab center with gambling addictions.

Jack meets with the corporate guy. He says he found Jack through a head hunter. He says Jack would travel the world with him and be in charge of his personal security.

17 Hours Missing.
Sarah’s tied up in a warehouse. A man holds a gun to her head and tells her if she screams she dies. He gives her water. She asks the two masked men why they’re doing it. They don’t answer. One man says, "It is what it is."

Flash to a man with a friend trying to buy Sarah and Jackie a drink in a bar. He comes on too strong and they leave. As they're walking out he says, "It is what it is."
"Is" Guy hits her. The other gives her ice for her lip when "Is" walks away.
At the office, Jack shows Sam corporate guy's offer. Judging by her reaction, it's a lot. He's still considering.

The cops picked up Malcolm Pope outside an OTB. He matched the description of the old guy. Sam and Jack talk to Malcolm. The same guy. He’s her dad.

Flash to, him telling her a tale of woe three days ago, needing $90,000. She says she can maybe give him a couple of grand. He asks if she can pay her rent late. She says she can’t do this anymore. She says she’ll give him the money she has, but he shouldn’t contact her anymore.

Malcolm says he owes money to Terry and Clint. No last names. He told them about Sarah so they wouldn’t kill him.

One of the masked men gets a text message. Sarah says she has to go to the bathroom. The nicer one takes her. Her hands are bound. She cuts the tape on the sharp edge of a paper towel holder. She locks the door and breaks the window. Masked Man kicks the door in, just in time to see her running down the street below.

19 Hours Missing.
Malcolm looks at mug shots, picking out a guy who’s been in jail for a year. He mentions Sarah’s boyfriend. He saw him drive up in a Porsche, then he smashed the window to steal his wallet. It’s Victor Morgan, the superior court judge whose wife Sarah met at the party.

Sarah tries to escape the warehouse compound. She sees the kidnappers with their masks off.

Flash to her walking in the park on Victor’s arm. He sees the two men and is obviously bothered. He won’t tell her who they are.

The kidnappers drive off.

Martin tells Clark about the judge lying in his statement. Clark asks Martin where he sees himself in three years. Clark wants him to be the primary relief supervisor for the unit. His number two. A new position.

Elena sees them shaking hands.
Clark tells Martin not to worry about his family connections. Elena asks Martin what that was about and he tells her just an update on the case.
Sarah runs down alleys. She runs into a public works employee. She wants to get out of there because the kidnappers are coming. She gets in his truck and they kidnappers catch up, knocking the guy out.

Danny follows up on what the city worker said. He says the city worker’s cell phone is missing, which means Sarah might have it.

Jack goes to talk to the judge when Clark stops him to tell him he gave him a good reference. Funny, because Jack didn’t use Clark as a reference. He asks Clark if the guy is a friend of his. Clark suggests it might be time for a fresh start.
Jack talks to the judge. He sticks to his original statement. Jack points out Sarah was in the same cities he was recently. The judge says he doesn’t know where she is.

Flash to Sarah breaking things off with the judge at the party. She says she just wants to take care of herself and move forward with her life. The judge tries to make her stay. She knocks over the vase we saw her cleaning up earlier.

Jack tells the judge his cell records show he got a call and a text from a burner cell phone hours after her kidnapping. He pulls out his cell phone and shows Jack the picture of Sarah with the newspaper. He says it’s related to a house fire case he’s hearing that has mob ties. They took her so he’d throw out the case. He didn’t, because he has a wife and family.

The kidnappers drive around, panicked. The jerkier one says she’s seen their faces, they have to get rid of her. Tied up in the back, Sarah pulls the city worker’s phone out of her dress.

In the office, they track the signal. They try to match the area she’s in to properties owned by the guy on trial. Sam and Martin arrive at the property. As the kidnappers take Sarah out of the van, Martin shoots the nicer one. The jerk has Sarah. She sees Sam, who motions to her to get down. Sarah drops and Sam shoots the kidnapper. Sarah’s safe.

Sam goes home. Her nanny tells her that her son is asleep. She checks on him, watching him be adorable as he sleeps. She picks him up and rocks him. Jack watches her on the nanny webcam from work, which is both touching and creepy. He turns off the video and walks out of the office.

Summary: A white-collar criminal goes missing on his way to testify against a former associate and the team must find out why.

In the Parkerville Federal Correctional Institute, two men plant flowers. Later, a guard comes for one of them with a suit to change into. The guard says they're running late.

In the prison van, the guard chats amiably with the man, who warns him off a bad real estate investment. When they come upon a Yukon blocking the road, the driver tells the man, Reynolds, to sit back. As the driver radios in that the SUV is blocking the road, their van flips. Two masked men pry the doors off the take Alan Reynolds out.

4 Hours Missing.

There's a bullet wound in the van's tire and the guard and the marshal had to be airlifted. Reynolds ran a hedge fun and was doing 14 months for fraud and was about to testify against his former partner. Sam wonders why they took him rather than killing him.

6 Hours Missing.

They think there were at least two abductors. Vivian briefs Medina via phone. Reynolds got the deal because they were after the boss, Lawter. Reynolds' emergency contact is Mark Shapiro, a bartender.

Mark is surprised to learn this when Martin and Jack visit him. He says the last time he saw Alan was the night before he went to prison at a sort of going away party. Flashback, Mark toasts him, talking about how he picked up his medical bills and paid for his own ex-wife's lawyer in a custody battle. Alan keeps checking his phone, hoping for a call. Mark doesn't know from who.

8 Hours Missing

The interview the boss, Lawter. Flashback to Lawter with Reynolds, being confronted by Richard Conlon, a man who wanted to withdraw $5 mil of his money immediately. Lawter says Conlon is connected and he's not pleased Alan raided his account to cover their losses. Two days later they were busted and Conlon still wants the rest of his money.
Organized Crime has boxes on Conlon, who has hired muscle. Martin and Elena show their photos to the hospitalized guard, who says they wore masks. Flashback to that night, Alan asking the masked men why they flipped the van and apologizing to the guard and saying he's sorry it had to be this way. It wasn't a kidnapping, it was an escape.

10 Hours Missing.

Alan's records show he hasn't had visitors, but he's known for three weeks that he'd be testifying. Vivian asks Jack if they should call Medina in DC and kick it to the US Marshals since it's an escape. He says no, it doesn't matter as long as they solve the case. Jack's not buying the escape, since Alan only had six months to serve.

They get a call about the abandoned van, but there are no prints, personal effects, nothing. A janitor walks up and starts to walk away nervously. Danny and Elena stop him. He saw Alan two hours ago. He walked into something. Flashback to Alan telling a guy that they're going to walk away with $10 million and his boss isn't going to care about $25,000 more. Alan seems to be saying his fee for the tip is $100,000. Bad Dude saw the janitor standing there and called him over angrily. But Alan, seeing janitor's earbuds, said pointedly to Bad Dude, "I don't think he can hear you." Janitor caught on and said "What?" Janitor tells Elena that Alan bailed him out. They want a sketch of Bad Dude.

13 Hours Missing.

They work the phones, calling backs to see if any have $10 mil on hand. Martin says none of the local banks are holding anything close to that. They don't understand why Alan Reynolds is robbing banks now. Bad Dude is ID'd as Roger Graham. He was released from the same prison Alan was in two months ago. He has a long rap sheet and is accused of murdering his last partner.

Jack chats with Alan's mom. Their relationship was complicated. She thinks Alan was ashamed. She says their family fell apart when Alan was a teenager and he took the brunt of it. Flashback to young Alan with his dad, who's telling him the company laid him off after 16 years. He got drunk and hit Alan's mom. His house is for sale. Mom honks outside while his dad tells Alan he loves him. Alan walks outside, but then thinks back on how oddly his dad was acting. He rushes back inside to find his father had hung himself. Alan was 15.

His mom says Alan was obsessed with making money, anything to not be like his dad. Jack asks her who Alan might have been waiting to hear from the night before he went away. Mom mentions a woman who had tried to reach Alan over the years. Leslie something. Mom doesn't remember but has some old Christmas cards she sent.

Sam gets a call that someone called 911 and hour ago saying a bank in Yonkers is going to be held up.

Cut to the bank, three masked men with automatic weapons bust in. They don't get far in the robbery before Martin, Danny and a whole bunch of agents with guns stop them. One won't drop his gun and Martin shoots him in the bullet proof vest. They demask them. None of them are Alan but one of them is Roger Graham.

16 Hours Missing.

Jack has the woman's name, Leslie Pickford.

Danny fails miserably at getting Graham to talk at the bank. Martin and Danny wonder if they're wrong about Reynolds. There was only $8,000 in the bank. Was Reynolds wrong or pulling something on the robbers? They go to the 911 tape.

At the office, a tech says the call definitely came from Alan, giving the dispatcher all the info, saying that the men want what's in the vault and someone has to stop them. A minute before Alan's tip a call was made to the prison infirmary.

17 Hours Missing.

Jack calls Julie Pickford from his car, she says she's not related to a Leslie. He crosses that name off his list.

Danny meets with Dr. Riley, from the prison. He wants to know why Alan called. The doc says he didn't help Alan escape. Alan wanted to know about a diagnosis he made a few months ago. Flashback to Dr. Riley checking in with Alan about the chemo he needs for terminal pancreatic cancer. Alan doesn't want to treat it. He wants to keep his dignity for his testimony. He wants to die his own way.

Riley says Alan called to know what to do about the pain. The doc says Alan has stage four, he's living on borrowed time.

20 Hours Missing

Martin meets with Alan’s cell mate, Sean, who says he didn’t know about the diagnosis. He has 10 months left on his sentence. Martin threatens him with more time. Sean says he honestly didn’t know about the escape, but the diagnosis really shook Alan. Flashback to Alan telling Sean about it. Alan said he had a few months. He doesn’t want to die inside. He thought he’d have time to fix things.

Martin asks Sean if he knows who Alan might be looking for. Sean pulls out a letter Alan told him to mail if anything ever happened. He gave it to Sean two days ago.

Martin looks at it and calls Jack. He thinks Jack is on the right track with Leslie Pickford, but he’s not there to see her.

Jack knocks on the door. A young teen answers. Jack tries to get Corey to tell him where his dad, Alan, is. He was there half an hour ago.

Flashback to Alan talking to Corey, who doesn’t want to hear anything he has to say. He’s angry, that’s why Corey didn’t call the night Alan was going away. Alan tells him he never got a chance to ask his own dad why he left and it haunts him. Alan says he’s not leaving until he and Corey deal with some stuff.

Corey tells Jack about wondering about his dad. Corey says they talked and then he asked him to leave. Corey’s 15, the same age Alan was when his dad killed himself. Jack tells him his experience with his dad doesn’t have to define the rest of his life. Corey wonders why Alan would visit now and Jack says he doesn’t know.

Jack leaves, calling Martin and saying he thinks Reynolds is at his mother’s house. Jack pulls up and finds Alan sitting on the steps. He cuffs him.

On the drive in, Jack tells Alan he did the right thing going to see Corey. Jack tells Alan he didn’t tell Corey his dad was sick. Jack says he’s sorry to hear about Alan’s dad. Jack says his mother punched her own ticket, but he has no idea why. Jack asks Alan what he would have done if he hadn’t found him. Alan says he was going to live on the $100,000 he conned off Graham, spend time with his mom and try to fix things with his son.

Alone in the office, Jack types up his report. He recaps what Alan was doing after he broke out. They traced Alan to his mother’s house, but at that point the trail went cold. He recommends that, given Alan’s escape and his terminal status, the FBI devote no further resources to the case and forward it to the US Marshals service.

Summary: The teenage son of a Secret Service agent disappears; a long festering secret that set a deadly chain of events in motion is discovered.

A young man, Will, leaves his fancy apartment building. He holds the door for a neighbor who asks him to hold her baby while she gets her mail. The doorman hears shouting outside and runs out to see Will sitting bloody on the sidewalk with a man standing over him. He gets up and walks away and disappears.

Sam comes into work cooing about her kid. Medina is back from DC, with a case, Will’s. Will’s dad is a counterfeiting agent with the Secret Service and Will went to school with Medina’s son.

16 Hours Missing

Jack and Danny visit Will’s parents, Mark and Lisa Duncan, who are extremely organized with forms and lists ready. They’ve put out an Amber Alert already. Danny hands them a sketch of the man who assaulted Will but his dad’s sure it was a counterfeiter, possibly some Belgian ones he’s investigating. Flashback to Will quitting an internship at his dad’s office and his dad getting mad at him. Will telling his dad he’s a hypocrite and doesn’t care who he hurts.

At the office while Sam looks into the Belgians Elena reports that Will has been cutting school. Martin checks in with Medina and tells him thanks but no thanks on the No. 2 offer. He’s not comfortable with the circumstances.

Viv and Elena visit the school to talk to his best friend, a girl named Darby. She doesn’t recognize the sketch. With her mom standing there, Darby says she doesn’t know why Will was ditching. She says Will idolizes his dad. Flashback to Darby presenting him with floor tickets to a concert, but him turning them down because he can’t afford them. He says his dad won’t give him money for anything unless it’s for school or health, but that he’s cool in his own way. She says a few weeks later he showed up with hundred dollar bills but wouldn’t tell her where he got them.

Off the phones, Danny has discovered Will stole the counterfeit money from his dad’s stash for presentations from home.
Without a Trace Episode Guide

Martin gets a call. The receipt from Will’s backpack is a password from an Internet cafe near Will’s house.

Jack tells Sam he turned down the Wall St. guy’s offer. He decided to stick around and “see what opportunities opened up.”

19 Hours Missing

Sam and Jack at the Internet cafe. A woman there, Lilah, recognizes his photo, but not the sketch. Flashback to Will at the cafe being confronted by a jock, telling him he gave him the wrong file. She says the jock was in there a few days earlier and it seemed fine.

20 Hours Missing

At the office a tech goes through the Internet cafe computer. He hacked into the school’s server, downloading tests.

Jack visits the headmaster, who is surprised Will was cheating. Jack shows him a sketch of the jock. Jack says the school swapped out dummy tests, which could have been why the jock was mad.

23 Hours Missing

They interview the jock, Brett, who says he doesn’t recognize the sketch of the guy who beat up Will. When they threaten his academic record, he ‘fesses up, saying Will gave answers away. Flashback to Brett discussing poor cheating strategies with a classmate and Will overhearing and offering to get the tests, saying everybody cheats.

Brett says four other kids flunked the same midterm he did.

Medina confronts Jack, saying it’s not about finding people, it’s a power trip for him. He’s mad Jack talked to the headmaster without going to him.

Sam has ID’d the attacker, brother of a counterfeiter.

24 Hours Missing

Elena and Viv visit the guy, Gene Fuller, who says his brother was small time and he just wanted to discuss it with Mr. Duncan. He says he didn’t hit the kid, he helped him up when someone else hit him. Flashback to the guy from the cafe confronting Will over his sister, Lilah, saying she’s not right for him. Gene ran because he’s on probation and didn’t want problems.

Danny shows the Duncans photos of Lilah and Terrance, the Internet cafe people. Jack asks Mr. Duncan what he’s hiding. Mrs. Duncan tells him to tell the truth because Will found out that his dad was having an affair.

Flashback to Will coming home and not wanting to talk to his mom. He tells her he saw his dad with a woman a week before he quit his internship. They were hailing a cab together. Flashback within a flashback to Mark canoodling on the sidewalk with a young blonde. He tells his mom he’s sorry, but she says he must be confused and doesn’t know what he saw.

Jack asks Mr. Duncan for the name of his mistress.

Viv checks with Medina. Connecticut police caught Lilah and Terrance coming back into town. She tells Medina that Will knew his dad was having an affair.

Martin with Terrance. Sam trying to intimidate Lilah. Terrance says he hasn’t seen Will since the sidewalk. They were at a cabin in Connecticut. Lilah says Will didn’t break up with her. She’s pregnant.

Flashback to Will talking to Lilah after his beatdown, saying they should talk. He doesn’t want to be a coward like his dad. He tells her he loves her and wants to do right by her. She says they talked for hours and he called a cab and left. She says her brother didn’t do anything to Will.

29 Hours Missing

Martin and Elena check the building where the cabbie said he took Will. They see blood on the stairs and a spot where a rug is missing, complete with drag marks.

30 Hours Missing

Forensics teams go over the apartment. Vivian tells Danny that Mr. Duncan leases an apartment in that building. Danny interviews him while Medina and Jack watch. Jack doesn’t think he did it. Medina says the case hit a little close and might have clouded his judgment.

Vivian has footage from the security camera out front. It shows Darby going in after Will.

They confront her with the photos. Her mother says she wasn’t involved while Jack asks Darby if she killed him. They ask for a DNA sample. She says he wouldn’t help her. She followed him from the Internet cafe. Flashback: She wants the English lit test, but he tells her he’s not doing it anymore. She freaks out as he stands on the stairs. She grabs for him and he falls down the stairs backwards landing, dead, at the bottom.
Jack asks who helped her move the body. Flashback to her mom showing up and helping her. Darby cries, upset that her friend is dead over a stupid grade. They find his body in the Dumpster out back.

A montage (set to a mournful Rufus Wainwright tune) shows Medina breaking the news to the Duncans, Sam telling Lilah and the Duncans meeting the mother of their grandchild.

Jack drops the case report off with Medina who says it was pointless because nothing they did would have saved him. Jack says there’s no amount of training that can prepare you for what people can do to each other. He says taking the job home with him doesn’t help him sleep, but it gets the job done.

Summary: Martin is left on his own to solve the disappearance of a victim’s advocate from the scene of a double homicide when Agent Medina diverts the rest of the team to investigate the abduction of a little girl from a mall.

Fran is scared to leave a room and a woman talks her out, slowly walking her past a dead man and a woman, police and forensic techs. She’s in shock as she’s loaded into an ambulance. The woman who talked her out disappears.

Ariana Murray, a victim’s advocate has been missing six hours. The woman she helped, Fran, was avoiding an abusive husband at her brother and sister-in-law’s house when he came in and killed them both. Jack and Clark argue over where to start, Clark likes the husband.

They meet with Ariana’s girlfriend, Val, who was worried about Ariana’s work. Ariana’s mother was killed in front of her when she was 10.

Flashback to their first night out in a long time, Ariana gives her girlfriend earrings to soften the blow of backing out of quitting her job. Val reminds her that a client hurt her recently, but Val doesn’t know who.

Jack looks into Curtis, the boyfriend who killed Ariana’s mom years ago and recently was released from jail. Elena and Danny go into past cases. Clark micromanages.

They meet with Fran, telling her they haven’t caught her ex Andy yet and that Ariana is missing. Flashback to the night before, Ariana talking to Fran. Flashback within a flashback, Andy knocks on the door and Fran’s brother Tyler answers, telling Fran to hide. She runs for the closet and when Tyler opens the door Andy pushes his way. When Tyler hits him with a flashlight Andy pulls out a gun and kills them both. Fran had met with Ariana a few weeks before to get advice on how to leave him. He found her card in Fran’s purse.
Someone saw Andy and Ariana at a coffee shop a few hours after she disappeared.

Clark calls for everyone’s attention and turns on a TV report about Madeline Ross, a 4-year-old girl who was abducted from a mall 27 minutes ago. He wants them on the kid and says that Ariana is already dead. Jack accuses him of picking the sexier case and when a shouting match ensues Martin suggests he keep on Ariana while Jack, who’s good with kid’s cases, go with Clark.

Martin checks the morgue Jane Does while the whole office focuses on Madeline Ross and finds nothing. He calls Andy’s mom who denies having spoken with him, contrary to her phone records, and then hangs up on him.

Clark roughly interviews Mr. Ross while Jack gets information from Mrs. Ross with a softer touch. Flashback to: Mrs. Ross and two daughters go to a bathworks store. She leaves the girls outside while she goes in. The older daughter ignores her little sister and plays video games while a man comes up and offers Madeline a ring and leads her away.

The security video doesn’t show them much but they’ve got a car description.

Martin briefs Clark over the phone, telling him NYPD has picked up Andy and he’s going to interview him. Clark tells him to have the police do it, but Martin argues it’s the best way to close the case. Vivian speaks to Clark next and tells him they have three other abductions with the same MO. They found costume rings on the girls’ bodies. They were all killed the same day they were taken.

At the mall, Danny tells Clark they have a hit on the car.

They find it but it’s empty. But there’s a little girl’s boot in back.

At HQ, they ask the parents if they’ve seen things or been places that connect to the guy’s MO. They figure out something is up. The dad wants to know what happened to those other girls and when Clark won’t tell him he gets up and starts yelling. Clark yells back, ends up slammed against the wall and nearly punches the dad.

Meanwhile, Martin talks to the ex Andy, who denies killing Fran’s brother and sister-in-law. He says he went for a ride with Ariana. Flashback to Andy in the car with a gun on Ariana, denying he had anything to do with the murders. He tells Ariana and then Martin to look at his unbruised, uncut forehead. He says he dropped Ariana off.

A trooper tells Jack and Elena that he thinks he stopped the guy on the Amber Alert, but he was in a pick-up not an Accord, so he let him go. Flashback to Richard Lamb getting pulled over and whispering because he says his daughter is asleep in the seat next to him. The cop is sympathetic and lets him go, but he couldn’t tell if Madeline was moving under the blanket.

At HQ, Martin tells Clark he thinks Ariana is still alive and he needs more manpower. Clark says no.

Martin talks to Fran again because her story doesn’t check out. Cell phone records show Ariana called Fran from Soho where Andy dropped her off. Fran confesses to the call. Flashback: Ariana calls and asks what happened. Fran says her daughter and her junkie boyfriend found out she was taking money out of savings and came for it. She covered for her daughter Carla because she blames herself for setting a bad example with men. Martin chides Fran for having wasted his time and gets Carla’s friends names to follow up on.

Jack and Clark meet with Richard Lamb’s brother, who doesn’t believe his brother could have killed the girls. Jack lays out the evidence, that they found the rings at his place and found the ballpark chalk Richard uses at work on the girls’ bodies. He says he can’t help and leaves.

Martin finds Carla but her boyfriend Zach is gone. Flashback to Ariana finding Carla when Zach’s inside, trying to convince her to leave with him. But Zach comes out with a gun and hits Ariana over the head. Carla ran away. That was 20 minutes ago. Martin puts out an APB.

Richard Lamb’s brother drove straight home and called no one. Clark is nervous. He asks Jack what rock he hasn’t looked under. Jack offers to go for a drive. Clark thinks that sounds like a good idea.

Martin gets a call that slows him down. He puts away his phone and goes into Clark’s office. They found Ariana. She bled to death from a blow to the head. They pulled over Zach on the freeway, she was in his trunk. He missed her by 20 minutes, he wants Clark to know that.

Jack’s ride puts him at Richard Lamb’s brother’s house. He busts down his door with his gun out and wraps a hanger around his neck like Richard does to the girls. He nearly chokes the guy to death until he remembers seeing a state park pass on Richard’s table.

They go to the park and find a truck on the side of the road. Richard starts shooting at them. Sam fires back and hits him, killing him. Clark races over to Richard’s truck and opens the back.
He finds Maddy lying there. She sits up, fine.

They take her to her parents. Jack watches Clark watch the reunion, seemingly wondering if he now understands why sometimes following the rules isn't enough.

Martin breaks the sad news to Ariana’s girlfriend.

Jack talks to Clark, congratulating him on the Madeline case. Clark says Ariana’s dead because of him and Jack says it’s part of the job. Jack notes that a higher job is open and saving a "little white girl" could be leveraged to move up. Clark says he was just trying to save her, but Jack says only as long as he didn’t have to get his hands dirty. Clark says Jack doing what he did gives him some leverage of his own. Clark does want the promotion. He says he’ll recommend to the director that he reinstate Jack. "Soon, all this will be yours again," Clark tells him. "Well played."

"See, that’s your problem Clark," Jack says, "you still think this is a game." Clark packs up his desk.
Two neighbors, Melanie and Erin, greet each other in the street. Melanie gives Erin her mail and says that the post office delivered it to her address by mistake. Melanie sees that Erin is receiving a baby furniture catalog and tells her that she has a crib they aren’t using anymore. Erin tells her that the catalog must have been delivered to her by mistake because she has no plans for a baby. Later that night, Melanie walks out to her car and hears Erin fighting with a man in her house. Melanie starts to call the police, but stops when the man leaves Erin’s house.

The FBI team gets the call that Erin MacMillan has been reported missing. A coworker who was unable to get a hold of her became worried and went to Erin’s place to check on her. The coworker saw that her house was trashed, so she called the police. The agents talk to Melanie who tells them about the fight. Melanie says that the man was not Erin’s husband. The team thinks that the man Erin was arguing with could have come back or her husband could have found out that Erin was having an affair.

Alex stops Martin in the hallway and asks him how the transition with Jack is coming along. Martin tells him that things are fine. Alex says that he knows Martin was offered Jack’s job and he turned it down. He tells him that he has his back if he finds himself feeling any retaliation for the job offer. Jack exits the elevator and sees the two men talking. Martin tells Jack that they found Erin’s husband and he’s waiting to be questioned.

Elena and Jack talk to the husband. They show him a sketch from Melanie’s description and ask if he recognizes the man. He tells them he has no idea who he is and he can’t explain why his wife would have been fighting with him in their home. He tells the detectives that he and Erin were trying to get pregnant and were under a lot of stress after being unsuccessful for a year. He says that a couple of weeks ago he approached her to try because her cycle was at the peak, but she told him she was too stressed out by work. He says that Erin broke down and cried because her boss, the bank manager named Jay Costas, had piled so much work on her.

Samantha brings Jay Costas in for questioning. He doesn’t recognize the man in the sketch either. He explains that Erin’s job was to collect on delinquent bills. Jay recalls one day when a man named Luke Cullen walked into Erin’s office an yelled at her for foreclosing on his home. Erin became upset, which Jay explains is really out of character for her. He says Luke left without incident. Jim then asked Erin for her reports and she told him that she was late with her work that day because she had a doctor’s appointment. Samantha asks if they keep a record of all the threats made against their employees and Jay returns with boxes full of Erin’s hostile customers.

The detectives find out that Erin met with her OB/GYN that day and her husband didn’t know about the appointment. They think she may have gotten pregnant by the man she fought with the night she disappeared. Vivian then alerts the detectives that someone at the bank Erin worked at had used her ID code to make a transaction. She finds out that the computer the transaction occurred on belongs to Carter Watson, but he is out with the flu.

Jack, Danny, and Vivian go to the bank to question the employees. Jack asks Jay to close off the bank exits so they can talk to the customers. Danny point out that they can’t hold people against their will. Jack says that as long as they don’t know that, they will be fine. Jay tell the detectives that his boss won’t release any information without a warrant. Jack tells him that Erin is missing and the longer they wait, the more likely it is that she could be killed.

Jack talks to an employee named Todd Bell. He says that he never talked to Erin until 2 weeks ago when she came into his office and asked him to sign a birthday card. He says it was strange because no one has asked him to sign a card in the 2 years that he’s worked there. He says that while he was signing it, Erin asked to borrow a pencil. She then walked out suddenly. Todd reminded her about the card and she took it, then left. Jack asks to look in the drawer that Erin took the pencil from. Jack opens the drawer and sees that there is a list of all the employees passcodes.

Vivian talks to Willa, Erin’s friend at work. Willa says that she and Erin talked at work, but didn’t hang out outside of work. Willa remembers that a couple of weeks ago, she saw Erin in a coffee shop and noticed that she wasn’t herself. She asked Erin what the problem was and Erin told her that she had just gone to an OB/GYN appointment and found out that she was sterile from an infection she never knew she had. Erin told her that she has been trying to have a baby and feels awful because she had already had a baby when she was 16. Erin said she got pregnant by her high school boyfriend, then gave the baby up for adoption. She told Willa that she hasn’t told her husband yet. Vivian asks if Willa thinks she eventually told her husband. Willa says she doesn’t know for sure, but doesn’t think so because Erin seemed almost afraid to tell him the truth.

The detectives are told that Erin’s computer activity shows that she has stolen $100,000 from closed accounts over the last 2 weeks. Jay doesn’t believe it could be possible, but The detective discover that Erin has an offshore account with $50,000 and another account with the other half, under the name of Nathan York.

The detectives talk to Erin’s husband again. He says that he can’t believe that she would steal. He also doesn’t believe she would have an affair and says that there has to be an explanation. They tell him about her teen pregnancy, but he says that he’s sure she would have told him about it when she was ready.

The team then interviews Nathan and finds out that he is Erin’s high school boyfriend and the man Erin was arguing with the night she disappeared. He tells them that he didn’t know the money was stolen. He explains that Erin looked him up out of the blue and they met in a park. She asked if he ever thought about the baby they gave up for adoption. He told her that he thinks about him sometimes, but he and his wife are expecting their first child which makes it easier for him to think about their child’s adoption. He says that Erin offered to give him a loan and he took it because his business was struggling and he was expecting a child. He says that his wife told him to give the money back and that was when he found out Erin had stolen the money. Nathan says that they were fighting about the money being stolen and he left, returning the money and telling her to fix it. He tells them when and in what hospital their child was born. The detectives then use that information to find out who adopted the child.
Elena and Samantha go to the adoptive family’s house. They get no answer at the door. A neighbor sees them and asks if he can help. They show him a picture of Erin and he says that she came by not to long ago. He says that she said she was an old friend and just wanted to stop by. He says he had to give her the bad news that the family moved because their son Josh was killed by a drunk driver across the street and the family couldn’t bear living there anymore. The neighbor says that Erin seemed to take the news really hard.

The detectives figure that Erin was going to try to give the money to her son, but when she found out he was dead, she probably wanted to give it to Nathan as a way to stay connected. They think she may have had an accomplice at work. Martin acquires a list of the people who’s fingerprints appeared on Carter Watson’s computer. He gives the names to Vivian to see if any of the people had clearance to make the transactions. He says the name Willa and Vivian realizes that Erin’s friend was probably helping her.

Martin and Vivian question Willa. Willa says that Erin approached her one day and told her that she stole money and wanted to return it. Willa says that she told Erin that returning the money would put up a red flag and she would be caught. Erin said she didn’t care. Willa admits that she decided to piggyback off of Erin’s transactions, but says she doesn’t know where Erin is. She says that it was her boyfriend’s idea to kidnap Erin. She was supposed to call him this morning when she could confirm that the transactions were finalized, but when the police arrived, she was unable to contact him. They ask if her boyfriend would hurt Erin if he didn’t hear from her and she says she doesn’t know. Vivian then tells Willa to call Robbie and act like everything is fine. Willa makes the call.

Willa meets her boyfriend on the street and sees that he has Erin in the backseat of his car. She signals that Erin is there and the police move in. Robbie tries to get away, but is unable. The officers arrest him, then after establishing that Erin is okay, they arrest her too.

Martin meets Jack in his office. Jack tells Martin that he knows Medina offered him the number two position and he turned it down. Jack point out that if Martin had taken the job, Jack wouldn’t be sitting in his chair now. Martin tells Jack he’s sorry and blames his dad for trying to give him the job.

Summary: Our squad discovers a shocking truth during an investigation of a missing paraplegic recently injured in a car accident. The team also continues to adjust to “normal” without Agent Medina and with Jack back at the head.

Danny and Elena wake up together. Danny hands Elena a gift. She opens it, finds a necklace, and asks what it’s for. He asks if she really doesn’t know, then tells her that he has to leave to go to work. She pulls him back into bed and kisses him before he leaves.

A man named Chris rides his bike down a dark street, pedaling as fast as he can. Suddenly he is hit by a truck. The images then rewind and play again then the man wakes up from his nightmare. The man then gets into his wheelchair, then enters his van, and finds himself sitting in traffic. A car pulls up next to him and he sees his old friends. They ask him if he wants to play basketball with them sometime and he tells them that he can’t because he’s in a wheelchair. They ask what happened, but he doesn’t want to talk about it. They tell him that they’d still like to hang out and play, but he says he can’t, then drives off.

The FBI learns that Chris has gone missing and his wheelchair was found in a dumpster. Chris’s brother Gary reported him missing after he wasn’t heard from in 7 hours. Gary said that Chris was in the middle of a $5 million lawsuit against the trucking company that hit him. Vivian and Jack talk to Gary and his wife. They tell the detectives that Chris was being followed by a guy from the insurance company who was spying on him to see if he was faking his injuries. Gary says that the man followed Chris everywhere to try to pressure him into dropping the lawsuit, but Chris refused to back down. The day after the court date was set, Chris found his tires had been slashed. Gary says that he saw the car that was harassing him and although he couldn’t see the man driving, he did get the license plate number.

Back at the headquarters, Elena and Fitzgerald talk about the case. Samantha notices Elena’s necklace and Elena tells her she treated herself. They find out that Chris’s hard drive was wiped.
clean. They run the license plate number that Gary gave them and find that it belongs to a leasing company, but they won't release the renter without a subpoena.

The detectives find out that Chris used to frequent a bar, so they go to talk to the bartender. He tells them that Chris used to pay him to set him up on a stool and hide his wheelchair so he could flirt with girls without being judged. The bartender remembers a few nights ago, Chris was talking to a lady and a big, burly man interrupted. He butt in and tried to ask the lady out for himself. Chris became angry and the guy started to beat him up. He threw Chris on the ground, then started to kick him. He asked Chris why he wasn't moving his legs and then the bartender ran over to help him up. The bartender told the guy that Chris couldn’t walk, then the guy left.

Jack and Samantha meet with the man who was driving the car that Gary saw. He tells them that he is a private investigator and his information about Chris is privileged. He says he knows nothing about Chris’s disappearance, but says that he was into some sick stuff. The detectives ask for clarification. The man tells them that he hacked into Chris’s computer and copied all his files. He says that he confronted Chris and told him to drop the lawsuit or he would release all the files he found on his computer. The detectives ask what kind of files he had and the man says that Chris spent a lot of time in teen sex chat rooms. Jack then tells the man that he just admitted to extortion.

Vivian investigates the teen chat allegations and finds the information to be accurate. She says that Chris arranged to meet with a local girl who gave him her address. Jack goes to the address and is greeted by KitKat, the girl from the chat room. She tells Jack to sit down while she changes, Jack tells her that he is FBI and she calls for Anton to come out of hiding. Anton, holding a video camera, enters the room and tells Jack that Chris wasn’t a pervert, he worked with them. He explains that they run Twisted Vengeance, an organization aimed at catching sex offenders. Anton says that Chris joined because he wanted to be a cop, but since his accident made that not possible, he thought that catching child molesters was the next best thing.

Jack asks Anton if anything ever went wrong during their operation, suggesting that someone might become angry and try to kill them for ruining their life. Anton tells Jack that a couple of days ago, they had lured a man named Barry to their place and when Anton told him that he was caught in their sting operation, Barry punched him. Chris then wheeled out, pointed a gun at Barry, and Barry left. KitKat says that Chris just got the gun after getting into a bar fight which made him feel helpless. She says that the next day, they came home and found that someone had broken in and stolen their tapes. After that, she said that she wanted out of the operation because it didn’t feel right anymore. Chris told her that he wanted to stay because he felt like he belonged. Chris then told them that he thought Barry stole the tapes and he wanted to go after him. They knew he was a local man because he got to the house only 30 minutes after she gave him the address.

Elena pulls Danny aside and gives him a gift to celebrate their ‘special’ day. He asks if she knows what is special about the day and she tries again to get him to tell her. He doesn’t tell and she takes back her gift.

Vivian loads Barry’s face into the computer and searches for a match. She finds out that his real name is Harry and tells the detectives where to find him. Danny and Fitzgerald go to Harry’s apartment and when no one answers, they kick in the door. They find Harry dead from a gunshot wound to the head. They find out that the bullet came from the same type of gun Chris had. They also notice two bottles of root beer and figure Harry had a friend over before Chris arrived. They run the fingerprints and find out that Harry met with his old cell mate.

They bring Harry’s cell mate in and show him a picture of Chris. They ask if he killed him and he says that he would never kill a guy in a wheelchair. Jack asks how he knew he was in a wheelchair just by looking at his headshot. Jack then tells him that associating with Harry is a violation of his parole which could land him back in prison. Jack says that if he tells them what happened, they might not tell his parole officer. The man finally admits that he was with Harry because he was freaking out about getting caught in the sting. Someone knocked on the door and hid in the closet while Harry saw who it was. He watched as Chris wheeled in with his gun and confronted Harry about stealing the tape. Harry gave the tape back and begged him not to tell the police. Chris made Harry get down on his knees and he hit him with his gun. Harry then became upset, grabbed Chris’s gun, then shot himself because he couldn’t go back to prison.

Vivian confirms with the coroner that Harry committed suicide. Elena finds out that Chris used a phone card to call his brother the night Harry killed himself. Vivian and Danny go back to Gary’s house and ask why he didn’t tell them about the call. Gary says he didn’t think the call was important. He says that Chris called him and said he was going to drop the lawsuit because the accident was his fault. Chris told him that the light went out on his bike and he kept going anyway. The driver hit him because he didn’t see him coming. Chris said that he tried to deny that the accident was his fault and took his anger out on other people. Gary said that Chris told him that he knew he needed the money and he would find another way to get it for him. Vivian and Danny suggest that Chris dropping the lawsuit would give him motive to hurt him, but Chris says he would never hurt his brother.

The detectives then learn that Ray, the driver of the truck that hit Chris, just cashed in Chris’s wheelchair ramp from his van to a chop shop. They find out that Ray is broke and think he might have a motive to stop Chris from suing. Danny meets with Ray and learns that Chris showed up out of the blue and apologized to him for causing the accident. Ray became angry at Chris for ruining his life. Chris then gave him the keys to his van and said that he knew it didn’t make up for anything, but it was a start. Ray says that Chris then went across the street and got into a late model Sable driven by a dark haired man wearing a blue jacket.

The detectives do a search and find that a late model Sable is registered to a Bill a.k.a. Anton. The detectives return to Anton’s house and find both him and Chris in the basement. They see that Anton has a bloody wound on his chest and is dead. Chris is still alive and he tells the detectives that he tried to tell Anton that he was done, but he wouldn’t let him leave. Chris wanted to tell the police about Harry, but Anton thought that the police would shut down their operation. He says that Anton then choked him until he passed out, dragged him to the basement and wrapped his body in plastic. Chris says that Anton later came back, probably to dispose of his body, but saw that Chris was still alive. He started beating Chris with a bat and Chris saw a screwdriver and stabbed Anton with it. Fitzgerald tells Chris that Anton’s real name is Bill and he was sexually assaulted during a robbery when he was young. He says that they never caught the offender.

Danny meets with Elena and she gives him the necklace back. She tells him that she can’t keep it because she doesn’t know what it’s for so she doesn’t deserve it. Danny tells her that one year ago they went to Central Park with Sophie. Elena then remembers that it was the first time he said I love you. They kiss and she tells him that she doesn’t care that they are at work. Jack walks in and asks if he’s interrupting. They tell him yes, then continue to kiss.

Guest Stars: Preston Ahearn (Company Lawyer), Jordan Belfi (Rob Simms), Erin Cahill (Brook Simms), Travis Caldwell (Teenage Rob), Joshua Cox (Steve Licardi), Christopher Darga (Ed Wells), Ben Davis (Dale Kinecki), Rafael Feldman (NTSB Investigator), Charles Hoyes (Charlie Simms), Amanda MacDonald (Ali Morton), Kenneth Moskow (Luke Cullen), Harrison Page (Roger Davis), Rachel Roth (Ann Simms)

Summary: The team’s latest case sends Jack and Sam to Los Angeles in search for a man who went missing after his employee’s funeral. Investigations in New York and California bring the team to a turn regarding this coast-to-coast mystery. Jack and Sam also rekindle their relationship.

A man cuts himself while shaving. Seeing the blood on his hand causes him to recall a flame-filled memory. The man, Rob, finishes dressing and leaves despite the protestations of a woman.

Rob goes to the funeral of a man named Kyle, standing in the back and having further unpleasant flashbacks while the minister gives the eulogy. A man in the front turns around and makes eye contact with Rob, who walks out of the service and disappears.

23 Hours Missing
Martin and Danny converge on the funeral home and we learn that our man, Rob Simms, is the COO of a private jet chartering company and was attending the funeral of a mechanic who died in a fire. Danny says Kyle was killed during routine work but that other employees blamed Rob for the accident. Rob recently got in a shouting match with a Dale Kinecki who Martin finds on the funeral guest list.

Jack and Elena speak with Rob’s fiancé, Brook, telling her Dale was seen following Rob always from the service. She tells them it was the CEO who ordered cutbacks which Rob implemented that may have played a role in the fire.

Flashback to a drunken Rob telling Brook that company lawyers don’t want the whole truth about the accident revealed at an upcoming National Transportation Safety Board meeting. “Not this time,” he says when she asks if it can just be left alone as an accident.

Brook tells them Rob had drug problems as a teen and the binge after Kyle’s death ended 12 years of sobriety. Rob wouldn’t tell her what he meant by “this time.”

Jack gets shot down for a date with Sam because her mother is in town watching the baby.
Without a Trace Episode Guide

Viv and Sam watch video of the NTSB meeting where Rob contradicts a written statement that Kyle was responsible for the accident and takes the blame himself.

Martin meets with CEO Spence Licardi who says the accident was the result of a fire and had nothing to do with the cutbacks he ordered. He admits that Rob taking the blame for the fire opened the company up to a lawsuit from Kyle’s family and tells Martin where to find Dale.

26 Hours Missing
Dale is brought in to speak with Elana and we flashback to his conversation with Rob: Rob told Dale he would take care of Kyle’s family and give Dale $10,000 if he could help him secretly fly to Los Angeles.

Martin views a live satellite feed of the LAPD busting into a crack house where they find Rob’s backpack and wallet.

Jack tells Sam that Rob’s laptop files revealed he had been searching for a man named Roger Davis, a former member of the LAPD who retired to New Jersey. Given the connections Jack asks Sam to accompany him to L.A., which she does somewhat reluctantly.

Jack and Sam speak with Rob’s father (Charlie) and sister (Ann). Rob was in periodic contact with Ann but Charlie had not seen Rob in years, which the father blamed on his being hard on Rob when he was young. Neither knows anything about Roger Davis or why Rob might have returned to L.A.

30 Hours Missing
Davis comes in to speak with Elena, telling her he first met Rob a few weeks ago in regards to a 15-year-old double homicide. The victims were Bill and Emily Jackson who were stabbed to death at their home in L.A.

Flashback to Davis’s meeting with Rob. Rob says he used to live in L.A. and may have seen something related to the murders but won’t tell Davis more than that. Rob says a recent event “stirred up some memories.”

Davis tells Elena Rob never followed up on the meeting with the LAPD and that Rob clearly knew the case well.

Jack and Sam learn Rob’s backpack ended up at the crack house because a homeless man grabbed it from the street after watching Rob get pulled into a car at gun point.

Viv breaks down the Jackson murders for Martin and Danny: The couple was killed in their home with one of their kitchen knives and police at the time considered it a robbery gone wrong. The killer cleaned up after himself well, but the dead husband had a piece of shirt in his hand containing DNA which could not be matched with anyone in the database.

While waiting to see if releasing Rob’s picture in L.A. draws any leads, Sam blows up at Jack over his asking her to come out to L.A. as a back door date. As a mother she needs more stability in her life and anytime she gets together with Jack it end up being “messy.” Viv breaks up the lecture with a call telling them the Jackson’s daughter lives a quarter-mile from where Rob was abducted.

Allie Jackson tells them she met with Rob, who said he might have information related to her parents’ murder. Allie blew him off and called a Detective Wells of the LAPD who had made contact with her earlier by phone and asked her to let him know if a man arrived inquiring about her parents.

Elena calls and tells Jack the LAPD has no detective by the name of Wells. But the number Allie had for the man belongs to an Ed Wells who did time for armed robbery and whose mug shot matches almost perfectly the description of the person that grabbed Rob off the street. There is no record of contact between Wells, but Wells and Charlie Simms speak almost every day.

Ann tells Jack and Sam that Wells loved Rob and that he took care of Rob when he had drug problems. She says she hasn’t seen Charlie since Jack and Sam last interviewed them and when pressed about the connection to the murders recalls a conversation with Rob years ago.

Flashback to teenage Rob telling Ann that the morning after the Jacksons were killed that Charlie told Rob if anyone asked him where he was the night before he should lie and say he was with Charlie. During the conversation Rob noticed blood on Charlie’s shirt.

Ann says she didn’t believe Rob at the time because of his contentious relationship with their father and that a few weeks later he left to live with Wells. Sam gets a call that the LAPD just picked up Charlie and Wells but they are not with Rob.

32 Hours Missing
Jack interviews Charlie who flashes back to that morning when Rob came to him and accused him of committing the murders. Charlie tells him not to ask any more questions "for your sake," but Rob insists that he's tired of running from his father's lie.

Charlie admits to Jack that he had Wells pick up Rob and that he committed the murders. The Jacksons were wealthy landscape clients of Wells' and Charlie needed money at the time.

Almost simultaneous to this confession Sam pushes Wells to come clean about what his friend has just admitted to, that the DNA evidence is still on record and Charlie will eventually be convicted. Wells says that Charlie didn't do anything and we . . .

Flashback to Wells and Rob together in the car just after Wells grabbed him near Allie's home. Wells eventually admits that it was actually Rob who committed the murders during a PCP bender. Charlie found Rob covered in blood that night, muttering about the rich people. Charlie went back over to the Jacksons' home and cleaned up the crime scene. When Charlie was sure Rob had no memory of the event he sent him to live with Wells. Upon hearing this a distraught Rob shoves Wells out of the car, taking the gun and driving off.

Eventually the LAPD find the car, Rob's belonging and a suicide note at the beach, the conclusion in Jack's words being "it looks like he decided to take a long swim until he got tired."

The final scene is Jack and Sam sitting together on a bench discussing their future and periodically making out. Jack tells Sam his daughter will be coming to live with him soon and that he's scared he will screw it up. Sam is confident in his parenting and the two sound ready to make a go at the relationship.

A pair of doctors argues over transferring a patient with a brain mass to a different hospital. While on the roof helicopter pad, the doctor who made the decision to move the patient gets a page which appears to concern her. She stares up at the departing helicopter and disappears.

10 Hours Missing
Martin goes to the hospital and learns that third-year resident Erica Loza was last seen on the pad at 10 p.m. the previous night. In her locker he finds that a non-hospital number paged her ten times the previous night and finds a card with “Next time you’re dead” written on the back.

Jack interviews the doctor Loza argued with the night before, Sally Moss. Moss has positive things to say about Loza but mentions the previous night was not her best shift and that one of her patients suffered massive internal bleeding.

Flackback to Loza and Moss discussing the case in the question when the patient’s son, Peter Lewis, walks up and begins berating Loza and the care she gave his father, now in intensive care.

Moss tells Jack that Lewis’ father eventually died but refuses to say whether or not Loza was at fault.

12 Hours Missing
Martin and Elena interview Loza’s boyfriend (Seth) of five years. He doesn’t recognize the picture of Lewis but admits that their relationship had been rocky.

Flashback to Seth confronting Loza at work after finding out she cancelled a long-planned vacation without consulting him because it conflicted with work. Reference is made to Loza’s having grown up in foster care.
Seth tells agents he just discovered the excuse Loza used to cancel the vacation was a lie but hadn’t had the opportunity to confront her about the deception.

Viv tells Danny that just after getting a refund for the vacation, Loza got a $5,000 advance on her credit card. Danny found out that Loza bounced out between foster homes before landing with Long Island resident Camilla Russo when she was 12. Viv tells Danny that the pages Loza received the night she disappeared came from a pay phone in that area. Viv gets a call that Lewis was just picked up on a DUI.

Though he was escorted from the hospital at 8:30 p.m. and didn’t arrive at the bar until 1 a.m., Lewis denies any involvement in Loza’s disappearance.

Flashback to Lewis overhearing a conversation between Loza and a nurse who tells her several controlled substances are missing and that she suspects one of the residents is selling the hospital’s prescription drugs.

Via hospital surveillance the team notices Loza ducking into the pharmacy the previous night using the key pass of a tech, George Young.

Young tells Sam and Martin he was home the previous evening but noticed his key pass was missing shortly after having lunch with Loza. A friend of Loza’s, Young says she’d been acting strange.

Flashback to Young catching Loza crying by herself outside the hospital. Loza tells him she’s a hypocrite, that she’s hurt a lot of people and become "cruel and selfish.”

Jack speaks again with Moss who finally confesses that the death of Lewis’ father was the fault of an intern, Ian Geddes. Geddes tells Martin and Danny that he was covering for Loza, but still doesn’t know why she left him alone.

Flashback to Geddes trying to find Loza that night for help with Mr. Lewis. He spots her wheeling a woozy-looking patient to a shady character in street clothes. The man threatens Geddes with a gun before he and Loza leave the hospital with the patient.

Geddes didn’t recognize the patient from their floor and had not yet had a chance to confront Loza about the incident before Mr. Lewis’s health deteriorated.

17 Hours Missing

Viv and Danny find out the patient Loza had helped remove from the hospital had been admitted two days with broken bones and internal bleeding. The information given was fake, but the prints on the admission form were a match to an ex con named Jeff Ellis.

Jack interviews Ellis’ girlfriend Pam at her apartment. She admits knowing Loza, that she had fixed a cut above her eye.

Flashback to Loza showing up at Pam’s place after Ellis he had been repeatedly paging her. Ellis is not there, and Loza tells Pam she was supposed to meet him there the following morning and assumes something is wrong with his friend Dominic, who happens to be in need of the very same drugs Loza stole from the pharmacy. Loza tells Pam that she owes the men her life.

Jeff called an hour later and talked with Loza, who promptly left the apartment. Pam tells Jack Ellis and Dominic had been helping a man named Yuri high-jacks trucks in New Jersey and that a job must have gone sour. Yuri, she says, is responsible both for beating up Dominic and her cut.

The call from Jeff to Pam’s apartment came from a pay phone near the one which made the calls to Loza the previous night. Martin tells Elena that Dominic does not have a police record, but that he lived with Russo the same time as Loza.

Russo tells Martin she recently saw Ellis at a soup kitchen and that he had been furious when she told him of Loza’s residency.

Flashback to lean times in Russo’s household, with Russo telling a young Loza that because of mounting medical bills she can no longer take care of the kids. Loza pleads with Russo to at least keep her.

Russo said she ended up keeping Loza, and the result was Ellis and Dominic ending up in a group home. Though Russo said she took the blame for the decision, Ellis and Dominic never forgave either her or Loza for being sent away.

Sam and Danny kick down the door of an apartment and find both Ellis and Dominic, the latter looking sickly in one of the beds. Ellis said he did not know what happened to Loza, that she was helping them and left to look for bus tickets to Ohio.

Flashback to Ellis talking to Loza at the hospital and explaining to her that Yuri thinks he stole from him and if they don’t move Dominic he’ll be killed. Loza isn’t convinced until Yuri himself shows up with flowers and the "next time you're dead" note from earlier.

Ellis tells the agents Loza understood the gravity of the situation after Yuri's arrival and has been taking care of Dominic all night.

Jack speaks with Dominic, who has now been admitted to the hospital. Jack tells Dominic (in not-so-believable fashion) that he is dying and asks if he would like to get anything of his chest. This of course leads to Dominic spilling the beans.

Flashback to Ellis telling Loza that Dominic did, in fact, steal from Yuri (to prove a point to Ellis) and even giving back the money won't matter to Yuri. Loza decides she should give the money back to Yuri, and after Ellis promises never to work for Yuri again Dominic tells Loza where to find the cash. Loza says the pair should leave town after she meets with Yuri and tells them she has money to help them get on their feet.

Dominic tells Jack that Loza was taking the money back to a building in the Bronx, followed immediately by a doctor walking in the room and telling Dominic he is perfectly fine.

Cut to Yuri and Loza talking, with Yuri seeming much more interested in the whereabouts of Ellis and Dominic than with the money itself. As a SWAT team surrounds the location, Yuri starts to get aggressive with Loza. Yuri is shot through the head by a sharpshooter as FBI agents swarm the building and get Loza out unharmed.

Martin and Loza have a lame interaction featuring his telling her she's now paid her dept to Ellis and Dominic, followed by Seth arriving and the couple embracing.

Summary: A TV weatherman arrives at work bleeding from his side and the team tries to beat the clock to find out what that has to do with disappearance.

A weatherman named Ben Kramer gets out of his Porsche at the station parking lot. He sees a woman and asks her what she drives. She says that she drives a Yaris. He tells the woman that he needs a car that gets great mileage.

Ben walks in the station and brings an equipment manager a cup of coffee. The man is surprised that Ben did something nice for him. The man notices that Ben's head is shiny. Ben says that he is hot.

Later, Ben goes on the air to give the weather forecast. A producer sees that Ben is bleeding from his abdomen. The producer signals that he is cut, and Ben buttoned up to hide his wound. After the take, the producer asks Ben if he should call a doctor. Ben says that it is okay then leaves. He then disappears.

After his disappearance is reported, the team is called in to investigate. At the studio, Jack meets with Sam who tells him about the missing person. Sam says that Ben's assistant received a cell call asking for help. Sam says that the call came from a town outside of Philadelphia. Sam says that Ben had a wound with a blood pattern consistent to a knife wound. Sam says that someone might have picked up Ben to finish the job of killing him.

Sam and Jack meet with Ben's producer who says that Ben was on the way to a better job in Anaheim. He says that Ben had trouble with one of the reporters. He recalls a time during a heavy storm. He says that Ben went out to where a reporter named Dale was about to give a report on the weather. Ben told Dale to work another story just before Dale was about to tape. Dale threw the microphone to Ben, then got knocked out by a road sign that flew and hit him. Ben helped Dale after he fell. The producer says that they recorded the event and used it to promote the station. The producer says that Dale helped out Ben when Ben first started. Another station employee says that Dale called in sick that day.

Later, Martin calls Elena and says that they found a tip of a knife at Ben’s apartment.

Taylor talks to Holly, a friend of Ben. Holly says that she used to be engaged to Ben. She recalls asking Ben to help out by being an MC at an auction for her school. Ben told her that the job might jeopardize his career. Holly told Ben that she didn’t realize how little he is willing to help her out. Holly walked out on Ben then broke off their engagement. Holly says that Ben called her a few days ago.

Martin calls Jack and tells him that Ben’s credit card report shows that he purchased a lot of flowers recently. Jack says that he suspects Dale might be involved with Ben’s disappearance. Martin says that they spotted Dale loading up a Uhaul.

Vivian and Sam bring Dale to the station. Dale says that Ben kept on pestering him. Dale recalls when Ben played an audio tape for him. Dale says that the tape had a voice of a woman who talked about suspecting a man of murdering someone. Dale told Ben that he didn’t want to help. Dale remembers that Ben apologized about the storm incident. Dale told Ben that he is done with the news industry and planned on moving. Dale told Ben that Ben will be replaced by a younger person later in his career. Dale tells Vivian and Sam that he didn’t know who was on the tape. Dale says that he told Ben to confront the murder suspect.

Martin is shown a video tape of Ben interviewing a man named Kevin about a suspected murder. On the tape, Kevin told Ben that he recognized him as a weatherman. Martin sees that Kevin works at a building called Helton Development.

Jack brings Kevin to the station. Jack learns that Kevin works as the manager for an apartment building filled with retirees. Jack asks about several of the tenants that have been complaining about his service. Kevin says that he tried to help his tenants out, but Jack says that he hasn’t done enough. Kevin says that he met Ben at a Civil War reenactment before he was interviewed. Kevin says that he doesn’t have anything to hide.

Vivian shows Sam pictures of a couple named Lea and Kirby. She says that the flowers that Ben paid for were delivered to Lea at a cafe. They suspect that Ben was involved in a love triangle and might have been hurt because of it. Sam says that the metal that they found at Ben’s apartment was made using old techniques. Sam says that Ben was into Civil War reenactments. Vivian looks on her computer and sees that there is a Civil War event taking place that day. Sam says that last call Ben made was made around the area where the event will take place.

Danny goes to the Civil War event and meets with one of the organizers. The man remembers Ben at the event and that he was confronted by Kirby. He remembers that Kirby told Ben that he knows that Ben sent Lea flowers. Kirby told Ben that he poured his heart out to Ben and thought that he tried to steal his girl. Later, the man remembers that Kirby purchased a full uniform in which he has the receipt. He says that the bayonets sometimes break after they are used.

Elena tells Vivian that the person from Ben’s audio tape was talking about a woman named Lucy. Elena says that Lucy died from a heart attack because she was stressed that her husband was going to be evicted from Kevin’s building. The team figures that Kirby sent Ben to investigate Kevin in order to humiliate him.

Holly tells the team that Kirby and Ben were friends from high school. Holly says that Ben pulled a prank on Kirby during high school. She says that Ben told her about a time when Kirby was about to be awarded with a prize in front of the school. Holly says that Ben dressed up as Bill Clinton, surprised Kirby, stripped him down to his underwear then shoved him on stage. Holly says that Kirby got the nickname ‘Fruit of the Loom’ after the incident. Holly says that Kirby never found out who pranked him. Holly says that Kirby was being presented an award by a girl named Lea Russell.

Elena gets a call that Kirby was found withdrawing money from his bank account. Jack and Martin bring Kirby to the building. Martin says that they know that he set Ben up to investigate a fake story. Kirby remembers meeting with Ben to try to reconnect with him. Kirby told Ben that he was trying to start a romantic relationship with one of their high school classmates, Lea. He says that his boss, Kevin, is also trying to make a move on her. Kirby remembers that he played the audio tape message of a woman who said that Kevin killed a friend of hers. Kirby told Ben that Kevin might hurt another person and that he should investigate and expose him. Kirby tells Jack that knows that the woman was exaggerating. Jack says that they know that he was arguing with Ben about Lea. Kirby says that they resolved the issue. Martin says that they have a piece of a bayonet that was used to stab Ben. Kirby admits that he stabbed Ben. Kirby remembers that Ben told him that Lea was interested in Civil War reenactments. Ben helped Kirby dress up to play a role in the Civil War reenactment in order to get close to Lea. While getting ready to participate, Kirby saw that Lea and his boss were at the event. Ben told Kirby that he had to fight for Lea’s affection. Later, Ben admitted to pulling a prank on him while they were in high school. Kirby says that he accidentally stabbed Ben after he admitted to the prank. Ben told Kirby that the cut was not very bad. Kirby says that the next day he got a call from Ben who told him that Kevin was scamming Lea. Later, Elena discovers that Lea inherited 50 million dollars.

Vivian brings in Lea who is told that Ben is missing. Vivian says that Kevin did a credit check on her right after they met. Lea says that Ben gave her a call the night before. Lea remembers that Ben sounded awful. Ben told Lea that Kevin is not the right guy for her. Ben told Lea that he spoke to Kevin’s ex-girlfriend who told him that he is trouble. Lea says that the Kevin’s cell phone signal was cut off and that she waited for him to call back, but he never did.

The team goes to the Civil War event and sees that they are starting the event. Jack asks a man to speak to General Lee, being played by Kevin. Kevin sees that Jack is approaching him then runs. Danny tackles Kevin. Jack tells Kevin that he knows that he wiped out his ex-girlfriend’s credit rating by using and overcharging it. Kevin says that Ben approached him last night and tried to tell him to stay away from Lea. Ben said that he was going to tell Lea about his ex-girlfriend. Kevin says that Ben said that he didn’t feel good, then fell over. Kevin shows the team where he left Ben. Danny sees that Ben is still alive. Kevin is arrested then taken away. A news crew shows up and tries to interview Ben and he says that he quits. Ben tells the news crew that he apologizes to his girlfriend and that he wants to work for her at the school auction. Kirby arrives and says that Ben looks terrible. Ben sees that Lea has arrived and tells Kirby to talk to her. After the case, Jack goes up to one of the cannons and fires it. He hears as the cannon ball hits a car and sets off an alarm.
Summary: A case about a missing teenager, last seen with her bipolar mother, gets twisted when the team finds she has a secret life. Jack and Sam’s relationship also hits a bump in the road.

Jack meets with a woman to try to get Hannah into school. The woman says she needs to meet with his daughter, but Jack says that Hannah doesn’t know she is going to be living with him yet. Jack says that he just wants to know if there will be a spot for her in January. The woman says perhaps, but she doesn’t think the school will be a good fit.

A woman named Sherri picks her daughter Daphne up from school and says she wants to spend the afternoon together. Daphne says that she has to ask her dad first, but her mom convinces her it will be fine. They then disappear.

The father, Rick, tells Elena that he was late picking Daphne up from school. He says that he knows his ex-wife Sherri took their daughter and she has serious mental problems. Elena tells him that it will be okay and he should go home and wait for them to call.

Fitzgerald tells Elena that the crossing guard saw Daphne leave with a woman in a green SUV. Elena says that the mother probably just wanted to spend some time with her kid and will probably be back soon. Fitzgerald then gets a text that says Sherri cleared out her entire bank account and quit her job.

Samantha and Jack meet with Rick and ask about Sherri. He says that she never hurt Daphne, but was diagnosed with mental disorders a long time ago. Rick tells the detectives about the last time Sherri visited. He says that they played Scrabble together and Sherri said she would bring her some velvet cloth for the trim of a dress. Daphne said that it would be perfect. Rick then called Sherri into a room and said that she can’t visit tomorrow. He then told her that he was going to move. Sherri got upset and said Daphne was all she had. Samantha asks if anyone knows where Sherri got a green SUV and Rick says he has no idea.

Fitzgerald and Danny go over Sherri’s neighbor’s statements. Fitzgerald says that Sherri was being successfully medicated and suspects that learning about Rick’s move sent her back off the deep end.
Samantha talks to Gail Menken (played by Maggie Wheeler), the owner of the SUV. Gail says that Daphne probably isn’t in any danger because Sherri is a really good mom. She says that Sherri wouldn’t have taken Daphne if she had any other choice. She says that Sherri believed that Rick’s wife was poisoning Daphne. Sherri said that Daphne said the food Tia makes her always tasted funny. Samantha asks if Gail can think of anywhere Sherri would have gone. The woman remembers that Sherri had a cousin who she said was like a brother to her.

Samantha tells Jack that there was no evidence that Daphne was being poisoned. The two then argue briefly about Jack’s ex-wife. Samantha asks how his meeting with the school went and he says poorly. Samantha asks if he wants her to talk to the school for him. Fitzgerald then walks in and says they got a 911 call from a woman claiming to be Sherri who says her daughter is missing.

The detectives meet with Sherri at the bus station. Sherri says that Daphne just disappeared. Sherri says that Daphne was upset that she was going to Pittsburgh. Daphne also admitted to her that she lied about the food tasting funny. Daphne told Sherri that she cared more about hating her father instead of visiting her, then took off. Sherri says that Daphne has been missing for about a half an hour.

Fitzgerald and Danny question a street vendor about seeing Daphne. He says that he saw her and thought that she was stealing his stuff. He says that a man then walked up and took her into his car. He describes the man as being in his forties.

Jack shows a police sketch of the man to Rick and Tia. They say that they’ve never seen him before. Jack says that Daphne chose to go with the man and he thinks that Daphne planned to meet up with him. Jack asks if she could have met him online. Rick says that if she had met him, she kept it to herself. Jack suggests that they check her computer and ask her friends.

Samantha meets with the woman from the school to make the case for Hannah. Samantha asks if it would help if she talked to Hannah’s counselors from her old school. The woman says she’s willing to try. She then says that Jack is a bit of a jerk and Samantha agrees.

Elena talks to Daphne’s friend Megan. She tells Elena that a week ago Daphne asked her to cover for her so she could meet a guy. Daphne wouldn’t tell her who it was. Megan says that Daphne would have told her if she was planning on taking a trip with the man.

Vivian gets a fax from the girlschool and asks Samantha if it has to do with Daphne. Samantha says that they are trying to get Hannah in. Samantha then shows Vivian Daphne’s diary and says they have no idea where she is. Lucy calls Vivian over and shows them a video Daphne posted online. Daphne tells her parents in the video that she is no longer their daughter and they will never see her again. Fitzgerald says that he can’t tell from Daphne’s body language whether or not she was scared. Lucy says that there were no reflective surfaces so she couldn’t see the cameraman. Lucy says that she can tell from the angle of the camera, the man was about 6 feet tall.

Samantha shows the video to Daphne’s family and no one recognizes the room in the video. Sherri and Rick then begin to fight and Samantha tells them to stop yelling at each other. Tia’s son then speaks up and calls them all idiots. He remembers when Daphne had asked Rick to go to Florida with her and Sherri. Rick told her that he and Sherri are too different to be together. Tia’s son then told Daphne that he knows she was taking pills to make herself sick. He told her that her parents will always hate each other and there’s nothing she can do. Samantha asks what drug she took and he says ipecac.

Danny tells Vivian that he got information about the man Daphne left with. He says that he questioned a book stand near the bus station and the woman there recognized him as a man named Gabriel. Fitzgerald then tells Vivian that Lucy identified the noise in the video as a train announcement. The detectives then determine that Daphne was at an apartment near the train station. They find a place with a resident named Gabriel. They go to Gabriel’s house and ask for Daphne. He says she isn’t there anymore. Fitzgerald finds some red hair dye and Gabriel says that he didn’t do anything wrong. He says that Daphne had a crazy plan. He remembers telling her that he didn’t want her to see him anymore. She asked him to drive her to her friend’s house and he did so she wouldn’t hitchhike. Fitzgerald asks where he dropped her off and Gabriel says he won’t tell without a lawyer present.

The detectives look at a video that Daphne had downloaded 10 times about a missing girl named Abby. Jack asks for an age enhanced photo of Abby and they see that it looks like Daphne with red hair. Samantha and Fitzgerald then go to Abby’s mother Jenny and ask her if she’s seen a missing girl named Daphne. They show her a photo and she says that she looked just like Abby. She remembers when Daphne came over and they had milk and cookies. Her husband then came home and asked who Daphne was. No one said anything and Daphne went to the bathroom. The husband told Jenny that the girl was not Abby. Jenny says she knows, she just wanted to help her. Jenny tells the detectives that her husband went to report the girl to the police about a half an hour ago.

Samantha gets into her car to check out a nearby woods that a neighbor said they saw Daphne walk into. Samantha finds Daphne and pulls up behind her. Daphne asks if Abby’s parents are going to be okay. She says she didn’t mean to upset them, she just wanted to find a place where she could belong. Daphne says that she went into Abby’s room and saw that it was exactly the same from the video, like they were just waiting for her to return home. Daphne says she realized that she couldn’t pretend to be someone she wasn’t. Samantha says that she thinks she convinced her parents that they had made some mistakes and things will be better now.

Jack prepares dinner and tells Samantha’s baby not to make the same mistakes he did. Jack goes on to say how he let Samantha take control and it’s for the better. He says that she is a really special woman. Brian then knocks on the door, looking for Samantha. Jack says that she’s not there, but he’ll tell her he stopped by. Brian asks if Jack is the babysitter and Jack says yes. Brian then says hi to the baby and says he’s her daddy.

Summary: The team searches for a bar owner who has a religious statue that is believed to create miracles.

A man sorts through bills. His daughter asks him about a math problem, but he has no idea what she is talking about. She asks if they are going to lose the bar. He tells her not to worry. He then goes to the back and sees his employees praying to a statue of St. Teresa. They say it’s a miracle and he sees that the statue is crying. Later, the bar is flush with people wanting to see the crying statue. The owner tells the patrons that he has to close the bar and asks everyone to leave. His daughter says that they need the money. He tells her to go upstairs, lock the door and go to bed. He tells her he’ll be up later, then disappears.

The detectives then learn about Ken Gilroy’s disappearance. Fitzgerald tells Jack that Ken is missing along with the statue. They think that the motive could be robbery. Jack leans in close to examine the wall. Fitzgerald jokes that the first thing to go are the eyes. Jack notices a bullet lodged in the wall and offers his glasses to Fitzgerald.

Brian meets with Samantha and he apologizes for showing up out of the blue. She asks why he came and Brian says he wanted to see his son. Brian says he thought he was okay with giving up his rights, but he realized he was a dad and he wanted to be part of his son’s life. Samantha says she didn’t think he would realize that so soon. Brian says that the guy at the door seemed scary to be the babysitter and asks if he is Samantha’s boyfriend. She tells Brian she needs some time to think about their situation. He tells her he understands, then leaves. Samantha then gets a call from Jack, which she ignores.

Jack talks to Ken’s daughter Abby. She says that her mom gave him the statue and he always had it at the bar. She says a few weeks ago it started crying and people got crazy. She says that they thought they could use the statue for money. Jack says they found a bullet in the wall. She says that one night, she forgot to lock the back door. A masked man with a gun came in while they were closing and demanded money. She says her dad tried to talk to the man and his gun accidentally went off. Her dad was holding the statue and the statue deflected the bullet. She says that they didn’t want to report it because they didn’t want to scare away the believers. Jack asks if her dad could have faked the statue and she says she doesn’t think so.

Vivian says that the bullet was too mangled to ID. Danny says he doesn’t understand how people can believe in a statue as they read over the requests people left at the statue. They read many hopeful requests, then find one threatening to burn down the bar if they don’t remove the statue.

Samantha tells Jack that Brian wants to be part of her life again and she is going to have to figure out what to do next. The two argue briefly and Danny walks in. He tells Jack that he found out more about the guy who broke into the bar. He says the guy was an employee and Ken didn’t want to press charges.

Luis, an employee, is called into the station. He says he did try to steal the statue, but Ken promised to help him. He flashes back to his son lying in bed sick. Ken told him to go to a hospital, but since they were there illegally, he couldn’t. Ken then made a call and suddenly his son got better. Luis says that night was the last time he saw Ken. Danny tells Luis to have his son go to a free clinic just in case.

Samantha and Lucy look over surveillance video outside the bar the night of the robbery. They find a car that belongs to John Gilroy. Jack asks Abby if she knows John and she says he’s her dad’s brother. She then admits that Ken isn’t her real father, John is. She explains that her father was a drug addict and Ken has been taking care of her. She says she never met her biological mother. She says she last saw John about five years ago. She flashes back to playing a shell game with Ken and John walking in. Ken sent her upstairs and then yelled at John for being late. The two fought about how he was neglecting his daughter. Ken told John to stay out of Abby’s life and gave him some money. John took the money and said it was only a temporary loan. Abby says that John would call occasionally looking for money, but eventually he stopped calling. Fitzgerald asks where John might be and she tells them about the apartment he had when she was little.

Samantha tells Elena about Brian. Samantha thinks Jack won’t be able to handle her situation and Elena tells her she needs to find out for sure.

Danny and Vivian look over Ken’s books and see that there is a lot of money that is unaccounted for. Elena then shows up and says that she found out the name of the person who wrote the threatening note. She says he is a known money launderer named Tommy. They call Tommy in and ask him about the money laundering. He says he told Ken that the statue was drawing too much attention. Tommy told Ken he was going to take the statue and Ken told him that he wanted to give it to someone who could really use it. Tommy remembers that he got up to go to the bathroom. Meanwhile, Ken answered a knock at the door. When Tommy walked back into the bar, he saw a priest holding a razor to Ken’s throat demanding the statue. Tommy says he left because he didn’t want to interfere with God’s plans.

Fitzgerald tells Jack that the church won’t let them talk to the priest until they’ve had a chance to talk to him first. The child protective services lady then walks in and tells Jack she needs to take Abby. Jack goes to Abby and she says it was all her fault. She says she was supposed to dust under the bottles once a week. She says that one night, she accidentally knocked the statue of a shelf and into the sink and it immediately started crying. Abby says she put it in the back to hide it, but they found it. Jack asks if she kept putting water in the statue and Abby says no. Jack then tells Abby that she is going to have to go with child protective services for the night. Jack says that they will keep looking for her father.

Vivian tells Jack that the man isn’t a real priest, but is actually a man with a history of mental illness. Vivian goes to Father Shepherd, the fake priest. He says this isn’t the first time he’s experienced religious persecution. Vivian tells him that she understands and asks for his story behind putting a razor to Ken’s throat. He says he saved Ken from Godlessness. Father Shepherd remembers telling Ken that he was wrong to exploit people for their belief. Ken told him that either the statue or God told him what he needed to do to fix things. Ken then handed him the statue. Vivian says they need to check his apartment just to make sure his story checks out.

Samantha tells Jack the statue was in Father’s Shepherd’s apartment. She also says that they couldn’t find John, but they were able to find his girlfriend. Jack then tells Samantha that he doesn’t want Brian in her life, but it’s not his decision to make. He tells her that she needs to do what she needs to do. Jack jokes that he initially wanted to plant heroin in Brian’s car then call the DEA. Samantha says she really wants it to work out between her and Jack.

Fitzgerald talks to John’s girlfriend. She tells him that John and Ken left earlier that morning. She flashes back to overhearing a conversation where Ken asked John how he could have pulled the trigger. John said that the gun just went off. Ken says that he didn’t tell Abby that it was John under the mask. John told Ken that he saw Abby’s face after the gun went off and he realized how wrong he was. Fitzgerald threatens to search the girlfriend’s house and she admits that John was buying pills from Canada to sell to a pharmacist. She says that he was going to be searched at the border so he panicked and threw the pills in the woods. The pharmacist that was expecting the pills told John he needed to pay up or he would kill him. Fitzgerald asks where the pharmacist is and she tells him.

The detectives arm themselves and raid the pharmacist’s office. They see John tied up and ask where Ken is. He says he doesn’t know and he was supposed to be back by now. He tells the detectives that he and Ken went to the pharmacist, but didn’t have enough pills. Ken told the pharmacist that he would get the pills. John tried to stop Ken because Abby needed him. Ken told John that one day he read the prayer notes and saw one from Abby. He said she prayed that John was safe and he would come to see her again. John says that Ken left 9 hours ago and was supposed to be back by now.

Danny calls in the plates of Ken’s car. Vivian announces that Abby’s cell phone is receiving a call from an unknown caller. Jack intercepts the call. The call is from Ken in a phone booth. Jack tells Ken not to cross the border with the pills. Jack assures Ken John is safe. Ken says the night John tried to rob him, he had some drinks. He flashes back to talking to the statue. He remembers hearing her talk back to him. Jack tells Ken he’s not crazy and it was probably just the alcohol. Jack tells Ken to put down the drugs and head for the border. Jack says when he gets to the border, call the police and they will send someone to pick him up.

Jack brings Abby into his office and they wait to hear from Ken. She asks if Jack thinks the statue is real. Jack says it doesn’t matter, it’s only a matter of what people believe. Abby then sees Ken walk in. She gets up and hugs him. John is behind him and Abby hugs him next. Ken thanks Jack for his help, then they leave. Elena teases Jack because he is touched by the reunion.

Samantha plays with her baby. Brian then shows up and she invites him in. Meanwhile, Jack walks through the evidence room. He finds the statue, slips a note under it, then leaves. The statue then begins to cry.

Summary: Elena is forced to face the consequences of her past, as the team is put on the case to search for her former partner who went missing during an undercover sting.

Martin calls Elena and tells her that he got a call for a missing person named Bianca Gonzalez. Elena says she knows her and is on her way to the office. Elena walks in and asks what happened. Vivian explains that Bianca was working undercover for DHS. Elena says Bianca Gonzalez is the best and asks what went wrong. Vivian says Bianca was setting up a man named Nils Barker and everything was going according to plan. A man named Goga Turkovich unexpectedly showed up, started firing, then the plan went South from there. Vivian says Turkovich is in custody, but won’t talk and Barker grabbed the money then ran. Elena thinks Bianca may be chasing after Barker.

Elena goes to the hospital to talk to the other agent on the case Philip Shen. Jack arrives and asks when Elena saw Bianca last. Elena says a few months ago and admits that they are close. Jack suggests that Elena is too close to the victim and offers to put someone else on the case. Elena says she’s a professional and can handle the case.

Jack and Elena meet with Philip Shen. He says that it was a simple set up and all they had to do was make the buy, let Turkovich take the money, then bring them down. He remembers setting up for the bust. Bianca looked over the money and found a tracking device. She took it out and yelled at him for nearly getting them killed. The agent says that he tried to locate the tracker, but can’t pick up the signal. He thinks Bianca took off with Barker and the money.

Elena tells Jack she knows Bianca didn’t take the money. Elena then flashes back to seeing Bianca teaching kids to play basketball. Elena told Bianca she got a job at the FBI and Bianca was surprised. Elena told Bianca she taught her how to be a cop and she will always thank her for that. Elena then gets a call from Danny. Elena tells him she’s worried. Danny mentions Bianca’s cousin and Elena said she already talked to her. Elena then hangs up and takes off.
Danny talks to Samantha about Bianca. They learn she had a high arrest rate which made many of the other cops jealous. Samantha then gets a call and learns Barker was stopped at the airport. Elena and Martin meet with Barker. He says he doesn’t know Bianca. Elena reminds Barker that he is already going away for selling fake IDs to government agents. Barker then says Bianca flipped him recently and he was supposed to start working for her. Elena says the cops didn’t tell them about that. Barker says Bianca had bad blood with her crew. He remembers when she arrested him. He tried to run, but she tackled him. She called for back up, but no one came. They finally arrived and Bianca yelled at them for being late. He says after Bianca walked out of the room, they all started laughing. Martin asks Elena if she thinks Barker is lying. He then says the sting would have been a good opportunity to get rid of her.

Jack meets with Detective Wayne Stevens and asks if he made a habit out of putting his subordinates in danger. Jack then shows him a picture of Barker and Stevens says he doesn’t know him. Jack reminds him that he left Bianca to fight him off at the store. Stevens says it was only because she abandoned a job earlier. He says he tried to apologize to her, but was unsuccessful. He flashes back to seeing Bianca fighting with a young man. She promised she would take care of his problem and made him promise to call her if he got into any trouble.
Bianca then asked Stevens if he was following her. Stevens said he just wanted to apologize. She then got into a cab and drove off. Jack asks who the kid was and Stevens says he doesn’t know.
He says Bianca runs a teen program at the community center.

Elena tells Samantha that Bianca would probably get involved if a kid was being abused.
Martin then says Bianca called a cab at that time. They look up the address and find it leads to Bernard Mills, a man with two teenage sons and drunk and disorderly arrests.

Elena remembers picking Bianca up with a black eye. Bianca asked her what happened and Elena told her Carlos beat her. Elena told her she kicked him out and Bianca said she was going to find Carlos and beat him. Bianca gave her a key to her place and told her to take the day off from work.

Martin and Danny talk to the Bernard. They show him a sketch, but he says it’s not his son.
The detectives tell him Bianca is missing. He says she is his girlfriend and he saw her last night.
He says he doesn’t recognize the kid, but remembers something was bothering her a couple of days ago. He flashes back to when he came home and found Bianca upset. She told him that she messed up and people got hurt. He asked her to tell him what was wrong, but she just said there was nothing he could do. She then took out a video tape and destroyed it. He tells the detectives the tape should be in the dumpster.

Lucy is able to digitize about 20 seconds of the tape. She and Martin watch Bianca conduct an interrogation. The discussion got heated, then Elena walked in and Bianca covered up the camera. Elena walks in and asks what the detectives are watching. Elena tells Jack she doesn’t think the tape is connected to Bianca’s disappearance. Jack asks about the case. Elena says she and Bianca had busted a drug dealer named Donnelly, but they needed a confession in order to get him for murder. Bianca tried to get it out of him by telling Donnelly that Yvette, the neighborhood watch lady saw him. Elena then walked in and had Donnelly taken back to holding. Elena says she yelled at Bianca for dropping Yvette’s name. They argued over the tactics.
Two days later, Yvette was killed and it was never the same between them. Jack asks if there is anything else she needs to tell him and Elena says no.

Danny tells Jack he found out that Donnelly was released three days ago. He says Bianca was at his parole meeting when she missed the job Stevens complained about. Martin tells Jack about Yvette. They see a picture of her grandson Tom and see it matches the description of the young man Bianca was speaking to at the community center.

Samantha tells Elena about the development in the case. Elena says she really messed up with Jack and Yvette. Elena says she should have warned Yvette. Samantha tells Elena it’s not her fault. Samantha reminds Elena that they still have to find her friend.

Martin and Vivian go to Tom’s house, but he’s not home. They ask his sister Jordan if she knows anything about Bianca. She remembers when Tom saw his grandmother get shot. She says Bianca was there that day too and she tried to console him. Bianca would come by every now and then looking for Tom. Vivian asks if they can wait for Tom to get home. Jordan says it’s a bad time. Martin picks up a vial of drugs and asks for more information. Jordan says Bianca came over a few hours ago looking for Tom. Bianca tried to tell her that Tom was going to get killed. Bianca wanted to tell Tom she made a mistake. Jordan says she told Tom that she thinks Bianca got Yvette killed. The detectives ask where Tom is and Jordan says she doesn’t know, but she knows he had a gun.

Elena tells Jack none of Tom’s friends have seen him. Elena says she needs to go out and find Bianca. Jack says he thinks Donnelly would go after Bianca before Tom would. Martin then walks in and says he has a location on Donnelly. He says Donnelly is at a drug house and he’s going to check it out. Jack tells Elena she should have been able to connect the dots. Elena says she should have seen it coming, but she didn’t want to. Jack tells Elena to catch up with Martin.

Elena and Martin go to the building and look around. They hear gunshots and chase after the sound. They walk into the room and see Bianca with a gun standing over a body. Martin tells Bianca to drop her weapon. Bianca sees Elena and asks what she’s doing there. Elena says she was reported missing. Bianca then tells Elena she had to go after Donnelly. She says she approached him with a parole violation. He asked if she had any more witnesses pointing fingers and Bianca shot him. Tom looks up at Bianca and she says Tom must have just followed her there. Martin takes Tom away. Elena asks why Bianca is taking the fall for Tom. Bianca remembers running in and seeing Tom shoot Donnelly. Bianca then took the gun from Tom and shot Donnelly again. Bianca tells Elena it makes it right. Bianca asks Elena to look after Tom, then sticks her arms out to be cuffed.

Danny waits for Elena to finish up. He tells her that they will do everything they can to help Bianca. Elena asks why he is so good to her. Danny says he loves her. Elena apologizes for shutting him out. She tells him never to let her walk away.

Summary: The team searches for someone who abducted two neighbors from their homes. The case twists and turns when the agents learn the identity of the kidnapper.

A woman named Kate goes to her neighbor’s house and meets with her friend Julie. They talk about Julie’s son Gavin’s asthma and how she worries that she can’t be there for him all the time. Kate thanks Julie for listening to her problems the other night. They then hear tires screech. They look out the window and see a van pulling into the garage. Julie says she isn’t expecting anyone. They hear that someone is trying to break in and Julie calls 911.

An hour later, the team examines the scene. Vivian tells Jack that Julie called 911 and she and her friend Kate went missing. Jack asks how they know Kate was there and Vivian says they could hear her voice in the 911 call plus Julie’s husband said she had come over for coffee. Jack wonders who would be bold enough to pull off a kidnapping in broad daylight.

Martin tells Vivian that they have witnesses that saw a late model Ford van in the area. Vivian tells the team to look into money and sex as potential motives. Elena says that Julie has a little money, but not enough for a ransom. Martin wonders if Kate could be the target and Vivian says they can’t rule it out.

Julie’s husband Adam comes to the headquarters. Jack asks what Julie does and he says she works at a school and teaches piano. Adam says he’s in the insurance business. Jack asks if he has any disgruntled clients and Adam says no. Jack asks if Julie is involved in anything illegal. Adam asks if Jack is implying the kidnapping isn’t random. Jack says he’s just covering all the bases. Adam then remembers a man named Ron who does work for them. He says Julie had a problem with him a few weeks ago. Adam remembers Julie teaching a girl to play piano. The girl looked at Ron and became anxious. Julie asked the girl what was wrong. The girl said she was walking home from practice and he wanted her to go for a ride in his truck. She says she didn’t go and he got mad then grabbed her arm. She asked Julie not to tell and Julie promised she wouldn’t. Adam says Ron was a convicted sex offender who was on parole. He says they went to question Ron, but he had already cleared out of his place.
Samantha tells Danny the behavioral analysts said it is probably a single intruder and the kidnapping seems to be sexual or revenge motivated. Danny says he doesn’t think Ron is their guy since he has no record of violence. Samantha says he is a sex offender and had a motive.

Vivian talks to Kate’s husband Richard. She says he didn’t think Kate was the target, but was just in the wrong place at the wrong time. Vivian asks if Kate had any enemies and he says no. Vivian then asks if he has any enemies since he is a partner at a law firm. He says no, but offers to give her a list of all his clients. He says the last time he saw Kate was 3 days ago. He says he was staying at a hotel since they were having personal problems. Vivian makes him explain further. He says he asked Kate to go to the Bahamas with him, but she said she couldn’t leave. He then admitted to her that he had slept with someone. Kate was upset and he said he wanted to make things right. He says after that he went to a hotel and she wouldn’t answer his calls.

Vivian asks for the name of the other woman.

Danny goes to a bar that Ron is rumored to hang out at. Danny sees Ron and asks where Julie is. Ron says he didn’t lay a hand on the little girl. Danny tells him Julie is missing and Ron says he didn’t hurt Julie. He tells Danny to look into the other guy that was hanging around the house. Ron remembers helping Julie reach items in her garage. Ron noticed a strange man across the street watching them. Ron says the guy had the wrong tools to fix the phone lines and got into a van with no name on it. Danny brings Ron to the station.

Meanwhile, the van pulls up in the middle of the woods. A man with a gun orders Julie to start walking. He then shoots her in the back and takes off.

Vivian tells Jack the park ranger found Julie. Jack suggests that Richard wanted to abduct Kate and Julie just got caught in the crossfire. Jack then tells the husbands that they found Julie. Jack says she was shot, but she should be fine. Richard asks about Kate and Jack says they haven’t found her yet. Jack tells him that it looks like Kate is the main target. Jack asks for any more information he can give him. Richard remembers being at a cocktail party with Kate. He got a call and Kate went to the bar. A man approached her and called her Christie. Richard arrived and the man left. Richard wonders if Kate may have been keeping something from him.

Elena tells Samantha that there are no odd numbers on Kate’s phone bill. They say they are waiting for a guest list for the cocktail party. Elena then says that the guy Ron talked about was not working for the phone company. Martin says Julie’s rape kit at the hospital came back negative.

Vivian goes to Julie in the hospital. Julie says she never saw the man who abducted them and she doesn’t think Kate knew him either. Julie says she heard the garage door closing, then they were attacked. She remembers the man putting them in the van at gun point. Julie says she had to help him get Kate into the van. He then tied them up. Kate tried to offer him money, but he just told them to shut up. Julie remembers that they drove for a long time. Kate was telling Julie to be calm and they would get through it. The van then stopped and he told Julie to get out because he only needed Kate. Julie started walking away, then the man shot her. Julie says she played dead, then the van drove off with Kate. Vivian asks her to describe the man to their sketch artist.

Danny says they found the van, but there were no prints. Samantha looks over men from the mob who have the same tattoo that Julie described. Samantha finds a man named Mario that matches the sketch. Samantha asks if Richard had any mob contacts. Martin says not that they know of. Martin then sees a charge on Kate’s credit card from a bar.

Vivian goes to the bar and the bartender remembers seeing Kate and Julie together. He overheard Kate telling Julie that the bar used to be a strip club and she used to work there. Kate says she stripped so she could go to college. Kate suspects she ruined a few marriages along the way and thought she got what she deserved. Julie told Kate that Richard made a mistake and deserved a second chance. The bartender says that the ladies then took off and he didn’t notice anyone follow them.

Vivian tells the team the owner of the strip club said Kate’s stage name was Christie. Danny then pulls up video of Mario at a fast food place. Danny sees Kate in the front seat with him and Danny says she wishes he could read lips. Vivian says Maya can read lips. Maya says Kate was asking why her and the man said because her husband stole our money.

Vivian asks Richard how much he owes the mob. He says he doesn’t know what she’s talking about. Vivian then shows him a picture of Mario and Kate in the car. Richard maintains that he didn’t owe them money and someone must have made a mistake. Richard becomes upset and says he doesn’t know anything. Samantha shows Jack a picture of a man named Charlie who could be the phone repair guy. She says he is a hitman for the mob.

Samantha brings Charlie in and asks him about Mario and the kidnapping. Jack tells Charlie he is already an accessory to kidnapping and maybe murder. Charlie tells the detectives that they are reaching. Jack tells Charlie he can go, then the minute he leaves he will let the word get out on the street that he was there talking to them. Charlie then tells Jack he will answer questions about the kidnapping if he can have immunity. Charlie says he turned down the job after he did his recon. He says he would never do anyone with a wife and kids. He says his target was Adam.

Vivian asks Julie where her husband is and she says she doesn’t know. Vivian says they know her husband took money from the mob. Julie then admits that the man who took them asked who was Julie and Kate said she was. Julie was upset, but Kate told her that Gavin needed her. Julie says it’s all her fault. Vivian asks why she didn’t tell them before. Julie says Adam asked her not to. She says Adam told her that he did an inspection on an apartment and he found a bag of money in the air vent. He says he didn’t think anyone would find out. Julie told him to go to the police, but Adam said they couldn’t or they would kill Kate. Adam promised her that he would get Kate back. Julie says she doesn’t know where he went.

The team uses Adam’s cell phone to try to track him, but they lose the signal. Jack asks about the properties the mob owns. He tells them to have the police hit the buildings all at once.

Danny calls Martin and says he sees Adam’s car. He then hears shots and tells Martin he’s going in. Martin tries to stop him, but Danny goes in anyway. Danny watches as Adam gives back the bag of money while Mario holds Kate hostage. Adam asks if they can go and Mario says no. Adam asks him to let Kate go, then Danny shoots Mario and kills him. The families are then reunited.

Summary: A man faking his identity and posing as a college student disappears and the team must decipher his secrets in order to find him.

A student named Jay throws a party at his house. His roommate Tim tells Jay that he needs to study. Jay tells Tim that he thinks he is hiding from a girl named Rachel. Tim finally agrees to stay to talk to Rachel. Jay introduces Tim to Rachel then leaves. After Tim gets a page, he stops the party and makes a speech. He tells the party goers to enjoy their friends. Jay tells Tim that he is going to make a liquor run. Tim goes to his car and sees someone behind him.

Eight hours later, Danny is told that the missing person is named Jay Lester. He discovers that Jay is not actually a student at the university and is using a fake ID. An officer tells Danny that Jay was holding an off campus party. He says that he told his friends that he was going out for a liquor run then disappeared. Danny finds Jay’s pager and thinks that he was lured out of the party to be kidnapped.

Hannah moves into Jack’s place and tells him that the apartment smells funny. Hannah sees that her room has been redecorated. Hannah tells Jack that she likes what he did to her room. Jack admits that he had some help. Jack gets a call and tells Hannah that he needs to leave. Hannah says that she has a boyfriend and asks if she can bring him to the apartment. Jack tells Hannah that they will discuss it later.

Tim tells Jack that Jay put him in charge before he left. Tim is surprised that Jay is not really a student. Tim says that he met Jay after answering a newspaper ad for a roommate. Tim says that Jay went with him to meet his parents. He says that after his parents left, Tim told Jay that his parents can’t afford his next tuition bill. Jay told Tim that he will cover his tuition. Jay told...

Tim that he would pay him back later. He says that when they returned home, Tim went into his closet, pulled ten grand out of a huge roll of cash, then gave it to him.

Samantha tells Jack that Jay has a girlfriend. Vivian tells Elena that Jay doesn’t seem like he exists on record. Elena says that she wants to find out who posted the gossip page.

Danny meets with Jay’s girlfriend Holly who says that she and Jay were involved in something a couple weeks ago. She says that one night they ran through the campus and stopped to kiss. Holly says that Jay told her that he loved her. Jay told Holly that he finally found his place with her. Holly told Jay that since she is a TA and he is a student she didn’t want to go public unless their relationship was real. They heard a woman scream and found her running out of a car. The woman told them that a man raped her. Holly says that the attacker was a student named Chad. Danny tells Holly that Jay is not the person who she thinks she is.

Jack brings Chad into the interrogation room. Jack asks about Jay and says that they found that the website about Jay was set up at his fraternity house. Chad says that he doesn’t know what happened to Jay. Chad says that Jay attacked him and told him to take his site down. Chad says that he got emails that told him that Jay is really Blake Keyes. Jack tells Chad that the DA is going to re-file the rape charges against him. Vivian and Jack look up Blake and find that he is thirty four years old.

Hannah calls Jack and tells him that she found some records in his closet. She says that it is pretty cool that he has a Sex Pistols album.

Samantha tells the team that Jay is really Blake Keyes. Danny says that Blake is a doctor. Vivian goes to a clinic and meets with a doctor that supervised Blake/Jay. The doctor tells Vivian that Blake got in over his head. He says that he found Blake in the clinic removing a bullet out of the shoulder of a gang member. Another gang member pulled a gun on the doctor and Blake told him to put it down. The doctor says that Blake left the clinic four months ago.

Danny says that Blake worked as the underworld’s doctor. Samantha tells the team that Blake Keyes is dead and that he is having his mail sent to a man named Steven Garcia. The team goes to Steven’s place and find a drawer full of fake IDs. Steven’s storage space owner tells the police that Steven/Blake/Jay went to the space last night. He told Steven that a man with a gun asked him where Blake is. After the owner gave the man the address, he left. The owner tells the detectives the license plate of the car of the man that threatened him. Later Elena discovers that the car has been burned with a body in the trunk.

Fitzgerald tells Elena that the man found in the trunk is not Blake. Elena says that the man made up identities for sixteen years. She says that Blake Keyes is the only real person that the man assumed. Elena says that Blake’s sister is coming to town. Jack comes home and finds that Hannah is gone. Jack tells Hannah that he told her to stay in the apartment. Hannah says that he only told her to lock up when she leaves.

Blake’s sister Chelsea says that the man’s real name is John Burrows. Chelsea says that she has known John since she was a kid. She says that after she had some suspicions, she met with Blake at the clinic and found that he was posing as her brother. John told Chelsea that he wanted Blake’s life. Chelsea tells John that Blake was a manic-depressive mess and that he committed suicide. Chelsea told John to live his own life. Chelsea says that John’s mother was their nanny and he lived in the guest room. Chelsea remembers when John was caught stealing a pack of cigarettes when he was a kid. Chelsea’s father told John’s mother that John told the store owner that his last name was Keyes. Chelsea says that John thought he would be treated better if he posed as a member of her family.

The team learns that the dead man found in the trunk has a brother named Grady. They learn that the brothers have a criminal record. They find that Grady matches the description of the man that was hanging outside the party the night John disappeared. They bring in Grady and he says that he didn’t kill his brother. Jack and Elena tell Grady that they think he killed John. Grady says that he didn’t kill anyone. He says that he knew some buddies that used Blake’s medical skills in the past. Grady remembers when Blake went to fix Grady’s brother after he was shot during a robbery that went bad. Blake/John told Grady that Grady’s brother needed to go to the hospital for his stomach wound. Grady told John to keep his brother alive. Grady says that his brother died before they got to the hospital. He says that he dropped his brother off near Penn Station.

go to Holly’s apartment. Holly says that she met John/Jay earlier after she met with the FBI. She told John that the FBI was looking for him. John told Holly that he wants to be with her. Holly told him that she can’t run away with him. Danny tells Holly that if she hears from John again, contact him. Danny tells Fitzgerald that they no longer have a missing person. He says that he wants to stop wasting tax payer money and go get a tofu burger.

Jack comes home and tells Hannah that he hasn’t had a chance to be her father for the last four years. He says that he wants to be a better father. Hannah tells Jack that his dinner is getting cold and that they should eat. Later, John goes to work at a manufacturing plant and introduces himself to his new boss as John Burrows.
A woman named Giselle teaches a self defense class. A couple walks in with a baby and Giselle gives them a gift. Jonah, the father of the baby, takes off to go to work. The fire alarm sounds and everyone exits the building. The mother and her baby then disappear. The team arrives to investigate Kara and her baby's disappearance. Samantha tells Jack that the fire alarm was probably a distraction. Jack says it was convenient that Kara's husband took off just before his wife and child disappeared. Jack says he hopes the case is about money.

Giselle tells Samantha that Kara worked at the gym. She says Kara was really involved in her client's personal lives. Giselle tells Samantha that one of her clients, Becky, was killed by her ex, Terrence. Giselle remembers that Kara wanted to put up flyers accusing Becky's ex of murder. Kara told her that the police didn't care and she felt responsible for her death. Samantha asks if Kara ever contacted Terrence after the murder. Giselle says Kara confronted him at a memorial service and he made a threat against Kara.

Danny tells Vivian that Kara led a life filled with abusers. Vivian tells Danny about Terrence who has been arrested several times. Vivian says Kara was with Becky when she filed a restraining order against him.

Elena and Martin talk to Jonah. Jonah checks his watch and Martin asks if they are keeping him from something. Elena points out that the first year of marriage is really stressful and a baby would add to that stress. Martin tells Jonah that he can see the stress in his eyes. Martin then goes for coffee, leaving Elena alone with Jonah. Elena is silent and Jonah admits he and Kara had been fighting. He suggests that she had post-partum depression. He flashes back to seeing Kara upset at him for not going to the market. She was about to go herself, but he stopped her because it was late. She then scolded him for never being around. She told him that she thought they made a mistake. He asked if she regretted having a baby and she said she wasn't talking... about the baby. Jonah says she seemed okay the next morning, but now he thinks she may have just taken the baby and left. He thinks she may have had help.

Danny tells Samantha that he is going to subpoena Kara's medical records to check for depression. Vivian tells them that Terrence was found dead before Kara disappeared. She says that Becky's father was spotted in the gym parking lot the day Kara disappeared. Jack talks to Becky's father and he admits that he blames Kara's involvement in Becky's life for Becky's death. He says he misses his daughter. Jack says he wouldn't be able to forgive if he lost a child. Becky's father says it's a process. Jack asks if he is angry and wants to hold someone accountable. Jack asks why he was in the parking lot outside of the gym. Becky's dad then tells Jack he blames the police for his daughter's death. He says he was there because he lives nearby. He says he heard the fire alarm and went to check out what was happening. He says he saw someone take Kara off in a silver van. He says he didn't say anything because he was afraid the abductor saw him and would go after his wife and family.

Vivian tells Jonah that Kara was taken by some men. She asks if he can think of anyone who would have known they were going to be at the gym. Vivian says Jonah is not reacting normally to the news that his wife and child have been kidnapped. He says not everyone reacts the way she may want them to. He then says he is leaving unless she is going to put him under arrest. Danny tells Vivian that he will follow Jonah. She tells him it's a good idea.

Samantha and Lucy watch video of Kara and her son that they found on her laptop. They watch Jonah walk in and happily take their son off to play in another room. Kara then gets a call and says Jonah is in the other room. Samantha points out that Kara looked around for Jonah while she talked to the man on the phone. Samantha says she cross checked the phone records to the time stamp on the video and found out she was talking to a guy from her hometown. Vivian suggests that the guy could be an ex or a current boyfriend and he could even be the baby's father.

Danny follows Jonah to the bus station. He calls Jack and Jack tells Danny to stick with him. Elena makes a call to find out who rented the silver van Becky's father saw drive off with Kara. Danny tells Jack that Jonah just gave some money to a man. Danny asks if he should follow Jonah or the man he gave money. Elena then gets an answer from the car rental company and they learn Jonah rented the van. Danny then arrests Jonah.

Jonah tells Vivian that he can explain. Vivian asks if he knew Kara was talking to Tim. Jonah says Tim is not his son's father and adds that Tim is gay. Samantha walks in and says she got a notice that someone dropped the baby off at a hospital. Jonah asks who dropped him off. Vivian tells him that Jonah should have asked if the baby was okay. Jonah asks about Kara and Vivian says she is still missing. Vivian says Jonah seems more nervous now than he was when his wife and child first went missing. He tells Vivian that something must have gone wrong. He admits he and some buddies stole some money. He says he got away with it, but his friend Brody was caught. He remembers back to being with Kara and their child, then being approached by Brody. Brody told him that he got out of jail early. Jonah told his friend he was sorry. Brody demanded his half of the take. Jonah told him that he didn't have the money. Brody saw Kara and his baby and said he had two days to give him the money before he does what he wants to Kara and his kid. Jonah says he staged the abduction to keep Kara and the baby safe. Jonah says they went to hide at Tim's family's hotel. Jonah says he sold his wife's car to pay back Brody. Vivian suggests that Brody wanted more than money.

Samantha tells Jack that Brody's release matches Jonah's story. She and Jack then argue over whether or not they should prosecute Jonah. Samantha says he was just trying to protect his family. Jack and the team then go to Kara's hotel room and see it is ransacked. Jack meets with Tim and he says he doesn't know where Kara is. Tim remembers talking to Kara about how she loves being with Jonah. They heard a knock at the door and a voice identified himself as the police. They refused to open the door and the man demanded that Kara open the door. Kara then handed Tim her baby and told him to leave. Tim says he climbed out the window and went to the car. He says after he dropped the baby off at the hospital, he came back and Kara was gone.

Danny tells Martin that Brody was stopped in Atlantic City. Martin realizes that Brody wouldn't have time to get to Atlantic City and figures he is not the guy. Samantha then finds out that Steven O'Malley is one of Kara's abusive ex-boyfriends. They figure that an abusive ex matches the abductor's profile. The team searches for O'Malley, who is an officer. Samantha asks Jonah about O'Malley and he says he never knew about him. Samantha tells Jonah that O'Malley knew about Tim’s hotel and would have known she would hide out there. Jonah then remembers how Kara reacted when he told her about Brody. She was upset and made him swear to never do anything like that again. Jonah says he thinks Kara must have thought he was just like O’Malley. Jonah is then reunited with his son.

Vivian and Martin listen to a police scanner and get confirmation that O’Malley has Kara with him in his car. O’Malley asked Kara where his son was and she told him that she miscarried. She reminded him that he left her bleeding in the kitchen. He blamed her for killing his kid. He told her that he took her in. He then put a hand on her head and she fought him off. The detectives listen as O’Malley called for Kara to get back in the car. They hear gunshots follow and Vivian tells the team to search for 911 calls reporting gunfire.

The detectives head out to the location of the 911 call. They find a warehouse and search inside. One of the officers knocks a bottle down and O’Malley fires his gun. Elena tries to stop him, but O’Malley fires his gun at her. She dodges the bullets, then shoots O’Malley dead. The detectives call out for Kara, but get no answer. They hear crying and find Kara bleeding in a corner. Danny tells her that Steven is dead and her baby is with her husband. Meanwhile, Vivian tells Jonah that they found Kara and she is alright. Jonah cries tears of joy. Vivian then hands him the phone and he talks to Kara. Martin asks if they are going to call the DA. Vivian tells him that Sam is taking care of it.

Summary: A trial consultant goes missing and the team narrows down the list of suspects as they investigate her disappearance. Martin may develop personal feelings towards a juror on a trial the missing person was recently involved in. Sam & Jack learn to deal with Brian spending more time with Finn.

Jack takes Hanna to school and tells her to have a nice day. She ignores him, then tells him he doesn't have to walk her to school everyday. He tells her when he is convinced that she isn't doing anything bad, he will let her walk to school alone. Hanna then asks him to talk to her about his new girlfriend. She says he sees him smiling and talking to her on the phone all the time.

Protesters gather outside a courthouse and the news reports that the jury selection is beginning for a civil case against a chemical company. Inside the courthouse, the lawyers try to choose their jury members. The corporate attorney is coached by his younger aide on who to select to fix the jury. A woman named Gina watches the interaction and asks the young man if he wants to have coffee with her. She then gets a call and watches the man talk to another woman. The man then disappears.

Danny learns the missing man's name is Zack and he is working for the defense lawyer. Vivian realizes that there are a lot of people who would want him dead. Gina tells the detectives about the woman who was talking to Zack before he disappeared.

Vivian talks to Mary, Zack's boss, at the station. She shows Mary a drawing of the woman Gina saw with Zack, but Mary doesn't recognize her. Mary tells Vivian that Zack got into a fight with one of the plaintiffs the other day. She wanted to file a restraining order, but Zack told her he would be fine. She says she assumed the man was a plaintiff because he was present in the court everyday during jury selection. Vivian asks her to give them all the information about the case, but she says she can't without a warrant.
Martin and Elena look over Zack’s work history. Danny then sends a message and tells them that Zack’s girlfriend Liza died in a drunk driving accident two weeks ago. Elena asks if Zack was the driver. Martin says no, but he was drinking with her right before.

Samantha talks to Jack about getting the warrant. He then tells her about his conversation with his daughter. Sam asks what he told her about their relationship. Jack says he froze and didn’t say anything. Jack suggests that the three of them do something together. Sam asks for some time to process the idea.

Danny talks to Zack’s friend Chris. He says they were best friends. He says Zack blamed himself for his girlfriend’s death and he didn’t take time off to grieve. Danny shows him a drawing of the man who confronted Zack at the courthouse. Chris says the man was Adam, Liza’s brother. He remembers hanging out with Zack and Liza at the bar. Zack coaxed him into talking to a woman. Liza scolded Zack for teaching him how to prey on a woman’s vulnerabilities. The two got in a fight and Liza left. Adam says Zack tried to call later to apologize, but a cop answered her cell and told her she died. Chris says Adam said he wanted to kill Zack and called him non stop to make threats.

Elena gets a call that the NYPD found Adam’s car. Danny arrives at the scene and draws his gun. Danny sees blood splattered all over Adam’s face and tells him to get out of the car.

Samantha tells Martin that Adam was taken to the hospital and he is catatonic. Elena finds out that Zack’s boss made a move to have him fired. Vivian talks to Mary again and asks why she didn’t tell him about Zack’s problem. Mary says she wants to tell her, but it is confidential. She finally opens up and says Zack changed after his girlfriend died. She remembers Zack approached her and told her that he wanted to work for the other side. Mary told him that he was requested for another defense case. Zack told her that he wouldn’t defend someone who was obviously guilty. Mary told him to get a good night’s rest. Vivan clarifies that she had asked Zack to defend a mobster. Mary says yes and she had to get him fired for talking to an outsider about the case.

Jack walks into Sam’s place and sees Adam with Finn. Jack tells Adam that Sam is running late, then pours himself a drink. Jack looks at Finn, then jokes with Adam about how awkward their meetings are. Adam tells Jack that he wants to spend time with Finn and Jack says he understands.

Martin finds out that the woman that was talking to Zack before he disappeared was named Kim and she was a member of the jury that acquitted the mobster. Martin goes to Kim’s house, but she doesn’t answer. Martin sees a neighbor and she tells him that Kim is at a cabin upstate.

Danny tells Vivian that the blood type on Adam’s face matches Zack’s, but they have to wait for DNA evidence. Vivian tells Danny about the mob case. They then bring Adam in for questioning. Adam is silent and Elena and Danny tell him they’ll see him in 50-60 years. Adam says he never saw anyone die before. Elena asks him to tell them what he saw. Adam says he followed Zack from the courthouse to a place in Forest Hills. Zack told him that he found an address in his mailbox and asks if he put it there. Adam said no and Zack told him that his sister’s death wears away at him everyday. Adam told Zack that he knows it wasn’t his fault. He said Liza was the one who drank and drove, then Zack was shot in the neck by another man. The man then pointed his gun at Adam and he ran away.

Martin arrives at the cabin and enters through an open door. He calls out, but no one answers. He then draws his gun, but Kim sneaks up behind him with her weapon drawn and tells him to drop it. Martin suggests they both put their guns down, but he is the only one who does. He kicks the gun away, then tells her that he is going to slowly remove his badge from his coat pocket. Martin says he is investigating Zack’s death. She asks if they got to him and Martin asks who they are. Kim remembers that Zack came to her house and told him that he was at the mob trial. He told her that he understood why she did what she did. She told him that she didn’t want to talk to him. She says the next day, she saw one of the mob guys following her and he left a note on her car with a bullet taped to it. She says she gave the bullet to Zack because she was mad at him. Martin tells her he knows she isn’t telling him the whole story.

Vivian arrives at the scene of Zack’s murder. Elena calls and tells her Adam picked out the shooter from a line up and he is part of the mob. Elena says Kim was a juror in the mob trial and she may be in trouble. Elena tells Vivian that Martin went to her cabin to talk to her.

Martin asks Kim if she was involved with Zack’s death. He asks if someone threatened her during the trial. Kim doesn’t want to talk. She then remembers going to her car in a parking garage and was approached by a man. He told her she dropped something. She then looked in the bag and pulled out her mom’s broach. He asked if she was on the jury, then alluded to how easy it was to get to her mom. He told her to find the defendant not guilty. Martin tells Kim he can help her. He assures her that he won’t arrest her and asks her to give him her gun. She hands it over and tells him she’s sorry. A car then pulls up and Kim sees the man is the same one who threatened her. The man throws a grenade into the cabin and Martin and Kim are able to escape before it blows up.

Martin and Kim run through the woods. Martin gives Kim his phone and tells her to hit redial until someone answers. He tells her to stay calm, then takes off.

Vivian asks Elena if she could get a hold of Kim’s neighbor. Elena says not yet. Vivian then finds out that Kim’s uncle has a cabin and she thinks that is where they are.

Martin finds the man and they exchange gunfire. The man falls down and Martin walks up to see if he is dead. Martin sees that the man is wearing a bulletproof vest. The man then jumps up and takes out a knife. He knocks the gun out of Martin’s hand. Martin is able to wrestle the man to the ground and choke him to death. Kim watches the fight and Martin tells her the man is dead.

Martin brings Kim back to the station and tells Jack that the court is going to be lenient. Jack tells Martin he is going to have to see a shrink and he should take a couple of days off. Martin thanks Jack for his help and watches as Kim gives her statement.

Vivian tells Mary that Zack was found dead. Mary is stunned by the news. Vivian tells her that the good news is that the mobster will be retried. Mary realizes she caused Zack’s death. She says when she found out Zack talked about the case, she told the mobster’s lawyer. Vivian tells Mary that there was no way she could have known what would happen.

Sam meets up with Jack and he tells her that he is going to talk to Hanna later. Sam tells him that she decided they should all go out together and Jack says it’s great. Sam then offers to go out with Hanna alone and Jack tells her she is brave.

Martin has a drink in a bar. He then goes to Kim’s house and tells her he just wanted to make sure she was alright. She tells him she’s fine, then admits she has been having a hard time. She tells him that no one asked her about pulling a gun on him and thanks him for not telling. Martin gives her his card and tells her to call if she needs anything. Martin turns to leave, but Kim invites him in for coffee. He says yes, as long as she doesn’t hold him at gunpoint. Elena then remembers making a deal with the mob killer. He told her that he underestimated her and she said it happens a lot.

Summary: A billionaire’s son disappears after crash landing a small plane in the woods. Kim Marcus returns and her relationship with Martin develops.

Martin goes to Kim’s house and asks how well she knew her uncle Brian. Martin pulls out a ballistics report on her uncle’s gun and tells her that it was used in a robbery/homicide. Kim says her uncle would never do anything like that and says it must be a mistake. Martin says he just had to follow up on it. She tells him that he is a good man, then kisses him.

A woman meets a guy before his flight and asks if he really has to leave. He says that he has to meet with the clients. She asks if she can get any sympathy for being his pregnant wife. He says he knows things are tough, but promises it will get better. He gives her a kiss goodbye and tells her that she is in charge while he is gone. The man turns around and disappears.

After being missing for 15 hours, the detectives find the plane wreckage. Vivian wonders why the plane is in Pennsylvania if he was on his way to Maine. Danny asks why they are there and Vivian says it is because the missing person is billionaire Ross Anderson’s son Keith.

Samantha arrives at the office and Elena greets her with a hug. Samantha congratulates Elena on her engagement to Danny. Martin apologizes for breaking up the party, then tells them about Keith’s disappearance. He says it looks like he walked away from the plane. Elena says she knows Keith’s company isn’t doing well, but Samantha points out that his dad is extremely wealthy.

Keith’s wife Natalia is brought in to the station. She says Keith hasn’t taken a dime from his father. Vivian says she found out that Keith had no meetings scheduled in Maine and asks why he would be in Pennsylvania. Natalia says she has no idea. She tells Vivian that their marriage is good, but Keith has been under a lot of stress. She remembers going to Keith’s office after he spent the night there. She gave him some coffee and a change of clothes. He told her that he was going over the numbers, then realized that he was sounding like his dad. She told him to find the Keith way to solve the problem, not the Ross way. Keith told her that his dad told him to make sure to marry someone smarter than him. Natalia tells Vivian that Keith flew out later that day to try to solve the problems with the company.
Samantha learns that Brian is being released from the hospital. She complains that he can barely walk and asks who will take care of him. The nurse suggests that they hire someone to take care of him until he heals.

Jack talks to Ross about Keith’s disappearance. Ross asks if they know who kidnapped him. Jack asks what makes him think he was kidnapped. Ross says people know his son is worth a fortune and says it happened before. He says two years ago, his security team found out there was a plot and broke it up. He says Keith found out about the incident two weeks ago. Ross remembers talking to Keith about the kidnapping attempt and Keith told him to pull the surveillance. Jack asks if he did and Ross says he just told them to be more discreet.

Martin asks the local detective about the bank robbery that Kim’s uncle’s gun was used in. He says that he thinks Jimmy was the ringleader, but he disappeared. Martin shows him a picture of Kim and he recognizes her as Jimmy’s girlfriend. The detective remembers interrogating Kim and she told him that she was getting suspicious of Jimmy. She told him that Jimmy hit her and she was afraid he was going to kill her. She told him Jimmy took off and she had no idea where he went. The detective says he believed her, but later he found out she was the get away driver at the heist. The detective asks Martin to let him know if he finds out anything.

Lucy shows Danny video footage of a man messing with Keith’s airplane. She says she called the airport and found out he doesn’t work there. Samantha tells Vivian that no one recognizes the man at the plane. Vivian says that he sabotaged the plane and Samantha points out that it seems personal.

Elena sees Danny in the hall and asks if he knows where Martin is. Danny says he will look for him. Elena then goes to meet with Ross’s security guard. She shows him a picture of the man at the airport, but the guard doesn’t recognize him. He remembers seeing a guy a few days ago meet with Keith in a dark alley. Keith spotted him watching them and took off with the guy. He tells Elena that he didn’t tell Ross because Keith went with the guy willingly so he figured it wasn’t a risk. The guy that Keith went off with is then added to the list of suspects.

Martin watches his phone ring and ignores it. He remembers waking up at Kim’s house. She told him that she didn’t want to wake him up because he was so cute. He saw that she was reading the travel pages and asked where she was going. She said she would like to go anywhere. She asked if he ever wanted to go somewhere where no one knew who he was. Martin told her that he needs a traveling partner. She told him that you can’t get lost when you’re with someone else. He suggested that they get lost together and she told him she liked the idea. Danny walks in and asks Martin what’s wrong. Martin tells him he screwed up and tells him about the gun. Martin says that Kim won’t answer her cell phone. He then tells Danny that he left out the part where Kim pulled a gun on him in the report. He says the whole thing is a mess now. Danny tells Martin to forget about the situation and concentrate on finding her.

Samantha tells Vivian about a vehicle that was found near the crash site. She says a witness got a plate number. Samantha suggests that Keith may have been involved in drugs. She then pulls up the owner of the car and sees his name is Bill. He also fits the description of the man that the guard saw meeting with Keith.

Jack meets with Bill and he tells him that he is a blogger. He says Keith contacted him and he thought he was going to give him dirt on a competitor. Keith told him that his father had cancer and he printed the story. He says a couple days later Keith asked to meet him and demanded that he retract the story. He remembers that Keith told him that he lied about the story as payback against his dad. He refused to take back the story, but Keith threatened to tell the SCC about the insider trading. He tells Jack that he was in the middle of writing the retraction when they brought him in. He then adds that since the story, Ross’s business has been in sharp decline and he may have to go out of business.

Jack meets with Ross and finds out that Ross sold his business. Jack points out that it would give him a reason to be angry with his son. Ross says he doesn’t understand and Jack says Keith was the one who started the story. Jack asks why he didn’t tell him about the conversation his driver saw him having with Keith before he left. Ross remembers asking Keith about a large withdrawal he was making from his trust account. Keith told him that the money was for a guy that Ross put out of business. Ross remembers the two arguing and Keith telling him that he didn’t want anything else from him ever. Jack asks who the guy was and Ross says he was a competitor named Josh. The team sees that Josh is the guy who messed with Keith’s plane.

Elena talks to Josh’s wife and she says she can’t believe he would do something like that.
She says that they fell into debt and the bank just foreclosed on their house. She says that Josh became obsessed with Keith. She remembers him confronting Keith in a garage. Josh told Keith about her MS and Keith said he was sorry. Josh said he blamed Keith for their situation. Josh said that his business failed because he paid to have his merchandise slandered. Josh's wife tells Elena that she thought Josh was just venting and thought he got it all out of his system.

Samantha goes to Jack and he asks her about Brian. Samantha says it is complicated and it looks like he is going to have to live with her for a while. Jack is annoyed, but Samantha says she has no idea what else she can do. Jack coldly tells her that they will just do what they can. Samantha turns to leave and Jack says there is no way he will give Brian a sponge bath, making Samantha smile.

Vivian gets a call from the sheriff and learns that the people at the crash site recognized Josh. He tells her that no one has seen him since the crash. Vivian tells him to keep an eye out for him and says she will be there as soon as she can. Vivian meets with the sheriff and they work out a plan to find Josh.

Elena updates Natalia on the situation. Natalia blames Ross for the situation. She says that Keith was hoping they would have a girl and she understands why.

The search team spreads out in the woods. Vivian spots Josh and orders him to freeze. She asks him where Keith is and he says he doesn't know. She asks about the blood on his shirt and he tells her it was an accident. He remembers Keith found him in the woods and told him his plane went down. Josh pulled out a gun and told him that he ruined his life. Keith told him that he already gave him a check. Keith offered to help, but Josh said it was too late. Keith then went to grab the gun and Josh shot him in the gut. He tells Vivian that it happened about 45 minutes ago and when he came to, Keith was gone.

Martin tells Danny that he has been unable to find Kim. Martin then finds out that Kim was just credited back a security deposit for a storage locker she has.

Jack tells Ross that Josh confessed to shooting Keith. Ross asks if he can join the search and Jack says no. Ross asks if Jack is a father and he says he has two girls. Ross says he wishes he valued the time he had with his son more when he had the chance. He says he realizes that having Keith hate him is better than nothing at all.

The search continues for Keith. Vivian finally finds his body on the ground and calls for a medic. She tells Keith that they will get him out of there. Natalia and Ross meet Vivian at the site. She tells them that Keith has lost a lot of blood, but he will be fine. Keith is happy to see both his wife and his dad.

Martin and Danny see Kim at her storage locker. She sees them and starts to run. She pulls out a gun and tries to hide. Martin corners her and draws his gun. The two point their weapons at each other. She tells him that he should have let it go. She tells him that she wasn't involved in the robbery. Martin yells at her to stop lying. She tells him that Jimmy forced her to drive the car. Martin tells Kim to put down her gun. Danny then shows up and tells Kim to drop her gun. Kim yells at him to back off and Danny shoots her. Martin goes up to her and tells Danny to call an ambulance. He tells her that she will be okay, then picks her up and carries her away.

Summary: The team looks for a missing journalist after her hardcore exposés are published on an on-line magazine. They begin to suspect a politician, the subject of one of her latest entries. Meanwhile, Brian remains in Sam and Finn’s life.

A woman walks into a bar and orders a club soda. The bartender asks if she is okay and she assures him she’s fine. A man tells her she’s late and she apologizes. She asks the man if he has something for her. He demands more money, but she reminds him they had a deal. She then agrees and pulls out a wad of cash. He tells her to meet him outside for the exchange. The woman then disappears.

Sam takes care of Brian. He tells her that he is going to spend the day watching a DVD documentary about bees. She tells him she has to go. He assures her he’ll be fine and thanks her for her help.

Vivian tells Elena about Molly, a gossip reporter who disappeared after going to a bar. Vivian says her sister reported her missing. Molly paid for a cab ride to a bar and the bartender remembered seeing her give a man a wad of cash. Elena suggests that the reporter was buying information for a story.

Jack tells Martin and Danny that their report is impressive, but he wishes they told him the truth right away. Martin says Kim is recovering in the hospital. Jack scolds Martin for going to Danny with his problem instead of him. He tells Danny to leave, then asks Martin what he was thinking. Jack says there is no way he can cover for him. Martin says he is prepared to face the consequences. Jack tells Martin to think about what he did while he figures out a way to save his job.

Elena searches Molly’s apartment, but doesn’t find anything. Vivian discovers that Molly broke a story about a politician named Walsh who was caught up in a drug, hooker and fraud scandal. Vivian shows Elena footage of Assemblyman Walsh promising to go after Molly for slander.
Elena meets with Molly’s sister Cailyn. She says Molly was stressed out about the story. Elena asks if anyone made any threats against Molly. Cailyn says she doesn’t know of any threats.

Vivian and Jack go to the Walsh’s house and tell Mrs. Walsh that they want to talk to her husband about Molly’s disappearance. She says they don’t know anything. Mr. Walsh comes to the door and tells the detectives to get off her property. He says he can’t talk about Molly because of his pending court case. He tells them that unless they have a document that gives them permission to enter, they need to leave. Jack tells him that he hears screaming inside the house and goes to enter. Mr. Walsh blocks Jack and Vivian tells him they should leave.

Martin talks to Molly’s boss and he says Molly was really interested in breaking the Walsh story. He says he liked Molly, but he didn’t like her reaction to the court case. He remembers confronting her about inconsistencies with her story. He demanded to know who her source was, but she refused to tell him. She told him she would figure something out. Molly’s boss then goes on a rant about how reporters these days don’t care about accuracy.

Sam asks Cailyn if she knows who Molly’s source was. She says no, then gets a phone call from Molly. Molly tells Cailyn that she needs to get her out of there. Sam takes the phone and Molly tells her they poisoned her. Sam asks Molly where she is, but Molly starts screaming.

Vivan is able to trace Molly’s call to a behavioral clinic. She tells Elena that Molly checked herself in, but now she has gone missing. Martin goes to the clinic and asks Rachel, the manager, where Molly could be. He tells Rachel to get him a list of patients and employees.

Samantha talks to Molly’s doctor. He says she seemed stable and wasn’t paranoid. He remembers Molly went to him because she wanted to kill herself. He asked if she had tried before and she said once when she was a teenager. She told him she was tired of faking and was under a lot of pressure. She told him she was scared to let people know she is a fraud. She said she pretends to know what she is doing, but she really doesn’t know. She said she would rather die then have people discover she is a liar. He asked why she sought help. She said it was for her sister. The doctor tells Samantha that he gave her medicine, but it must not have been enough. Sam asks if he thinks she killed herself. He says it’s possible and she asks where her body is. Danny searches the suicide watch room and finds a bloody shirt. Sam updates Jack on the case. He tells her that the clinic seems normal. Sam tells him she misses him and she feels like she hasn’t seen him in a long time. He says they have both been pretty busy.

Vivian tells Cailyn that Molly was in a clinic. Cailyn is surprised to find out Molly was suicidal. Cailyn says it sounds like how Molly acted after their mom died.

Lucy goes to Jack with footage of Molly outside at the clinic with another patient. They see her getting beaten up by an unknown man. They figure he was the reason blood was on her shirt. They find out that the man is a paranoid schizophrenic named Bill. Martin talks to Rachel and she tells him Bill is in lockdown. Martin talks to Bill and asks why he hurt Molly. He says he didn’t hurt her. Matin pulls out a picture of him choking Molly. Bill tells him the man in the picture is Bill 2. Martin asks if Molly rejected him. He says Molly wasn’t mad at him and she told him they were good. He remembers Molly finding him in the game room. She gave him an apple and asked him who put him up to hurting her. She pointed out that every time she tried to talk to Isabella, he interrupted. Molly told him to stop because she is Isabella’s friend. They then agreed that they were good and Molly left. Martin asks Bill if someone put him up to interrupting her and Isabella. Bill becomes agitated and stops talking.

Elena researches Isabella. Danny finds out that Isabella was Mr. Walsh’s girlfriend. They figure Molly went to Isabella to be her source and Mr. Walsh tried to stop them from talking. Sam meets with Isabella and asks her what she told Molly. Isabella remembers Molly told her that she had to go public with her story. Isabella blamed Molly for making her slit her wrists. Molly apologized and Isabella told her to go away. Sam asks Isabella what happened to Molly after that. She says she doesn’t know. Sam begs Isabella to help and Isabella finally says an orderly named George was after Molly. Vivian tells the team that the orderly went missing four hours ago.

The team then goes to the Walsh’s house with a search warrant. Jack tells Walsh that they know he hired George to go after Molly. Jack says they have phone records to back it up. Walsh goes to call his lawyer. Jack tells him to go ahead so that he can call the press and tell them about the case. Walsh puts his phone away and tells Jack he just had George drug Molly and sneak her out of the clinic. He remembers Molly waking up in his car and asking where she was. He told her that she asked him to meet him and she said she didn’t remember. He offered to pay her off, but she said she didn’t care about him anymore. He said he didn’t believe her. Molly told him to apologize to his family and she would be done with him. She told him to leave Isabella alone and she would agree to stop pursuing the story against him. He agreed to the deal and Molly left. Jack tells him he doesn’t believe he would go to so much trouble just to let her wander away.

Vivian tells Jack that the house and car are clean, but the housekeeper heard a fight between Mr. and Mrs. Walsh. The housekeeper said they argued about Molly, then his wife took off. Jack asks Walsh where his wife is. He says she was watching him talk to Molly. He remembers she got into his car and said she just wanted to make sure he didn’t screw it up. He assured her it was taken care of, but she didn’t think Molly would really drop the story. He then got a call and told his wife to get out of the car so he could take the call. He says Jack was the one calling and he didn’t want his wife to follow him home.

Molly returns home and tells Cailyn she is responsible for Isabella trying to kill herself. Molly tells Cailyn she feels like she is caught in a loop. Cailyn offers to help Molly. She asks her to go with her to tell her editor she lied. Meanwhile, Danny finds out Molly was spotted four blocks away from Cailyn’s place.

Cailyn hears a knock at the door. She opens the door and Mrs. Walsh points a gun at her. Molly tells her it’s over and she isn’t going to run with the story. The team then arrives and tells Mrs. Walsh to drop her gun.

Martin meets with Jack. He says their boss agreed to let him off with a letter of censure because of his superior level of service. Jack tells Martin that he may be off the hook with him, but he is still in trouble. Jack tells Martin he can’t do anything within the unit without his approval. Martin says he understands.

Sam tells Brian about her day. He asks what it feels like to hold a gun on someone and save someone else’s life. Sam says she doesn’t want to make a mistake and get someone killed. He says it sounds stressful. He suggests she watch the bees with him to relax and Sam agrees.

Summary: A teen, last seen on video being agitated around her abductor, goes missing, and the team must do all they can to find her before it’s too late!

It’s family movie night and dad brings home a special treat. While passing a street vendor he buys a pirated copy of Shrek 6. The family gathers around, popcorn in hand, ready to watch. But when dad hits play what appears on the screen is Blair Witch-style video of a terrified asian girl tied to a chair in a dank basement being psychologically tormented by an unseen captor. Is this a prank or a snuff film? As our Agents analyze the footage it becomes clear that this is real. This girl is in trouble, but who is she? As the captor tells her she’s going to die soon, the girl vanishes. With little to go on, our Agents have to move fast to ID this girl. The video reveals a tattoo on the girl that leads them to a tattoo shop in Chinatown. Our missing girl has a name, STACEY WU, (17), a talented artist and straight-A student, whose boyfriend, Frankie, recently overdosed on prescription drugs. Stacey was devastated and his loss sent her down a troubling path. But Frankie led a troubled life of his own. Did Stacey’s heartbreak lead her into the arms of a dangerous new man, or have Frankie’s troubles finally come back to haunt her?

The investigation takes a startling turn when our Agents discover the danger to Stacey was much closer to home. Was she the victim of her Stepfather when she discovered his lucrative trade in harvesting human organs for sale on the black-market? Or was it an act of retribution by Frankie’s mother, a woman obsessed with Chinese tradition who blames Stacey for her son’s death. As our Agents race to unravel a knot of Old World Chinese traditions and New World secrets they discover the answer may lie in Stacey’s eternal love for Frankie. A love that may ultimately kill her.

Season Episode: 23

Originally aired: Tuesday May 12, 2009
Writer: Hank Steinberg, Alicia Kirk, Jan Nash
Director: Eric Close
Show Stars: Marianne Jean-Baptiste (Vivian Johnson), Enrique Murciano (Danny Taylor), Poppy Montgomery (Samantha Spade), Anthony LaPaglia (Jack Malone), Roselyn Sanchez (Elena Delgado), Eric Close (Martin Fitzgerald)
Recurring Role: Adam Kaufman (Brian Donovan), Vanessa Marano (Hanna Malone)
Guest Stars: Adrian Alvarado (Cop), Wendy Makkena (Jubilee), Roberta Hanlen (Mrs. Hanson), Christopher Close (ND Agent), Peter Spellos (Vic), Alex Feldman (Johnny Pomransky), Deborah Van Valkenburgh (Margot), Kendall Schmidt (Shay Hanson)
Summary: After Hannah’s boyfriend disappears from Chicago along the way to New York, Jack hesitates to assign the team on his case.

Hannah Malone bounds out of school to find her Chicago boyfriend, Shay, waiting for her. They kiss, but she’s nervous – he’d better go before her dad shows up. Jack has no idea Shay’s been in New York for the past couple weeks. Shay makes Hannah promise to meet him that night for dinner, and she excitedly agrees. This is teenage love at its most swoon-inducing. As Shay walks off, the wind at his back, he... vanishes.

A panicked Hannah confesses all to her father – that Shay had come to the city to kick-start his life as a graphic novelist and to resume their relationship – and begs him for help. Jack, roiling with emotions, takes on the case unofficially. He contacts Shay’s parents in Chicago, who’ve written him off as a chronic runaway. Did Shay run away again, this time abandoning Hannah? Or were the dangers of New York City visited upon the kid? Jack and his team delve into Shay’s short time in the city and find threats coming from Shay’s new job at a chop shop in Brooklyn. Did the shady owner kill him because he believed him to be an undercover informant? Jack and Hannah wrestle with their fraught parent/child dynamic in order to piece together Shay’s hidden life. When Jack discovers that a friend of Shay’s from Chicago has turned up in New York, he uncovers a tragic accident that haunts Shay, which might have led to his demise. As the pieces cascade into place, Jack tries to locate his daughter’s boyfriend before it’s too late.

Season Episode: 24

Originally aired: Tuesday May 19, 2009
Writer: Hank Steinberg, David Amann, Greg Walker
Director: Jeannot Szwarc
Show Stars: Marianne Jean-Baptiste (Vivian Johnson), Eric Close (Martin Fitzgerald), Anthony LaPaglia (Jack Malone), Poppy Montgomery (Samantha Spade), Enrique Murciano (Danny Taylor), Roselyn Sanchez (Elena Delgado)
Recurring Role: Martin Landau (Frank Malone), Adam Kaufman (Brian Donovan), Vanessa Marano (Hanna Malone), Stacy Kesten (ND Agent)
Guest Stars: Loanne Bishop (Mrs. Feretti), Amanda Tepe (Kelly), Samantha Adams (Social worker), Dominic Flores (Andrew Reese), Gattlin Griffith (Travis Feretti), Alicia Leigh Willis (Marie Feretti), Kenneth Mitchell (Derek Wilson)
Summary: After a late night dive, a man disappears and the team tries to determine the cause of his disappearance. Meanwhile, Danny and Elena prepare to make the next step in their relationship.

Derek Wilson meets girlfriend Robin and her son Travis (not Derek's) at a park. It's a happy family moment as they share donuts and hot chocolate. Derek gets a phone call and tells Maria he's got to go to work.

We cut to Derek pulling on a wetsuit as the charter boat he rides skips over whitecaps in the frigid Atlantic. The Skipper powers down at their destination. Derek pulls a mask into place and plunges into the dark water. From Derek's underwater POV: An ocean floor littered with junk, but amid the debris – a thick metal chain. Derek follows it and finds it coiled around the feet of a dead man – the body swaying lifeless in the current. And behind this body, two more bodies similarly weighted down. Derek surfaces, tossing his mask onto the deck. "Find what you were after?" asks the Skipper. Derek only nods. Back at shore, Derek lugs his gear down the dock with a heavy step... and vanishes.

Our Agents note with suspicion that Derek did not report the bodies to the police and that as the Manager of a sporting goods store, he'd have access to weapons. Given the execution style murders, we theorize that Derek could be moonlighting as a hit man. Derek's cousin and Co-worker, KELLY, denies this. Derek's a stand up guy with deep roots in the community. Was Derek complicit in the murders? Or did his discovery of the bodies prompt the true murderers to silence him? Our investigation turns when we find signs that Robin was forcibly abducted from her apartment and Travis hiding in a closet, traumatized. Could she have been taken as leverage over Derek? Probing Derek's past, our agents discover that he worked as an oil rig diver. New evidence suggests Derek could be a victim of coercion for an underwater salvage operation. While our agents try to zero in on the perpetrators, Jack seeks to unlock key information from Travis' memory, knowing it will make the difference between finding Derek and Robin alive or dead...

On the personal front, Danny and Elena marry but Jack and Samantha decide to break up.
